Five More Pages in Next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph

James W Gerard, former United States Ambassador to Germany, in commenting on the World War pictures being published in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers, said:

"These pictures are the best argument for a big navy that I have ever seen. They will certainly make people think.

"They should make the public realize that for adequate national defense the United States must possess a greatly expanded naval force.

"Nor is the Navy alone enough. The Army should have a strong staff of experts in all branches of military practice so that it could be enlarged quickly to meet any emergency. For peace time, I think, it should be slightly larger than at present."

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THOSE PUZZLED by our American crime wave, murderers and other criminals who enter in prison only to be shortly released, the constant growth of crime, kidnaping and so on, need be surprised no longer.

After reading the account of conditions in New York's prison "Welfare Island," they will realize that the question is not:

"Why cannot the United States cope with crime?" but "Why is not crime ten times worse than it is?"

THESE ARE the facts, established and related by the Mayor LaGuardia's new commissioner, MacCormick, in charge of New York prisons.

Welfare Island, with sixteen hundred inmates, is located in the East River and clearly visible, as the reporter tells you almost tearfully, "to New York's social registerites that live in Sutton place."

The details concerning this prison, run by criminals, are incredible. Some, regarding horrible depravity, are too dreadful to be mentioned.

A SMALL group of convicts, well known in the world of crime, have managed prison affairs, giving orders to officials in charge. The warden, Joseph A. McCann, has been relieved of his duties, and his deputy, Daniel F. Sheehan, was put "under military arrest" in his quarters.

The head man in the prison's convict government is Joie Rao, well known racketeer, formerly "boss of the Harlem policy game racket." Under him, a convict "board of strategy" included Bosco Mazzio, Eddie Cleary and Peter Kenny, well-known gangsters.

THE CONVICT rulers of the prison lived in great comfort in agreeable quarters in the prison hospital, "while in one corner of the workhouse, in a room into which light never penetrates, were found drug addicts herded together under conditions of indescribable filth."

JOIE RAO, chief of the convict board of strategy, was waited on by other convicts, his orders obeyed by sycophantic officials in charge of the prison. He handled the money.

He had an electric icebox well filled with all sorts of delicacies in his quarters, and a private telephone near his bed was provided with earphones, that he might send out his orders to drug-dealers, bootleggers and vile criminals while lying down resting.

Convict Cleary, one of the "strategy board," kept a police dog chained to the foot of his bed, presumably to protect him from miserable frenzied creatures who bought drugs.

COMMISSIONER MacCORMICK, leading a squad of forty detectives, raiding this criminally managed prison exactly as he would have raided any other vile dive, was hooted by the sixteen hundred prisoners.

Pieces of iron pipe and stones were thrown at his squad of detectives, convicts desiring to show the "new broom" of the La Guardia regime that they couldn't suppress convict management or interfere with profits from drug and whisky sales.

After Commissioner MacCormick had finished his visit, the convicts realized that prison rule by Messrs. Rao, Cleary, Mazzio and Kenny, with attendant drug profits and exploitation of miserable addicts, would be interrupted for a while.

The commissioners found in the prison "an unbelievable quantity of narcotics, hypodermic needles and weapons, including long-handled razors, meat-cutters, iron bars, kitchen and table knives, sharpened to a razor's edge, a surgeon's scalpel, many bludgeons and sling-shots," and took drastic action.

Previously employed by the government in a federal prison, Commissioner MacCormick put Welfare Island under martial law, every convict, including all the "board of strategy," was locked in his cell.

The warden was suspended, his assistant arrested.

THIS "American prison" story is told thus at length because it is important for as many Americans as possible to know just how their political system acts "to discourage crime."

Senator Copeland, the head of a Senate committee, planned to do something about crime, said the great difficulty is that so many criminals have deadly pistols.

Col. Frank B. Shutts asked how many criminals, in Senator Copeland's opinion, had pistols, and, told that Senator Copeland thought "about two million," replied:

"If only two million have pistols, the other hundred and twenty-one million Americans ought to be able to take care of them."

THEY OUGHT, but they can't while their own officials sell out to criminals, their eminently respectable citizens set the example of law-breaking and defiance of the Constitution, some minor judges publicly attend banquets given in their honor by well-known gangsters and murderers, and part of the proceeds of the crime wave, running into billions a year, is devoted to wholesale bribery of public officials.

SUCH A PICTURE as is revealed in revelations of "Welfare Island" conditions has never before been dreamed of in any country calling itself half-civilized.

Nothing is told, for it is impossible to describe conditions in print about the unspeakably vile conditions of depravity and de-

CLUE IN NOTE GUNMAN TRIED TO EAT

$400,000 Bonds Set In Court Guarded By Machine Guns

International News Service.

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 26.—With four members of the notorious Dillinger gang in jail as the result of the smart detective work of what they thought was a "hick town" police force, federal and local authorities moved swiftly today in an effort to connect the desperadoes with the kidnaping of Edward Bremer, rich St. Paul (Minn.) banker.

A tiny scrap of paper which Harry Pierpont, 39, known as the gang's "rub out" man, attempted to swallow as he was arrested was believed to be the clue that may link the Mid-Western gangsters with the abduction of Bremer, who is being held for $200,000 ransom.

Police forced Pierpont to cough up the note. They said he was trying desperately hard to swallow it. The contents of the paper were not revealed, but were said to be of a nature that led police to think that at least the Dillinger gang is acquainted with the Bremer plot.

SURPRISE RAIDS

Seized in the smooth succession of surprise raids late yesterday were John Dillinger, notorious outlaw and accused bank robber and killer; Pierpont, known as "The Killer;" Charles Makley, 50, "The Smooth Talker," and "Rub 'Em Out" Russel Clark, 39.

In addition, three women were arrested, one of whom identified herself as Ann Martin, Dillinger's wife.

Flanked by 25 crack riflemen, the four desperadoes and the three women were brought into court this morning charged with being fugitives from justice. Because of their past record for jail breaking, every effort has been taken to prevent a jail delivery here. Machine guns have been mounted in strategic points, and

McNair Seeks Snee's Post For Aide

Mayor William N. McNair today put forward his assistant secretary, Theodore L. Moritz, as a candidate for the Common Pleas Court post made vacant by the death of Judge Sylvester J. Snee. Judge Snee's funeral will be held tomorrow.

A letter addressed to Gov. Pinchot asked him to appoint Moritz. It bore the Mayor's rubber-stamp signature. Moritz delayed posting it until he could obtain his chief's penned signature.

Roosevelt May Give Birthday Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is seriously considering a talk over the air to the people who will be celebrating his fifty-second birthday on Tuesday night, but a definite decision has not been reached.

It was stated at the White House today that if the President does talk he will be impelled by the reason of acknowledging the national interest in the effort to stamp out infantile paralysis.

Hunting Alone

DR. JOHN F. CONDON

JAFSIE ON LONE KIDNAP HUNT

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A 74-year-old man has dedicated his remaining years and his modest life savings to a single-handed hunt for the men who got away with $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh kidnap case.

Dr. John F. Condon, of New York—the famous "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh case—continued today his scrutiny of rogues' photographs at detective headquarters here, the twenty-seventh city he has visited.

It was Dr. Condon who, immediately following the abduction of the baby Lindbergh in March, 1932, attempted to establish contact with the kidnapers by means of advertisements which he signed "Jafsie" (J. F. C.)

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was impressed by the Jafsie negotiations, and posted the ransom of $50,000. Dr. Condon paid it over in a Bronx, N. Y., cemetery, but later it was learned the baby had been killed the night of the abduction.

Dr. Condon today said:

"Since then some people have suspected me of having kept the money. I have set out to prove my innocence."

Illness of Traylor Now Nearing Crisis

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Melvin A. Traylor, 55, president of the First National Bank, was reported steadily holding his own today in his fight against pneumonia.

Dr. William R. Cubbins said the crisis was expected today.

FINANCIER'S SON FOUND SLAIN

Thomas Barclay, III, Discovered Dead, Gun Nearby

Thomas Barclay III, socially and financially prominent in Westmoreland County, walked out of St. Francis Hospital, where he had been a patient, and was found today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Barclay, in his fashionable Greensburg home with a bullet in his head.

He died in the Westmoreland Hospital at Greensburg shortly after noon.

Barclay, 30 years old, had been employed until a few months ago in the Barclay-Westmoreland Trust Company, one of Greensburg's largest banks.

BEAT WATCHMAN

Last Tuesday, it is said, he became embroiled in an argument with Daniel Ross, 53, watchman at the bank. A beating administered to Ross by Barclay sent the watchman to the hospital, where he is still confined.

Yesterday, Barclay was admitted to St. Francis Hospital. Shortly before 10 o'clock last night, he got out of bed, according to hospital attaches, dressed himself and walked out.

Hospital authorities notified his parents early today and they went to his home, where they found him lying on a bed, a bullet hole in his temple and a gun lying nearby.

The elder Barclay is an official of the bank.

MARRIED IN JUNE

The son was married last June to Flora Wike, of Brevard, N. C. The wedding was one of the fashionable events of the Asheville season, where the bride is prominent socially. She now is reported confined to a Pittsburgh hospital. She was not informed of her husband's death.

House Hits Project Of Mrs. Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—The House today adopted an amendment to the Postoffice supply bill prohibiting use of funds to operate a mail box equipment factory on the Reedsville (W. Va.) subsistence homestead project sponsored by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The action was taken after Representative Ludlow (Dem.), of Indiana, declared that the factory would destroy the business of an Indianapolis (Ind.) factory and put several hundred men out of work.

Wife Charges Mate Kidnaped Children

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret Liggett Willits obtained a warrant today charging her former husband, John MacGregor Willits, with kidnaping the two children whose custody had been awarded her by two court decisions.

Willits has been ordered to yield the children to her today. Instead, he was missing from his home and it was reported he had taken Jane, 6, and Anne, 2, to Mexico.

Lupe in Seclusion To Cool 'a Leetle'

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Lupe Velez, pretty Mexican film star, went into seclusion today following her 10-day "trial separation" from her actor-swimmer husband, Johnny Weissmuller. The red-headed actress said:

CITY HEALTH HEAD O.K.'S $1 LIQUOR

'But It's Not Whisky,' Moyer Says; New Brand Promised

"Sweepstakes," the dollar whisky, passed city inspection today and a few hours later, State Liquor Chairman Robert S. Gawthrop announced another low price whisky may soon be stocked in state liquor stores.

In official terms, "Sweepstakes" is not whisky, but it is drinkable and not more detrimental to health than any other liquor, Health Director Ray P. Moyer declared. He said:

"It all depends on the way you drink it. Any alcoholic beverage taken in excess of its food and stimulating values is harmful."

LACKS 'AGE'

Complete chemical examination showed that "aging" is the one thing it lacks which good whisky should have, eLicester Patten, chief chemist for the Bureau of Food Inspection, said. This fact makes it not "whisky" in official terms.

The new liquor being considered by the state would sell at a price between the $1-a-fifth for "Sweepstakes" and the next lowest price of $2.05 for whisky at state stores, Cawthrop said.

SEEK FOREIGN LIQUOR

Every effort is being made to obtain a sufficient quantity of imported foreign liquors, the state chairman said.

An end of the "drought" of Scotch whisky is practically at hand, according to word from Harrisburg. State warehouses have received 4,000 cases and are distributing it today, International News Service reported.

U. S. Protests 'Pure' On Liquor Labels

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—No liquor label, the Federal Alcohol Control Administration believes, should use the word "pure."

The FACA suggested today at a meeting of representatives of the liquor industry that, instead, liquor should be designated as "straight," "blended" or "imitation."

Husband Deserts When Twins Arrive

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Her husband, John, didn't want any children, Mrs. Gladys Farley said today. Then, when he was just about to become a father, however, he became reconciled to the idea.

But when it turned out to be twins—Farley left her the day they were born, she said in a suit for divorce filed today.

Subtle British Diplomacy Weaning America Away From Its Traditional Neutrality

This is the fifth of six articles by William Hillman, London representative and chief of staff of the European correspondents of the Hearst papers.

Mr. Hillman's articles, obtained from state documents or authoritative statements of foreign government officials, probably will give America a clearer insight into the attitude and objectives of the Washington administration than can be obtained from news sources here at home.

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

JUST HOW FAR European governments have been led to expect a presidential promulgation committing the United States to a new policy of international entanglement may be seen in the Associated Press dispatch from Paris printed in the American papers on the nineteenth of the present month of January.

The dispatch forecast the ending of the "traditional neutrality" policy of the United States in the following words:

"We hope," Premier Camille Chautemps told the Senate, in commenting on President Roosevelt's "capital message" to the Wilson Foundation recently, "that the President will go so far as to say that NEUTRALITY in the face of an aggressor CAN NO LONGER BE MAINTAINED."

JUST AS THE MONROE DOCTRINE had its inspiration in the brain of a British statesman, this new doctrine, which European governments have been led to believe may be declared and established by presidential proclamation without the consent of the Senate of the United States or the people of the United States, GROWS OUT OF A BRITISH FORMULA.

Mr. Davis made his statement regarding the abandonment of American neutrality at Geneva on May 22, 1933. The text of his statement dealing with the question WAS AGREED UPON:

First, between British and American representatives at Washington in April.

Second, during the visit of Premier MacDonald to President Roosevelt.

What is further noteworthy is that the text follows closely the text of a proposed declaration suggested by Sir Arthur Salter, noted British diplomat, former financial adviser to the League of Nations, and author of "Recovery."

It reveals how gradually the attempt is being made to build a bridge between Washington and the League of Nations.

SIR ARTHUR SALTER, writing in his book, "Recovery," published in 1932, declares that the world's fundamental problem is to establish a "collective" system of settling disputes.

"The way to its solution," he writes, "is, I believe, to be found, and in the near future to be found only, By STRENGTHENING THE LEAGUE AND THE KELLOGG PACT and in co-ordinating them so that in practice THEY OPERATE AS A SINGLE INSTRUMENT.

"Now, in strengthening the peace machinery, and establishing confidence in it, let us say frankly at once, there is little or nothing more that Europe can do.

"Every engagement into which European countries may enter is at present undermined by a complete uncertainty as to America's attitude.

"We do not know whether America would in fact exercise her influence at a time of crisis to prevent war, and to secure a settlement by pacific means.

"We do not even know that, for reasons quite independent of the issue itself, she would not interfere with the action taken for this purpose by members of the League.

"We do not know that if economic pressure were exercised by League members in accordance with their engagements against one of their number whom America herself recognized to have resorted to war in breach both of the covenant and Kellogg pact, America would not protect the interests of her commerce under pre-war rule as to the right of neutrals and belligerents.

"And whilst these uncertainties exist, it is impossible that European countries should have sufficient confidence in the collective system to modify their national policies.

"What is needed if the world is to feel that America is really a source of strength and not of possible weakness to the structure on which peace depends is an official definition and declaration of the American attitude."

SIR ARTHUR SALTER then suggests that the United States make the following declaration:

"That the principle of the Kellogg pact, condemning war as an instrument of national policy, is one which will not only determine America's own policy, but will be the criterion with reference to which she will determine her action towards the actions of other signatories;

"That she will not recognize that any country which

MAYOR SEES OWN PLANS IGNORED

'Red Herring' to Balk Ground Rent Levy, He Charges

Councilman John J. Kane's program of utility taxation was described today by Mayor William N. McNair as a "red herring" designed to sidetrack his own proposal to collect ground rents.

The Mayor said Council's utility taxation hearing held yesterday was designed to make the people forget his ground rent taxation plan and exemption of new homes from taxation. He said:

"Who ever is in back of him (Kane) wants to confuse the issue."

Informed the new home exemption plan was likely to get favorable consideration in Council, McNair said:

"Well, then I won't worry about that red herring."

Members of Council, meanwhile, warned the public utilities must not attempt to pass along to consumers the tax on meters proposed by Kane. Utility officials were heard in the stormy Council session yesterday.

Several of the executives inferred they will take both the proposed ordinance and the state act which is behind it into court, if Council presses the point. Council seemed inclined to do that.

A new anti-utility bloc appeared to be in process of formation in the persons of Kane, Thomas J. Gallagher and William A. Magee.

SLOT MACHINE WAR PUSHED

Police Sergt. Ben R. Marshall today said he would ask aid of District Attorney A. T. Park in clearing the city and county of slot machines. Many operators have moved outside city limits, he asserted.

Marshall also announced he had ordered an investigation of an alleged association of slot machine operators with headquarters in the city.

Evidence of the existence of the association was uncovered in a raid on the home of Gus George, of 1807 Westmont street, where 88 slot machines were seized. A postcard announcement of a meeting of the operators a week ago last Tuesday was found. It stated:

"This is just a hint to you that if your business as an operator is worth a nickle or 50 grand it's to your vital interest to be on hand.

"Your machines are down, are they not? Do you want them up again? It won't cost you a dime. Just be there with your moral support, that's all."

NEW TAX BILL DESIGNED TO STOP DODGING BY BANKERS

CAPITAL PROBES CWA GRAFT CHARGES

Public Works Agents Investigate 150 Complaints

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP). —Complaints of graft in the civil works organization, coming from all but three states, today were under the scrutiny of a corps of Public Works Administration investigators.

The division of investigation of the public works organization was requested by the Civil Works Administration to sift out the 150 charges of graft and other irregularities that had come either to the Interior Department or to the White House and had been turned over to Secretary Ickes.

In the main, the complaints involved charges of unjust discrimination in the selection of civil workers, but there also existed a scattering of charges of padded payrolls, falsification of expense accounts and in a few instances active job selling.

LAWS SCRUTINIZED

Legal experts of the government said laws already existed for prosecution of all the complaints except unjust discrimination and that it was possible further study would uncover a statute relating to that.

The states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine were reported to be the only ones from which graft complaints had not been received.

Of these 150 complaints, it was disclosed, not more than 15 had been turned over for investigation by the Department of Justice. Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan said there were not more than three complaints in his office in connection with the Public Works Administration.

Two Investigators Here Probing CWA Charges

Two investigators from Pennsylvania Civil Works Administrator Eric H. Biddle's office were reported to be in Pittsburgh today and their presence indicated the administrator's probe into political "wire-pulling" in CWA placements had begun.

The state investigation into CWA activities here was expected. Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, in absolving Biddle from any political favoritism a week ago, indicated a Federal probe would not be conducted unless the results of an investigation by Biddle warranted it.

The investigators were reported to have interviewed disappointed job seekers who had charged their applications for CWA work were turned down because they lacked sufficient political influence.

U. S. TO SPEED AIR MAIL SUITS

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Department of Justice will proceed at once with prosecutions of all criminal violations or conspiracies brought to light by the Senate's air mail investigation, Attorney General Cummings said today.

The statement corroborated an exclusive story by Universal Service that the Justice Department was planning to ask for indictments against nearly a score of persons involved in the committee's revelations to date.

Cummings said Carl L. Ristine, air mail assistant to the attorney general, will co-operate closely with Postoffice Department Solicitor Crowley in following up without delay the evidence produced by Senator Black's committee.

Cummings said Ristine was appointed to "give the department some one who is completely responsible for all these air mail and ocean mail matters."

DePriest, Aide Lunch At Cafe in Capitol

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —Morris Lewis, secretary to Representative DePriest (Rep.), of Illinois, ate lunch in the public dining room at the Capitol yesterday. DePriest, the only Negro in Congress, was with him.

Necks were craned from all sides as they took a table along the wall near the center of the crowded room. Lewis and a companion were refused service recently upon orders from Congressman Warren (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman of the Accounts Committee.

Valuable City, County Books Lost, CWA Bares

Historical Papers In Peril, Survey Chief Declares

Lack of storage space has already caused the loss of many historically valuable city and county records and endangers many others, Dale Morford, Allegheny County supervisor for the state CWA archives survey, revealed here today.

For more than a month, 15 experienced research workers have been taking an inventory of all historical documents in the county.

One list, giving a description and location of the records, will go to Curtis W. Garrison, state archivist, and another to the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania.

In many offices workers examining records in both the City-County Building and the Courthouse have already discovered the loss of hundreds of volumes, Morford says.

Many of the records, he pointed out, are stacked in basement storerooms like old lumber, dust covered, and difficult to examine and catalog.

Blaming inadequate shelf room for the trouble, Morford said:

"Due to a lack of space, it has been necessary for county officers in years past to destroy obsolete records which are often historically valued. In some cases, the records have been lost in the shuffle. Others were burned in a fire which once razed City Hall."

FLOOD CONTROL FUNDS ASKED

A renewed request for approval of the Pittsburgh flood control project and for a larger PWA appropriation for Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh district is contained in a letter from Congressman Henry Ellenbogen to Harold L. Ickes, PWA administrator, Ellenbogen revealed today.

The letter, the Congressman states, was in answer to a request from Ickes for the names of all unduly delayed PWA projects in his district.

Ellenbogen points out that more than 50 million dollars have been recalled to the PWA treasury because of cancelled dilatory projects. Reminding Ickes that sentiment in this section is that Pennsylvania has not received a just share of Public Works awards, he urged that projects from this district, including the flood control plan, should receive prompt attention.

U. S. BANK QUIZ NATION-WIDE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Sweeping investigation in every major financial center in the nation to determine if criminal activities precipitated the 1932-1933 nation-wide bank crash has been started by the Department of Justice.

Agents have been sent to New York, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and other cities where there were failures of big institutions with resulting loss of hundreds of millions to depositors and stockholders.

Revelations of the inquiry came after Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, suddenly brought out at yesterday's Senate Banking Committee probe of Detroit banks that Justice agents then were in the room.

VetsUrged to Support Senator Reed's Plan

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—(INS.) —Support for Senator David A. Reed's four-point program for increasing veterans' compensations was urged by Robert Doran, of Wilkes-Barre, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans, at the fourth annual convention here today.

Doran recommended a nation-wide system for registering and fingerprinting all citizens as a means of checking crime.

Air Mail Fund Cut Rejected in House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—The House today rejected an amendment to the Treasury-Post Office bill which would have cut more than $30,000,000 from the fund set aside for ocean and air mail service.

It was sponsored by Representative Case (Rep.), of Minnesota, and would have reduced the fund from $37,500,000 to $4,750,000.

McCloskey Calls Truce In War on Blue Laws

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Some gestures toward a peaceful settlement of Johnstown's muddled blue law situation were made today by Mayor Eddie McCloskey, author of the order that all Sunday business must cease just to show how "ridiculous" blue laws are.

Two dozen businessmen who defied the Mayor's lid-clamping order last Sunday appeared before him in Police Court for a friendly talk.

In his role of magistrate, McCloskey continued their cases until next Thursday. In his role of crusader against Sunday closing laws, he asked the violators to appear before Council Monday and ask it to repeal the blue laws.

In the meantime he declared a truce, telling the businessmen police will not molest them this week, pending some decision from the Council. If the lawmakers continue in their stand, McCloskey said, "then we'll begin all over again the next week."

The Mayor also announced he will meet with the Ministerial Association later today and confer with them on what hours are best suited for Sunday movies. The association has opposed the Sunday shows and complained to Council.

McCloskey was outspoken in his stand that "we will have Sunday shows in Johnstown," but added he did not wish that church services be interfered with and hoped to reach a compromise with the ministers.

The shows were dark last Sunday but operators said they will run this week.

HOOVER PLANS NEW YORK VISIT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —Lawrence Richey, former White House secretary, said today that former President Hoover was coming East "sometime soon," but was unable to give a definite date.

Richey, who has been associated with the former President for years, said he knew Mr. Hoover had some personal matters to attend to in New York City and planned the journey for this purpose. He added:

"I don't know when this will be." It may be three or four weeks or longer."

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure that covered the plains states yesterday, with its center over the central plains, moved southward to the Gulf states and diminished considerably in pressure, while the northwestern low pressure spread rapidly eastward over the northern plains to the Great Lakes. Pressure is now relatively high from the South Atlantic states westward over the Gulf states to the panhandle of Texas, thence northwestward to Washington and Oregon and low north and south of this belt. There was some rise in pressure over this section since yesterday morning, causing a marked drop in temperature over the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region while the falling pressure in the West permitted a decided rise in temperature over the plains states and the Canadian Northwest. Precipitation for the last 24 hours was light.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are now about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 3.6 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 12.8; Pittsburgh 12.7; Dam No. 4, 10.0; No. 6, 10.2; No. 10, 9.7, and No. 12, 10.0. The dams are up. The rivers will change but little.

REED BRANDS MONEY POLICY 'DISHONEST'

Senate Nearing Vote On Stabilization Fund Control

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —An accusation of "dishonesty and essential immorality" aimed at President Roosevelt's monetary bill by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, in the Senate today drew a quick retort from Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, that the Pennsylvanian proposed only to continue the "laissez-faire" policy of the Hoover administration.

The exchange between the two party spokesmen followed a declaration by Senator Bailey (Dem.), of North Carolina, that the bill was designed to protect the United States in a "monetary war" and that it was necessary to correct an "impossible" debt situation.

VOTE ON FUND

Meanwhile, the Senate approached a vote on the paramount issue of whether the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund should be administered by the Secretary of Treasury alone or by a board of five.

Democratic leaders virtually abandoned hope for a vote tonight on the bill, but were still pressing for a decision tomorrow.

A new silver proposal came in the midst of the debate from Senator Pittman (Dem.), of Nevada, who advocated an amendment to extend the President's powers under the Thomas inflation amendment to give silver certificates in lieu of standard silver dollars in exchange for silver bullion.

Senator Reed said:

"The first purpose of this bill is to do with government bonds that dishonest thing we have been condemning the bankers for doing. It will create an artificial market for these bonds. When the bankers do that we say jail them. When the government does it we say it is praiseworthy."

Declaring "we all know the bill is going to pass," Reed said opponents would be remiss in their duty if they did not point to what they regarded as dangers in the legislation.

He said it would work "havoc on the average American" and "embarrass not only the present generation, but generations yet unborn."

He explained he preferred not to discuss the constitutionality of the measure as other Republicans had already done that "superbly."

REED BEWILDERED

He also was bewildered, he said, over the present condition of the safeguards in the Constitution.

In the Minnesota farm moratorium case, he said, the Supreme Court drew no other lesson than to say that such safeguards were "to be effective only when we don't need them." Reed contended:

"To give $2,000,000,000 to any one human being and invite him to administer it with the utmost secrecy is scandalously bad government practice."

The Pennsylvania Senator conceded it was entirely within the power of the government to take the Federal Reserve gold under the right of eminent domain, but contended the compensation was not "just" under the meaning of the Constitution.

'DEAD' VET HITS WIFE'S STORY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 26.—(AP.) — Federal officials announced today an affidavit has been made by James Zorland Robertson that his first wife came to the door of his home in Massachusetts and saw him in 1925, several years before she brought suit to collect war risk insurance on the presumption he was dead.

However, Mrs. Nora V. Demaree, the former wife who obtained a divorce after waiting several years for her husband to return from the World War, denied she ever visited her "lost" husband.

Former Gov. Henry S. Johnston, attorney for Mrs. Demaree, also declared the story false.

Robertson was discovered by federal agents, working as chief pharmacist's mate in a Chelsea naval hospital under the name of John Maxwell, and came here to clear up the case.

Chautemps Cabinet Expected to Resign

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—The short-lived Chautemps government is expected to resign tonight due to the public indignation over the $40,000,000 Stavisky scandal.

Public resentment has been increasing and notwithstanding Chautemp's promises to investigate thoroughly the failure of the Bayonne Municipal Pawnshop scandal, Royalist and Communist riots have become a disturbing menace to the present parliamentary situation.

U. S. Sends P. R. R. $6,900,000 Check

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —A check for $6,900,000, first installment on a $77,000,000 loan, has been mailed to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by the Public Works Administration, Secretary Ickes has announced.

The money will be used to complete electrification of P. R. R. lines between Washington and Philadelphia and to build 7,000 new freight cars in the Altoona shops.

Civil Aviation Is Backbone Of Air Defense, Must Be Kept Free of Taint, Says R. W. Child

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and American Ambassador to Italy Under Two Administrations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—When the northerner eats a strawberry in January which a few hours before was on the vine in Florida he can contemplate our national defense.

He may well jot down the fact that the world—if not the American people—has become aware of the primary importance of velocity-defense, i. e., fast cruisers, fast undersea craft and fast armament of the air.

He may well jot down also the fact that our civil aviation—planes and trained men—will constitute no small part of our auxiliary for national safety in a world constantly talking about war and about going to war.

The odor on today's wind as Congress sniffs it is the odor of something like rot in our civil aviation development.

There is the odor of scandal in our airplane and airport and airline government subsidies.

THERE IS around the aeronautic bureau of the Commerce Department the odor that arises when accusations are made that experts are being set out on the bricks, perhaps to make room for political plum seekers.

Everyone knows that auxiliary national defense has become more and more important. Quite apart from the tremendous advantages of civil aviation to our peace time advantage, the oft-forgotten importance of pilots and planes, both convertible to war uses, is large enough to make the federal aid, control and development of civil aviation a little too precious to be made the football of politics, special privilege or scandal.

Investigation of this subject is needed at once whether it be the President's own inquiry or that of a congressional inquiry WHICH MUST BE ON THE LEVEL. When the wise speak of congressional inquiries they know that there are two kinds—"whitewash" and "on-the-level."

As things stand today the country has every right to ask that Secretary Roper find out and tell us what the shaking out of the aeronautic experts in the Department of Commerce really signifies and Postmaster General Farley may well be requested to comb the air mail contract question to see whether there are any maggots left to eat the heart out of fair and impartial and healthy aid to civil aviation.

THE PRESIDENT, as everyone knows, is wholeheartedly in favor of seeing the United States well guarded in a world grown somewhat shaky and hungry.

The naval program, to bring us back from the flabby condition in which we find ourselves, is going over with a bang.

Certainly the President has realization that the background of all war aviation is civil aviation. It bears a greater ratio of importance to national defense than a swift merchant marine, as Mussolini is demonstrating, bears to naval power.

The strawberry on the northern table in January picked off the vine last night in our southland is not only a symbol of fast freight, it is a token of national security.

It is a reminder that civil aviation must be beyond the taint and withering of graft or neglect.

How New Tax Measure Affects Average Man

HOTELS, UNION SEEK PEACE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —The hour of 5 o'clock this afternoon holds promise of double-barrelled action in New York's hotel strike situation.

The Amalgamated Food Workers Union has set that hour for a general walkout of its chefs, busboys and waiters in most of the city's hotels, unless the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where a strike was called Tuesday night, makes peace with the union.

In a "notice to striking restaurant employes" the Waldorf offered to give consideration to employes who might apply for the jobs they abandoned at the dinner hour Tuesday night, but it fixed a 5 p. m. deadline for re-employment.

The strike already has spread from the Waldorf-Astoria to the New Weston and Lincoln hotels. The strike at the Waldorf was precipitated by the discharge of a chef, the union said.

Japan Gets Russian Regrets for Article

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Soviet Russia has expressed its regrets over the publication in Moscow newspapers several weeks ago of reports that Russian agents had seized allegedly secret documents divulging a "Japanese plot" to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway.

It was learned today that younger army officers are angered over anti-imperialist speeches in the Diet and are threatening a counter-offensive, accusing the government of anti-nationalism, unless they cease.

Court Rules 'Ride' Death No Accident

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(INS.) —A Gangland "ride" is not an accidental death. That was the ruling of Supreme Court Justice L. A. Valente, entered today in a suit by Mrs. Fannie Durst to recover $10,000 as double indemnity on an insurance policy on her husband, Abe.

Durst, according to counsel for an insurance firm his widow sued, was an aide of Irving (Waxey Gordon) Wexler, and was "taken for a ride" by underworld rivals in a beer gang war.

50 Firemen Periled On Blazing Yacht

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Nearly 50 firemen escaped possible drowning in the Delaware River today when the burning decommissioned naval yacht Niagara listed sharply and fell over on her side.

The fire-fighters had boarded the flame-ridden vessel when suddenly she keeled over. The men clung to parts of the superstructure as steel cables were attached to the ship from the wharf.

Table Shows Rates As Revised In Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —The new income tax structure approved by the House Ways and Means Committee and the Treasury for simplification and to aid slightly the taxpayers in the lower brackets is estimated to raise $36,000,000 in addititonal revenue annually.

The present normal tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 net taxable income and 8 per cent on the second $4,000, with the surtax starting at 1 per cent on net incomes over $6,000 and up to $10,000 and graduated upward to 55 per cent on those of $1,000,000 and above.

The approved rate in the new bill fixes a flat 4 per cent normal rate on all taxable incomes. Taxable incomes constitute the amount left after all exemptions for wives and dependents and other purposes are deducted.

Then the surtax of 4 per cent, starting on net incomes above $4,000 and below $6,000, begins and ranges to 59 per cent on those of $1,000,000 and over.

An exemption of $2,500 is allowed a married person and, in addition, $400 for each child. The exemption on an unmarried person is $1,000.

By an amendment, a credit of 10 per cent on earned incomes up to $8,000 is allowed, of which $3,000 is automatically given, but the taxpayer has to prove the remainder is earned and does not come from dividends or sources other than his own labor.

The following table, prepared by the Treasury Department, indicates the change on lower incomes (after all deductions) through both normal and surtaxes:

SMALL PAYER GETS SOME RELIEF

200 Millions Tacked On Higher Incomes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —An income tax net spread against the past practices of some big banks and bankers, as unrolled by Senate investigators, was reported today to be the real aim of the administration's projected new tax law.

Liberal use of testimony taken from J. P. Morgan, head of the wealthiest private banking house; Otto Kahn, partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Albert H. Wiggin, one-time chairman of the Chase National Bank; Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, and partners of Dillon, Reed & Co., was disclosed by the Ways and Means Committee.

BURDEN SHIFTED

Chairman Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, said the new plan, designed to produce about $200,000,000 more annually by shifting some of the burden from smaller to larger incomes, probably would be reported next Wednesday. Some changes remain to be made.

Stripped of long words and figures, the tax bill means for average purposes:

A change all along the line of income taxes. It would cut the taxes of persons making $7,000 or less; raise slightly those on more than that amount.

Husbands and wives, both of whom are earning money, would file a single return instead of separate ones. This would raise their taxes by subjecting their total income to a higher levy than would apply to the separate sums.

Corporations operating several concerns would pay a higher tax for the privege of filing one return for all their companies.

HOLDING COMPANIES

Personal holding companies would be required to pay a tax on their income from their holdings in other concerns. Certain deductions would be allowed. Testimony before Senate committes showed that some wealthy persons avoided taxes by setting up personal holding companies.

Persons holding real property or stocks and bonds would subtract their total losses, if any, from their total gains and pay tax accordingly. A loss, however, might not be deducted from their complete income. Recent testimony showed that some wealthy persons did not pay taxes because their losses from the sales of stocks or other property were allowed to be credited against their entire income.

TAX ON FOREIGN FIRMS VOTED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. —(INS.)—Aroused by tax discrimination in France against American firms, the House Ways and Means Committee today voted to lodge power in the President to levy a 50 per cent retaliatory income tax against all foreign firms operating in the United States.

The committee's action followed closely upon approval, by a 16 to 5 vote, of a 5-cent-a-pound internal revenue tax on cocoanut and sesame seed oil. This tax will hit the Philippine Islands and is designed to aid American cottonseed oil, lard and dairy interests.

The committee's action on foreign taxes as a part of its new $250,000,000 tax bill followed revelation of the manner in which some foreign countries—principally France—are trying to drive American firms out of business.

Farm Bond Surety Approved in House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(INS.) —The House today adopted a conference report on the bill by Representative Jones (Dem.), of Texas, guaranteeing the principal and interest of farm mortgage bonds.

Farley Sees Johnson Re-Elected to Seat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —James A. Farley, the Democratic national chairman, looks for California to return its Republican Senator—Hiram Johnson—to his post in the next elections.

Johnson supported Roosevelt against Hoover in 1932.

Mellon Tax, Aluminum Probes Pushed by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.) —Department of Justice agents today pushed investigations from two different angles into the interests of Andrew W. Mellon, for 11 years Secretary of the Treasury.

Attorney General Cummings indicated to newsmen he was taking a direct interest in both inquiries, saying late yesterday he had "ordered a recheck" by new investigators of what he termed a "100 per cent monopoly" by the Aluminum Company of America, controlled by the Mellon family.

Cummings said also he expected to know within a week what the government would do in an inquiry nearing completion into Andrew Mellon's income tax affairs.

Meanwhile the Justice Department head said he would examine the NRA aluminum code. Final phrasing of the agreement was still in the offing at NRA today due to dissatisfaction by some aluminum importing companies.

The code, previously delayed by charges from independent firms that it acknowledged a Mellon monopoly, now holds a clause that there shall be no discrimination between fabricators and that independents shall not be oppres in any way.

BELLEVUE SCHOOL GRADUATES IN CRASH AFTER DANCE

ESCAPE DEATH WHEN AUTO UPSETS

3 Youths, Girl Friends Homeward Bound at Time of Mishap

Six Bellevue High School students, three of whom had received graduation diplomas a few hours before, escaped serious injury early today when their automobile crashed with another car and overturned at Grant street and Boulevard of the Allies.

Three couples had celebrated the mid-year commencement, held in Bellevue High School last night, at a dance in a downtown hotel and were returning home.

The car, driven by Robert Burger, 17, of Watkins avenue, Bellevue, collided with a machine driven by Daniel H. Littell, 43, of Grant avenue, Bellevue. Burger's car was turned over on its side by the impact.

Littell suffered a hand injury in helping right the other machine. John Metzger, 17, of 557 Dawson avenue, Bellevue, a passenger in the students' car, was cut on the hands and wrists. Both were treated at Mercy Hospital.

Other students in Burger's car were Anna Casey, Bellevue; Betty Chambers, Emsworth; Margaret Neenan, Bellevue, and John Wilcoxen, Bellevue.

Wilcoxen, Burger and Metzger were graduated last night.

ROBOTS TO FLY 41 NEW SHIPS

Forty-one new planes to be put into service through Pittsburgh by Transcontinental and Western Air will be equipped with robot pilots, officials of the company here announced today.

This is the first time in the history of aviation that an entire fleet of planes is to be operated by the robot. The Sperry Gyroscope Company of Brooklyn, N. Y., which built the robot used by Wiley Post on his 'round the world flight, will furnish the mechanical pilots for TWA.

Richard W. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board for TWA, in making the announcement declared:

"These mechanical pilots can do everything except think for the human pilots. They are designed to keep the plane flying smoothly on a level and straight course in any kind of weather. Of course the human pilot will land and take off."

BENEDUM KIN GETS OHIO JOB

A distant relative of M. L. Benedum, oil man-backer of President Roosevelt, today was certified for appointment as postmaster of East Liverpool, O., according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

He is Ralph C. Benedum, who had served as mayor of East Liverpool for eight years and had held the dual post of mayor and acting postmaster since last May. He refunded his salary as mayor to the city from May to October.

The East Liverpool postmaster is said by his fellow citizens to be recognized as the Democratic boss of Southern Columbiana County.

Youth Identified As Purse Snatcher

Identified as a purse snatcher by two women, Richard Jackson, 18, of 721 South Aiken avenue, was held for court today after a hearing before Magistrate Howard D. McNutt, in Morals Court.

Miss Clarissa Painter, of 5917 Walnut street, testified that Jackson was one of three men who approached her in the East End district on December 11, and stole her purse containing $15. Mrs. L. E. Vassel, of 5531 Howe street, named Jackson as a participant in a similar holdup on October 23.

French Girl Hops On Tokio Flight

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Bound on an attempted record-breaking flight to Tokio, Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, noted French aviatrix, hopped off from the Villacoublay Aerodrome today.

Mlle. Hiltz hopes to cover the 11,000 miles in a week of flying, thereby establishing a new long-distance speed flight record for women.

GIRL IN RAVINE BATTLES THUG

Set upon by a thug, who knocked her down a 25-foot ravine and robbed her of a wrist watch, Miss Anne Burdak, 25, of 1006 Sarah street, South Side, was suffering from cuts and bruises received in the encounter today.

The attack occurred last night near her home, she told police.

She said she battled the footpad, trading blow for blow with him at the bottom of the ravine behind a billboard along South Eighteenth street.

Her assailant finally fled, she said, and when she struggled to the street she was picked up by a motorist, a physician, and removed to South Side Hospital, where she was treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

Later, her purse and hat were found by a pedestrian near the scene of the attack, and were returned to her.

LINK TAMMANY IN PEN RACKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The existence of a direct link between Tammany Hall and the "world's worst prison," where gangsters lorded it over 1,700 lesser prisoners living in misery, was charged today.

Harry M. Shulman, prison expert and author of a detailed report on conditions at the Welfare Island Penitentiary, declared that whenever a certain Tammany leader telephoned the prison, the warden would jump up as if shot from a catapult and rush into a telephone booth.

Shulman was asked:

"Will you say who that leader was?"

He said:

"I will give the name if Commissioner Austin H. MacCormick asks me for it."

MacCormick, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's new commissioner of corrections, led the raid on the prison which uncovered conditions that shocked the city.

Fireman Injured In Mt. Lebanon Fire

A blaze in the basement of the home of R. W. Goetz, at 221 Dan drive, Mt. Lebanon, was extinguished by Mt. Lebanon firemen late yesterday.

Lieut. R. E. Bloedgett suffered lacerations on the hand when cut by glass. He was treated by a physician. Chief James E. Wood, who estimated the damage at $500, said the cause was undetermined.

Man Loses Damage Suit —Against Himself

Believe it or not, John H. Lucot, of Sheraden, lost a suit against himself in Common Pleas Court today.

It happened this way:

Lucot sued the City of Pittsburgh for injuries suffered by his wife, Mary Lucot, resulting, he averred, from an alleged defective sidewalk in Hillsboro avenue. Her ankle was sprained he contended. The accident occurred March 11, 1929.

The city promptly made John F. Haller and the latter's wife, owners of the property in front of which the accident occurred, co-defendants.

Lucot was a tenant of the Hallers, as he rented a garage on their property.

So the Hallers proceeded to make Lucot, their tenant, also a co-defendant, with the result that Lucot found himself on both sides of the case.

Judge Elder W. Marshall today granted a non-suit. In other words the city was held not liable.

KING TUT CURSE TALE SCORNED BY SCIENTIST

Member of Tomb Party Ridicules Idea of Deadly Revenge

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A scientist hot under the collar applied cold statistics today to the "curse of King Tut-Ankh-Amen" and that tall tale, which has set many a spine a-shiver, shrivelled up like the mummy of the King himself.

Marshaling documentary and personal testimony, Herbert E. Winlock, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, offered proof to explode the story that the Pharaoh, whose tomb was opened in 1923, dealt death across the centuries to the men who exhumed his remains.

Striking at the theory that some nether angel of vengeance has been mowing down many persons connected with the excavations, or that germs supernaturally preserved in the sarcophagus had infected them, Winlock showed that:

Of the five who attended the opening of the tomb only one is dead.

Of the 22 who were present at the opening of the inner chamber only six are known to be dead.

Of the 10 who examined the mummy none are known to be dead.

Of the 22 who saw the sarcophagus opened only two are dead.

All this despite the fact that the excavations took place years ago and that of the men who took part in them, some were well advanced in years and some were never in robust health.

Winlock himself was among those present at the opening of the inner chamber February 17, 1923, and he feels fine. He's a bit wrathy, though, at hearing the "curse" story revived in connection with the illness of Albert M. Lythgoe, noted scientist, who is ill in a Boston hospital.

Lythgoe was also present that February day. He is 65, and suffers from cerebral arterio-sclerosis. Winlock does not think Tut-Ankh-Amen had anything to do with it. He said:

"I suppose it is an interesting fact that the people of England and America should lap up such an absurdity when the peasants of Upper Egypt do not pay much attention to it."

MERCY SLAYER KILLS SON, SELF

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—An aged San Francisco father decreed swift death, instead of lingering death, for his bed-ridden son yesterday.

He stood beside the bed in Marine Hospital and fired a bullet into the invalid's brain, killing him instantly. Then he turned the weapon on himself and died beside his son.

Victims of the "mercy killing" and suicide were Elton J. Pera, 28, former postal employe, and Joseph Pera, retired fruit dealer, his father.

Two witnesses saw the double shooting which threw the hospital into an uproar. One was Mrs. Viola Pera, wife of the invalid and mother of his 6-month-old daughter. The other was James A. Rose, the barber who was trimming the invalid's hair when death invaded the ward.

It is believed the elder Pera learned from other members of the family that his son had no chance for recovery — and determined to end his suffering.

Harold Lloyd's Son Holds 3rd Birthday

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Receiving, among several gifts, a police uniform, Harold Lloyd, Jr., son of the film comedian, celebrated his third birthday anniversary yesterday. He was an incubator baby, weighing only 2 pounds and 14 ounces at birth. Now he weighs 30 pounds and is 37 inches tall.

AUTO-BUS CRASH FATAL TO TWO

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Two young emergency relief headquarters workers are dead and two bus passengers are suffering from injuries today following a triple crash of two automobiles and a motor coach on the Lincoln highway near Greensburg.

Miss Barbara Magee, 23, of Mahaffey, Clearfield County, and her escort, Robert Hamburg, 24, of Irwin, were killed almost instantly, their bodies badly mangled.

Mrs. Edna Gibbons, of the Bronx, New York, and Leonard Murwaski, of Governors Island, New York, bus passengers, were slightly hurt.

Coroner H. Albert McMurray said he learned that a car in which Hamburg and Miss Magee were returning from a party last night sidewiped the automobile of Marshall Hanna, of Latrobe. The Hamburg machine then crashed against a bus.

WOMAN FELLED, PURSE STOLEN

A thief, who threw her to the sidewalk when she screamed, stole the purse of Mrs. E. W. Kemmler, 33, of 428 Suncrest street, in an attack near her home last night, according to a police report. The purse contained 25 cents.

Richard Jackson, 22, of 721 South Aiken avenue, was being held by Squirrel Hill police today after Miss Clarisa Painter, of 5917 Walnut street, and Mrs. L. E. Vessel, of 5531 Howe street, identified him as the man who robbed them last December, according to a police report. Jackson was arrested Wednesday on an automobile code violation.

Widow Asks $50,000 In Insurance Suit

Mrs. Eva H. Stokes, of Carnegie, filed a suit for $50,000 in Federal Court against the Bankers Life Company, of Des Moines, Ia., which amount she avers is due her as beneficiary under an insurance policy issued by the company to her husband, William T. Stokes, who died October 21, 1933, following an automobile accident.

Mrs. Stokes alleges the company has refused payment.

WIFE WOUNDED ON DOVE HUNT

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles Merrill Chapin, Jr., prominently young New York society matron, was wounded accidentally during a dove hunt on the Chapin winter estate near here and was in a critical condition at a local hospital last night.

A shotgun charge entered her left side and passed through her abdomen. At Archibald Memorial Hospital, where an emergency operation was performed, attending physicians said that they were "optimistic," but that her condition was grave.

Mrs. Chapin was seated on a three-legged stool, and apparently one of the legs gave way in the soft ground. It appeared that when she was upset, Mrs. Chapin grabbed the weapon, causing it to discharge.

Hears Plenty Legends But Fails to Find Haunted House

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Now is the time for all New York ghosts to come to the aid of Elliott O'Donnell, that Sherlock Holmes of the spectral world.

For O'Donnell is here to observe ghosts and take notes on them. He wants to meet an authentic American ghost. He is not having much luck. He said:

"I would gladly spend the night in any haunted house in this region should anyone desire me to do so. Primarily, I would do so to obtain some further material for my writings on such matters."

O'Donnell has chased ghosts in many lands and has written 40 books, most of them dealing with supernatural phenomena. His latest work, "Family Ghosts and Ghostly Phenomena," was published several days ago. He said:

"In most cases ghosts consist of vague, vibrating white lights. They have never done me any harm, however."

O'Donnell has seen many ghosts, he contends—but not in New York.

The ghosts of the town have had their backs to the wall for many years now. Time was when there was no unemployment among New York apparitions. There were plenty of suitable houses for them. But that was long ago.

Progress and ghosts don't mix. Ceaseless new construction has obliterated their traditional stamping grounds. There's scarcely an old house suitable for haunting in New York's five boroughs.

But New York has its legends.

There was the old sugar house at 236 William street, once a prison. Folks claimed they used to hear strange cries and clankings within its walls. The house was razed years ago.

Then there was Mrs. Haight, of West Fourteenth street. She was a ghost with a disturbing habit. Mrs. Haight took to the bottle before she died, the story goes. And after, liquor left in the house would mysteriously disappear. Folks blamed the ghost of Mrs. Haight.

New York's most famous ghost was that of Columbia University, whose buildings rise on the grounds once occupied by an insane asylum.

The specter was that of a young student who, it was said, killed himself and then chose to haunt the halls of learning where he had never accomplished much in life.

This was all many years ago. Just legends remain. O'Donnell is discouraged.

ALEXIS BOSSES BARBARA IN REUNION

Prince Goes Oriental As Solo Honeymoons End in Tokio

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—The separate, trouble-bedecked honeymoon trails of Prince Alexis Mdivani and the former Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, were joined in Tokio today as the couple reunited after a two weeks' parting.

Although the prince, since his arrival here Wednesday, had shown great eagerness to see his bride again, he greeted her as she arrived on the Japanese liner Tatsuta Maru in what he himself termed "Oriental style."

He went directly to Barbara's luxurious royal suite and sent a cabin boy to the smoking room to tell Barbara to come to him. He smiled:

"That's Oriental style. Women obey their husbands here."

The meeting was very gay. There were scores of reporters, Japanese and American, but the interviews were kept on a highly jovial level by "Jimmy" Donohue, Barbara's cousin and himself an heir to many of the Woolworth 5 and 10-cent store dollars, who accompanied Barbara on her solo honeymoon crossing of the Pacific.

All of the party were in high spirits during the siege with newspapermen. Cocktails were served, and young Donohue interspersed a "wisecrack" whenever questions seemed to trouble Barbara.

Barbara said she enjoyed her trip, although she was slightly seasick during a storm. She was asked:

"How many love messages did you exchange with the prince?"

She replied:

"Oh, several."

"Jimmy" chimed in:

"Several? I'd say about 200. My, look at this Japanese newspaper. I can't read it, but the prince's photograph is charming!"

"Why do you love Alexis?"

While the wealthy young heiress was trying to solve this one "Jimmy" giggled and fired "wisecracks," which the Japanese obviously did not understand.

OFFICER'S WIFE DIES BY GAS

Returning home from night duty, Patrolman John Davis, Negro, of 1760 West Carson street, found his wife dead and his daughter seriously ill, apparently from gas fumes, early today.

Police said that at South Side Hospital, the child, Irene, 8, also seemed to be suffering from poison.

Davis found the door of their second floor apartment locked when he arrived home. He smashed the lock and found the jets of the kitchen stove open. The woman and child were lying in the bathroom where the jets on the stove also were open.

The child still was breathing. Davis told neighbors to notify police and then hailed a motorist to take the daughter to the hospital.

Police from West End Station strove vainly to resuscitate the wife, Frances, 35, with an inhalator. She was fully clothed, while the child was clad in night clothing.

Carnera to Meet '400' At Palm Beach Ball

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera intends to dip into society during his sojourn here preliminary to tackling Tommy Loughran in the world title bout at Miami soon.

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst has announced that Carnera not only would appear at the Roosevelt birthday ball next Tuesday evening at the fashionable Everglades Club, but would assist in the entertainment.

Recent reports from Miami were that the world champion had come here, supposedly to visit Enzo Fiermonte, pugilist husband of the widow of the late John Jacob Astor, but inquiries at the Fiermonte residence brought a denial.

M'NAIR ASSAILS KANE'S TAX ON METERS

and the Duquesne Light Company.

He then bored in on how much the Duquesne Light Company is paying to the Byllesby Company, and after Phillips had described the management contract and its merits, Magee remarked dryly that he was not much impressed with it.

Kane started the meeting by reading to the utility representatives a statement in which he said he did not intend to have the emergency meter tax delayed by an avalanche of figures.

Phillips replied that he understood that Council had received advice from the City Solicitor that the meter tax is legal, but that his own "eminent counsel" held it is unenforceable. He said:

"When eminent counsels disagree, the usual place for settlement is in the courts, and I suppose that is where this will go."

EARNINGS CITED

Phillips then read statements of net earnings and book values for 1933 of the Duquesne Light Company, the Equitable Gas Company, the Allegheny Steam Heating Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

After reading the light company report, he was interrupted by Gallagher, who asked if it was true the company kept two sets of books, one for rate-making and one for tax-setting purposes.

Phillips denied it.

Gallagher said he quoted from Henry Ellenbogen's address to Congress last June 22, and Phillips replied:

"There's not one scintilla of truth in the allegations of the particular person you refer to."

Kane read from the Legislative Journal record of the Eaton investigation that testimony of officers of the Philadelphia Company showed the Duquesne Light Company has earned and paid dividends of 14 per cent annually, and that there had been a net write-up in book value of more than fourteen million dollars.

FIGURES CONTRADICTED

Phillips said the officials were denied the rights of counsel and cross examination. He said the information was entirely wrong.

Phillips told of increased expenses, and profits reduced to a point where service might soon suffer. He declared the Duquesne Light Company furnishes the power to the Pittsburgh Railways Company at a loss, and when Kane asked if it was just for the good of the community, a laugh went around the crowded room.

Phillips, plainly angered, said:

"I won't answer that question. I am an American citizen and I deny you or anyone else the right to insult me in public or in private."

Kane shot back:

"Don't think because you are the representative of a big corporation you can come in here and intimidate me."

Magee asked Phillips if he proposed to defend the exemption of utility real estate from taxation. He would not vote for the meter tax, Magee declared, if the real estate were taxed.

BYLLESBY CONTRACT

Magee referred to the management contract with the Byllesby Company as "dealing with yourself under another name," and said he though the Duquesne Light Company might be carrying along a lot of smaller companies in the system.

Arthur E. Young, of the Peoples Natural Gas Company, reported declines in that company's earnings.

George S. Davison, of the Pennsylvania Water Company, reported 1,393 meters owned by the company in Pittsburgh. He said the tax would be discriminatory and the company would be justified in using every legal means to fight it.

Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg for the Bell Telephone Company said the company's facilities were already taxed by the state and would not be subject to the city tax.

Paul L. Houston for the Parmelee system reported the company has been showing a loss.

CONSUMER TO PAY

Attorney Joseph A. Beck, representing the South Pittsburgh Water Company, said that utility would have to shift the tax to the consumers. Both Kane and Magee told him that Council would withtdraw the tax before there would be any shifting.

Beck objected to taxing a necessity of life and Kane said:

"We are not attempting to tax the water—just the meters."

The proposed meter tax ordinance as finally drawn leaves blank the amount of the tax. It was hinted yesterday that the $5 tax per meter may be lowered. More reports are to be heard from utilities.

Boy Scout Founder, Ill, 'Holding Own'

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Lord Baden-Powell, 77-year-old founder of the Boy Scout movement, was reported to be "holding his own" today in a hospital where he underwent two operations earlier this month. Physicians said he passed a fair night.

generacy that accompanies this convict prison rule.

Convict management was complete, with sale of drugs and alcohol that included, according to Commissioner MacCormick, the operation of a fifty-gallon still within the prison itself.

PARIS REPORTS a genuine duel between a member of the Chamber of Deputies, Andre Hesse, and John Heineix, lawyer. One was insulted—which, doesn't matter—by something the other said about the Stavisky scandal and the Bayonne pawn shop.

Four seconds, two doctors and the two principals presented an imposing spectacle, as the desperate duelists faced each other, coats off, in the cold dawn, about eighty feet apart. Each fired at the other twice, and then, presumably, embraced.

Nobody was hurt, but "honor" was restored to her throne. An American reporter said the four bullets were picked up, side by side, lying forty feet from each of the duellists. That sounds improbable, unless the desperate duellists were deceived by their benevolent seconds.

A STRIKE of waiters, cooks, all employes of New York hotels and restaurants is suggested. Labor leaders that tell men when to strike undoubtedly understand their business better than others. But, apart from special information, it would seem desirable to let prosperity take root a little while longer, if it will.

Strike enthusiasts may find themselves out of work suddenly, without the help of a strike. The past four years have taught the country that it is easy enough for a man to be idle.

IN MUNICH, the public prosecutor, representing the German government, demands eight months in jail for three Catholic priests accused of "spreading atrocity stories about conditions in Germany."

Any government should have a better reply to such stories than "eight months in jail."

COUNCIL GETS EXPO OFFER

The Greater Pittsburgh Exposition Society has made a new offer to the city for the Exposition site at the Point, where the society proposes to erect a $5,500,000 auditorium, provided the undertaking can be financed.

The society, through its manager, P. M. Chamberlain, has offered the city in addition to 3 per cent of the annual gross revenue, a guarantee of at least as much rental as the city is now getting out of the property from tenants. This offer was made at a hearing before Council yesterday. The proposition was turned over to the City Planning Commission.

At about the same time, Controller James P. Kerr was taking over the old Exposition Building from the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, closing up an agreement of 1919 with the city making a final payment of $30,000.

The new society's plan, as explained by Chamberlain, is to finance the construction of a new building through rental of space to exhibitors and conventions. An auditorium would be designed to seat 14,000.

The building would be constructed with Pittsburgh materials and labor. The city would be notified within one year whether or not the plan could be carried through.

3-FLIGHT OCEAN PLANE BURNS

NEW CASTLE, Del., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The Columbia, only airplane thrice to fly the Atlantic, is in ashes.

With four other planes, it was destroyed by a fire which swept a large barn at the Bellanca Aircraft Corporation's field near New Castle late yesterday. Officials estimated the loss at $250,000.

The Columbia's first trans-Atlantic flight was its best-known venture. Then the craft of Charles E. Levine, the Columbia carried the New Yorker and his pilot, Clarence Chamberlin, to Germany.

Five Pittsburghers Renamed by Pinchot

Five Pittsburghers and one man from Aspinwall, whose appointments to state advisory positions the Senate failed to confirm at the recent special session, have been reappointed today by the Governor's office, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

They are Edwin K. Morse, water and power resources board; J. B. Montgomery, Aspinwall; John H. Harris and Frank L. Duggan, board of trustees of Western State Penitentiary, and Mrs. Minnie S. Kaufmann and John H Lauer, board of trustees of Pennsylvania Training School.

McNair, Lawyer Clash In Court Over Strike

A hearing on the Ward Baking Company's petition for a temporary injunction to restrain strike leaders wound up in bedlam in Common Pleas Court today when Mayor McNair took the witness stand.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall intervened when McNair crossed verbal swords with Attorney Harry S. Dunmire, counsel for the company. Later Judge Marshall issued an order restraining union locals and officers from violence.

Company employes testified they had been molested. John Collogie, a salesman and driver, said he had been struck while making deliveries.

The clash between McNair and Dunmire occurred after Attorney Alex H. Schullman asked McNair if there was sufficient police protection for the company. Dunmire objected, and McNair retorted:

"I'm a lawyer. Suppose I do answer the question, what are you going to do about it?"

The crowded courtroom broke into an uproar, while the Mayor went on to say there was sufficient police protection and he objected to employment of "thugs" by the company.

Then Dunmire made mention of a case in which he and McNair were opposing counsel, and the court interrupted the exchange.

UTILITY CHARGE REITERATED BY ELLENBOGEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Informed that the accuracy of his figures on utility earnings in Pittsburgh had been questioned by Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen today said:

"Let me remind Mr. Phillips that most of the figures which show excess earnings of the Duquesne Light Company to the colossal sum of $33,000,000 in seven years are based on testimony given before the investigating committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature. The rest of the calculation as to excess earnings is based on an investigation made by experts and published by Gov. Pinchot. My entire article was based on the material published by these authorities and also on official figures of the Bureau of Accounts of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission. If my figures are incorrect they err in being too conservative rather than too high.

"Mr. Phillips must understand that the time has come when the people will no longer tolerate the incredible exploitations to which they have been exposed by utilities who until now have always found ways to circumvent the law by dominating subservient politicians and by making the Public Service Commission a servant of the utility interests instead of the people.

"Not so long ago shocking disclosures were made which show that some utility companies have even resorted to outright bribery and corruption of members of the Public Service Commission. I want to congratulate Councilman Kane on the brave fight he is making for the city of Pittsburgh."

INQUIRY CLEARS PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—(AP.) The names of Gov. Pinchot and his former publicity director, Jacob Schwartz, were drawn into the records of a legislative investigating committee by a dismissed employe yesterday, but intimations that they were influential in effecting an allegedly illegal merger of two insurance companies crumbled under cross-examination.

William Johnson, of Pittsburgh, who was dismissed in 1932 as head of the division of companies in the State Insurance Department, said Schwartz asked him to release securities of the Commonwealth Casualty Company after its consolidation with the American Mine Owners Casualty Corporation, both of which he said later were found insolvent.

Johnson asserted he refused to give up the deposited securities until it was proved the company's liabilities were liquidated.

The witness said he "was told" Gov. Pinchot was interested in the merger because Albert M. Greenfield, of Philadelphia, "a friend and supporter" of the Governor, had a financial interest in it.

Johnson admitted under questioning of Deputy Attorney General Harold D. Saylor, however, that his knowledge was based solely "on rumor."

PARK JUDGESHIP DEAL DENIED

Allegheny County friends of Gov. Pinchot today emphatically asserted there would be no "deal" which would result in the appointment of District Attorney Andrew T. Park to the vacancy on Common Pleas Court bench caused by the death of Judge Sylvester J. Snee.

At the same time it was said no real consideration had been given the matter of an appointment and that nothing would be done until Sunday at the earliest.

Reports that Park might be appointed carried the understanding that the banc of Common Pleas Court judges then would name a District Attorney satisfactory to the Governor, an agreement which would be difficult, in view of the political background of some of the judges. Commenting on the Park report today, a friend of Gov. Pinchot said:

"You can't go too strong on the fact that Park will not be appointed."

STILL 'RUNNER' HELD IN DRIVE ON RUM

After testifying he was a moonshine runner, Joseph Contaldo, 25, of 810 Sawmill way, was held for further investigation by Magistrate Howard B. McNutt in Central Police Court today.

Contaldo said he was a runner for a man operating a still eight miles from West View. He was arrested last night while driving at Tenth street and Duquesne way. Police said he had a quantity of corn sugar, brewer's yeast and bottles of liquid resembling liquor in the car.

Four men were fined and five others held for court for various violations of state liquor laws last night by Alderman Raymond E. Schneider.

Carmen Logiodice, whose place of business at 6308 Station street, was raided recently by Revenue Department agents, was held for court on two charges of liquor tax evasion.

Those held for court for the sale of untaxed liquor were Louis Lipshitz, of 2230 Beaver avenue; Thomas Jurkovich, of 349 Olive street, McKees Rocks, and Claude Weber, of the Morris Camps, Oakmont. Charles Calasky, of 25 Woodrow avenue, Brentwood, was held for court for the manufacture and possession of illegal liquor.

For the second time within two weeks police last night reported raiding a house at 1614 Webster avenue. Police said they arrested Peter Betters, 24.

ARNOLD POLICE NIP 'RACKET'

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 26.—Insisting it was nothing but a racket, Police Chief Sherman Hill, of Arnold, and his aides today had halted the first step in a contract which might eventually have cost an elderly couple their home.

Police said that a high-pressure representative of a Pittsburgh decorating concern approached Mr. and Mrs. Ponsart with a proposal to decorate their home free of charge. The couple told police they were told:

"Your home has been selected as a representative residence and the job will not cost you a cent. In fact all contracts for similar work in this district will pay you six per cent."

Elated, the Ponsarts, who are unable to read or write English, signed the contract. Later it was discovered by neighbors that they had signed a contract calling for a $1,300 payment within three months when a loan for that amount at six per cent interest would be the alternative.

Police met the trucker for the concern yesterday as he drove up in front of the home with materials ready to start work, and took him to headquarters. The "boss" from Pittsburgh later arrived and agreed to cancel the contract.

$750,000 SLASH HELD ILLEGAL

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith's plan of turning $750,000 in unused city bond funds back into the sinking fund this year is illegal, according to Controller James P. Kerr.

Mrs. Smith, in a report indorsed by Mayor McNair, had suggested the use of excess bond issue money in retiring outstanding city bonds. She stated that she discussed the bond reversion with First Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner and Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston.

Benner, she reported, said her plan was entirely legal.

Controller Kerr, who has been studying the idea since a recent meeting of the sinking fund commission, has disagreed. He said:

"The plan is not legal and we cannot do it. The city solicitor agrees with me on that."

He said he had talked it over with Cornelius D. Scully, who disputed Benner's opinion.

Fines for Pedestrians In New Traffic Bill

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Some members of City Council appeared surprised yesterday to learn that under a proposed traffic ordinance sponsored by Mayor J. Hampton Moore, pedestrians who cros streets against red lights may be fined from $1 to $50 or sent to jail.

M'Nair Worries As Kane Steals Spotlight

Mayor McNair is all in a pother about publicity and how to get his name in the newspapers.

He told newspapermen yesterday:

"John Kane and Council are stealing all the publicity from me. I can't even get my name in the papers any more.

"I'll have to think of something new, I guess."

Injured Man Found Lying in Street

PLANE READY FOR INSULL

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull has chartered a hydro-airplane and ordered it held ready for a flight to an unknown destination, it was rumored here today.

With the circulation of this unconfirmed report, it also was rumored that his destination, if such a flight were undertaken, possibly would be Abyssinia.

The possibility that he might attempt to make a clandestine departure before the date of his scheduled expulsion, January 31, had been discussed earlier.

It was stated officially, however, that Insull will be permitted to remain in Greece until his health is satisfactory, provided he applies for a prolongation of his police residence permit and an official physician certifies that deportation would be dangerous.

Teletypewriter May Be Run By Radio

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(Universal.)—The Commerce Department's nationwide teletypewriter circuits may soon be operated by radio, it developed today.

Rex Martin, assistant director of aeronautics, has appointed a committee of experts, including W. G. H. Finch, secretary and chief engineer of American Radio News, New York, to study practicability of the plan.

The 13,000 miles of leased land wires that comprise the system are used for sending hourly weather reports along the airways and for transmitting weather maps every four hours.

HISTORIANS ASK STUDY OF NEWS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Terming newspapers an invaluable source of information for the historian, members of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies today had urged the completion of the state library's files.

The delegates to the annual meeting yesterday also urged county societies to obtain files of local newspapers merged or out of existence and advocated the teaching of local history in schools to acquaint young people with the background of their communities.

STOKOWSKI TO LEAD BAND IN RED ANTHEM

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Anybody who wants to sing the "Internationale" at the next youth concert of the Philaadelphia Orchestra may do so. delphia Orchestra may do so. Leopold Stokowski, director of the orchestra, is planning to play it—and that's that.

He said it would be played and sung as an expression of "international good feeling and comradeship."

SCORED BY LEGION

Members of the Philadelphia county board of the American Legion criticized the director for his reported intention to play the Communist anthem. These members declared it was "unpatriotic," and questioned the propriety of asking youths of "impressionable" age to sing it.

In a formal statement Stokowski said:

"At the last youth concert the audience sang the 'Marseillaise,' and I asked them if they would like to sing the 'Internationale' at the next concert.

BACKS STAND

'They enthusiastically replied yes! So we are planning to sing the 'Star Spangled Banner' and the 'Internationale' at the next concert.

"Of course every one will sing of her or his free will. No one need sing unless they wish to. I explained to the youth audience that we would sing the 'Internationale' as an expression of international good feeling and comradeship.

"The 'Internationale' was composed by a Frenchman named Degeyter in 1888. The idea back of the work is not a new one. Christ expressed it 20 centuries ago in the golden rule, and several centuries before Christ substantially the same idea was expressed by Buddha and Confucius and Lao-tze."

Test Shows Sound Travels 1,087 Feet Per Second

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A new standard of accuracy in the measurement of the speed of sound was announced to the world of science today as the conclusion of a war-time experiment with big guns at Sandy Hook, N. J.

With instruments of the greatest precision possible, Dr. Dayton C. Miller, physics professor at Case School of Applied Science, here, said he has determined sound travels at a speed of 1,087.13 feet per second. Heretofore the speed was commonly accepted at figures varying from 1,085 feet per second to 1,088.

The discovery, Dr. Miller said, will probably bring greater accuracy in locating an enemy's gun-fire.

'COYOTES' PUPS OF WILD DOGS

The coyote scare in Becks Run district faded today with the verdict of Ross Leffler, formerly of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, that a litter of puppies found in the vicinity were the offspring of wild police dogs.

Nevertheless, some 50 chickens in the district have been killed recently, and Ralph Liphart, county game protector, announces a hunt in the district for the pack of wild dogs would be instituted today.

The puppies were found in a shed by Charles Orton, 19, of 187 Alen street, and Robert Dilla, 17, of 778 Middle street, Baldwin Township. The boys took their find to the residence of John M. Phillips, wild game authority, who, with the assistance of Leffler, who was visiting him, identified them. Dilla took them home.

Police were sent into the district a year ago when wild dogs killed a sheep and attacked a pony.

JAP PROTEST TO MUSSOLINI IMPENDS

ROME, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A strong Japanese protest will be made tomorrow to Premier Mussolini personally against a recent article written by Il Duce on the Far East, it was learned today.

Japanese Ambassador Hajime Matsushima, who will deliver the protest verbally, also will voice his government's objections to a speech by Marquis Giacomo Medici del Vascello in the Chamber of Deputies.

Diplomatic circles have hummed for days with rumors that such a protest was to be made. Matsushima requested the appointment following the receipt of instructions from Tokio and the hour was fixed for Saturday afternoon.

ECONOMIC AGGRESSION

It will mark the first Japanese protest for a long time, despite the fact that a campaign has been waged in the Fascist press against Japanese economic aggression. This aggression, it is asserted, has seriously injured the Italian silk and cotton goods market.

Today, despite the impending protest, the campaign was being continued.

La Gazzetta del Popolo, a Turin newspaper, commenting on Foreign Minister Koki Hirota's recent speech before the Japanese Diet said:

> "After this, it is no wonder that the United States has decided to construct 120 more warships."

In the article and the speech to which Japanese objected, both Premier Mussolini and the Marquis del Vascello alluded to the "yellow peril."

The Marquis, reporting to the chamber on the Italian naval budget for 1934-35, referred to Japan's recent naval activities and policies as constituting a "menace."

Japan Plans Another Increase in Navy

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—With a watchful eye fixed upon the new naval building plans of the United States, the Japanese navy is planning a "third replenishment program" involving the construction of several vessels outside the provisions of existing naval treaties, Minister of the Navy Mineo Osumi told a chamber meeting of leading Diet members today.

It was understood the navy considers Japan's position will be relatively lowered in comparison with the United States after 1936, and therefore the general staff has drafted its new program.

The meeting was held just before a Diet session which developed into the most heated debate Japanese leaders have yet engaged in over Japan's foreign and military policy.

Despite recent efforts of the government to suppress all talk of the "crisis" which Japan's militarists have envisioned as approaching in 1935, Diet members angrily demanded to know whether the "crisis" was real or artificial, and demanded proof.

Roosevelt Invited To Visit in Japan

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—The Pan-Pacific Club today adopted a resolution inviting President Roosevelt to visit Japan this summer. Acting on the basis of newspaper dispatches printed here intimating Roosevelt might visit Japan, if he were invited, by extending his projected trip to Honolulu, the club adopted the following resolution:

> "Since President Roosevelt is the honorary chairman of our league of Pacific clubs, we would eagerly welcome him if he could visit Japan after going to Honolulu."

Subtle British Diplomacy Weaning America Away From Its Traditional Neutrality

she herself judges to have resorted to war in breach of the Kellogg pact has any of a pre-war belligerent's rights;

"That if America, in the exercise of her own unfettered judgment, considers that action taken by League members under Article 16 is designed solely to stop illegal war by such a country, America will at least not interfere so as to give aid and succor to it;

"And that in case of actual war or threatened resort to war, she will (while retaining her ultimate right to independent judgment) be ready to consult with the other Kellogg pact signatories by such methods as may be opportune, but in such a way as not to replace or weaken the machinery of the League members."

Mr. Davis declared:

"I wish to make it clear that we are ready not only to do our part toward the substantive reduction of armaments but, if this is effected by general international agreement, we are also prepared to contribute in other ways to the organization of peace.

"In particular we are willing to consult with other states in case of a threat to peace, with a view of averting conflict.

"Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violation of its international obligations and take measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we will refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort which the states may thus make to restore peace."

Almost item for item, an American representative presents a doctrine suggested by British statesmen and prepared with the aid of British statesmen in an attempt to bring the Kellogg pact and the League of Nations closer.

Let us quote Sir Arthur Salter further as to the procedure of promulgating this doctrine in behalf of the United States.

He writes:

"The exact form and precise procedure are, of course, unimportant if it is in substance America's attitude and if it can be declared.

"IT MIGHT TAKE THE FORM OF A PRESIDENTIAL DECLARATION, which, if in accordance with the predominant public opinion, would become a part of the traditions of American policy, LIKE THE MONROE DOCTRINE, or it might be embodied in resolutions of the Senate and House of Representatives."

NOW GREAT BRITAIN, France and Geneva have been informed by agents of the administration that this policy WILL BE ENUNCIATED IN A PRESIDENTIAL DECLARATION.

It will not be contained in the convention of disarmament, which will take the form of a multilateral treaty to be signed by all nations.

The declaration will be in the form of a unilateral statement by the President.

This statement would constitute A NEW AMERICAN DOCTRINE, and would NOT HAVE TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE SENATE.

Only the disarmament convention or treaty would be submitted for ratification.

The presidential doctrine, spokesmen of the administration informed France, is proposed as a concession to France. It is intended TO MEET SOME OF THE CLAIMS OF FRANCE FOR SECURITY in return for France's agreeing to take steps towards disarmament.

The most prominent French statesman, who is playing a leading role in the disarmament discussions, has agreed that this proposed doctrine is a sufficient concession towards a security pact and that he would accept it and would induce France to accept it.

THE AMERICAN SENATE might well watch events in Geneva and Washington during the next few weeks.

The Senate might well ask Mr. Norman Davis just how authoritatively he represents President Roosevelt on this question, and if he does not represent President Roosevelt why he is retained as President Roosevelt's representative.

WATER COLORS IN EXHIBIT

By PENELOPE REDD

Carnegie Institute is exhibiting, through February 28, a collection of 40 water colors by Lucien Simon. Simon's interest in Brittany genre, the circus, and the activities within his own home, supplement his recent travel notes on his journey to South America.

Although Simon is well beyond 70, his South American water colors convey the vitality of youth elevated by seasoned skill. These water colors recording incidents in the Argentine, Brazil and Paraguay, indicate a disciplined mind eager to comment upon the new. His studies in Bahia are pungent.

Wherever Simon may be, his interest in making pictures directly from life is authentic. He has never rested on his many deserved honors or succumbed to the practice of repeating his successes. He never paints merely to produce another picture, but seems always to be impelled to paint because of his vivid feeling for the world about him.

His water colors do not depend upon chance, but upon his keen perception, his supple technic and his genuine love of life. The Simon exhibition is one to recommend without reservation.

Largest attendance in recent years is indicated by reservations for the annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Stewards and Caterers Association at the Hotel Schenley, February 6.

Edward Ganter, committee treasurer, reports demands for tickets show the renewed interest of members. President A. Albert announced the committee includes Charles F. Sohm, chairman; Augustus Miller, secretary; Joseph Till, Harry Kramer, George S. Lehner, Harry Meyerson, Joseph F. Maga and Oscar Braumuller.

ANTI-JAPANESE MOVE GROWS IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Suspicion and distrust of Japanese intentions in the Far East were voiced in the Soviet press today in the first reaction to the speech of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota before the Japanese Diet and the resignation of Gen. Sadao Araki as minister of war.

Karl Radek, writing in the newspaper Izvestia, declared:

> "Having seized Manchuria and improved railroad transportation there, and constructed many new airdromes, the Japanese military now openly propagates the necessity of war with the Soviet Union.
>
> "The U. S. S. R. does not observe these military preparations with folded hands, but openly prepares to defend Soviet territory. If Hirota considers this an alteration of our position we can only regret that he misunderstood our policy."

Son, Grandchildren Share $22,500 Estate

The will of Mrs. Anna M. Beckert, 3707 California avenue, filed today, leaves an estate of $22,500. She divides her property into two shares, one going to her son, Elmer H., the other being held in trust by the Dollar Savings and Trust Company for the children of her deceased daughter, Mrs May B. McClure, until they are 25. The son is named executor.

Wife Gets $75,000 In Court—But No Tin Cup

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 26.—(Universal.)—Last week in her divorce trial Mrs. Paula Adelaide Thompson testified her husband, Edwin Degroot Thompson, wealthy vice president of Thompson Products, Inc., of Cleveland, said to her:

> "When I get through with you you will be sitting in the middle of Shaker Heights with a tin cup in your hands."

The Court of Common Pleas yesterday awarded her $75,000 cash, $500 monthly for a year and $200 a month for 10 years, for the support of an adopted son.

PLOT AGAINST PREMIER FAILS

SINAIA, Rumania, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Police today frustrated what was believed to be an attempt to assassinate Prime Minister George Tatarescu, of Rumania.

He was aboard a special train with his cabinet journeying from Bucharest to attend the royal banquet in honor of King Boris and Queen Joanna of Bulgaria at King Carol's palace here.

RIGID TESTS!

THE testing laboratory at Fintex is busy all the time—maintaining Quality standards on every item that goes into Fintex Clothes.

Take WOOLENS, for instance: Every fabric must be all-wool. We also test them for Wear, Color Fastness, Uniformity of Weave, and Reaction to Cleaning Fluids. That's why Fintex Clothes wear so long.

BUTTONS must be pure bone, not cheap composition buttons that snap in a hundred pieces when the first pressing machine bears down on them. Fintex buttons must last.

SILK THREAD must stand a real test for strength. Incidentally, we use a double-strength silk thread in trousers at all points of strain. Fintex seams are sewed to stay.

There's a lot more—but the one real way to test a Fintex garment is to buy one. Your nearest Fintex store is ready to serve you.

NUDE KIDNAPER FLEES WITH CHILD

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Marks of an automobile tire and a bare foot in damp ground were found by police last night in a search for a nude man who is believed to have kidnaped a child on her way from school.

Despite a wide search of suburban roads and highways, not another trace of what police called the most mysterious kidnaping in their experience could be found.

School children at St. Davids, nine miles from this city, first notified police. Shouting in fear, they ran to a highway and told a traffic officer that a man in a blue coupe had dragged a crying child into the machine. They said he wore no clothing.

The children who reported the occurrence led officers to the place where they said they saw the car, where the marks of the tires and a footprint were found.

They said the car had stopped close by a schoolhouse shortly before the children left for home. Farmers and residents of the district joined the search. Many were armed.

J. George Fredman, national past commander-in-chief of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, will speak. Judge Benjamin Lencher of the County Court will preside. New officers of the organization will be installed and the drum and bugle corps of the 111th Infantry will play.

Ill Man Rallies In Oxygen Battle

Fed oxygen for more than 145 hours, Mike Secando, 42, of 1564 Electric avenue, Braddock, was reported on his way to recovery today following an attack of pneumonia. North Braddock firemen, on duty 24 hours a day, have been administering the oxygen under the supervision of Dr. William A. Trepak, 824 Washington avenue, and Fire Chief Louis Burdell.

City Fireman Held In Auto Accident

Martin Moran, 48, of 513 Tripoli street, North Side, a city fireman, was arrested at the Troy Hill engine house today in connection with an automobile accident at East Ohio and Middle streets yesterday.

Police said that after the accident Moran walked away and did not return to his damaged machine. According to the police report, Moran's car struck and damaged a truck.

Rolph and Sleuths Sued in Kidnaping

He charged conspiracy in the kidnaping. Twenty-five John Does were accused by Wirin of spiriting him into the country and beating him. The abduction occurred shortly before Wirin was to have spoken to 1,500 Mexican laborers of the vegetable fields of Imperial Valley.

LINK CAPTIVES TO KIDNAPING

extra police guards called in to watch the prisoners.

Bail for Dillinger and each of his three comrades was fixed at $100,000. East of the women was held under $5,000 bail. The preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

One of the three women held was said by officers to be in a "talkative mood," and she was subjected to close questioning in the hope that an important clue to the Bremer case may be learned.

U. S. SENDS PROBER

J. Edgar Hoover, in charge of the federal drive against crime, has wired from Washington to the Tucson police chief who directed the brilliant capture, C. A. Wollard, that he has ordered C J. Endres, a federal agent, to fly here from Phoenix to investigate the possible connection of the Dillinger gang with the Bremer case.

Police pointed out that the Dillinger desperadoes did not start West until two days after the abduction of Bremer.

Justice C. V. Budlong presided. The prisoners had been led in single file with hands manacled, from the jail to the courthouse, the rifles of their guards trained on them at all times. The seven failed to show any emotion, and Dillinger's face in particular was a mask during the court proceedings.

In one corner of the courtroom, a sub-machine gun was placed on a table and trained on the prisoners. Police expressed the fear that other members of the gang, still believed to be in Tucson, might attempt to rescue their comrades.

SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—John Dillinger, notorious bandit and jail breaker, is one of the suspects in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker who is being held for $200,000 ransom, Police Inspector Charles Tierney said today when told of the capture of Dillinger in Tucson.

Tierney added, however, that so far there was no evidence to connect Dillinger with the Bremer "snatch," but that he had been listed as a suspect along with a number of other notorious criminals.

U. S. Spurs Secret Hunt For Bremer Kidnapers

ST. PAUL, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Federal operatives intensified their work today to trap the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer as his absence from home lengthened into nine days.

While the Bremer family awaited final instructions for keeping a rendezvous with the gang and paying the $200,000 ransom, Department of Justice agents mapped new strategy at a secret meeting in Minneapolis yesterday.

The authorities' latest work had gleaned the stories of two unnamed women eye-witnesses and another anonymous note.

The note was to be compared with other similar missives received since the president of the Commercial State Bank was abducted January 17, in an effort to determne if it is the work of a crank or emanated from the gang.

One of the women witnesses claimed to have watched the seizure of Bremer and recalled having seen Bremer and two of the gang scuffle, she said, as the latter invaded the banker's automobile. The other woman gave authorities the license number she said the gang's car bore.

FACTOR NAMES TOUHY AT TRIAL

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—John Factor today identified Roger Touhy and two co-defendants as the men who kidnaped him for ransom last July.

His face trembling, Factor three times stepped down from the witness stand, walked dramatically across the courtroom and pointed out Gustav (Gloomy Gus) Schaefer, Albert (Polly Nose) Kator and finally Touhy.

The four defendants slouched down in their chairs, and all except Touhy gazed at the floor. Touhy looked squarely back into Factor's face with a sneer.

Factor said Kator was "the only kidnaper who was kind to me."

Factor made the identifications at various points in his narrative of the kidnaping, a story of mental and physical cruelty during which the kidnapers threatened to "cut off an ear" and send it to his wife as a souvenir.

Blame Hit-Run Auto For Man's Injuries

Believed to have been struck by a hit-and-run driver, Tony Correnela, 50, of Independence street, West End, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital last night with a possible skull fracture. He was found lying in West Carson street by West End police.

BOHEMIAN AIR MISSING FOR VILLAGE BALL

By RAYMOND CROWLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Cynthia White—some call her Greenwich Village's queen-without-portfolio—beckoned today with a wand magically preserved from a moribund past.

And so tonight, by subway and taxi, they'll come to Webster Hall—Tibetan lamas from far Rockaway, Brooklyn mandarins, toreadors from Spanish Harlem, Broadway tic toc lasses and just plain gents in two-pant suits.

It's Greenwich Village's annual costume ball, promoted for the seventeenth time by Cynthia, who "knew the village when." Now that it's no longer Bohemia, now that it has passed through the art era and the arty epoch into something else again, she still promotes this torrid dance and packs them in.

GUSHES MEMORIES

A smallish woman, snappy-eyed, she annually gushes memories. She sat in her Brevoort suite today very busy arranging things but not too busy to lament the days when "the village was not a mere geographical unit, but a lovely state of mind." Said she:

"I remember how the late Louis Wolheim would sit in the T. N. T. and discuss everything from broccoli to the new physics . . . Floyd Dell and Hendrick Van Loon in the mad hatter arguing endlessly . . . The night Eugene O'Neill met Carlotta Monterey . . . Me cooking apfel strudel, my favorite dish, at 2 a. m. . . . Rushing off to picket the White House for woman suffrage . . . Edna St. Vincent Millay winning first prize at a costume ball . . . The Hudson Dusters, that old ferocious gang, threatening one year to raid our ball and giving everybody a thrill that came to nothing.

"But about tonight's affair. I've selected my three orchestras with chromatic impartiality. One band is Nordic, another Negro, another Cuban."

CHARMING LADIES

There'll be dancers, Mexican, Cuban and Andalusian, not to speak of a Gypsy with an accordion and Otto Soglow with his little king act, Miss White said. Miss White hopes Fanny Brice will be there, as well as Jo Davidson looking for a new model.

After explaining all these things, she turned to business, delicately rebuffing a voice on the phone that asked for "two comps," graciously receiving the two dollars of a middle-aged and lonely heart from Omaha. She echoed this question:

"What'll you wear? Oh, your dress suit, if you brought it with you. Will there be any girls to dance with? There'll be many charming women. The rest is up to you—a matter of personality, you know."

CORINNE TRIES COMEBACK

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 26.—Corinne Griffith, star of the silent screen, had gone back to work in Hollywood today after an absence of three years and found it "thrilling and easier." She explained:

"Thrilling, because the sound apparatus is all so different, and because there are so many new faces.

"Easier, because now an actress has a chance to use her voice to get across an emotion."

Miss Griffith has spent her time away from Hollywood in touring Europe, and in acquiring stage experience.

KAISER'S HOPES OF THRONE DIM ON BIRTHDAY

By CHARLES L. FLICK
Universal Service

DEPLIN, Jan. 26.—A castle set aside by the Hitler government awaits the former Kaiser at Homburg, near Frankfurt-on-the-Main, but, today, as satellites of his once brilliant court trooped to Doorn for the observance of his seventy-fifth birthday, the chances of his occupying it or of ever regaining his throne seemed slimmer than ever.

Vague rumors of a monarchial coup d'etat on Saturday, his birthday, were set completely at rest with the departure of former high officials of the court for Holland. It was obvious that the Kaiser would not invite his old friends to Doorn if he intended to be in Germany.

POPULARITY PROMOTED

Knowing they may never have another opportunity to advance the Hohenzollern cause, monarchist organizations are utilizing the day in every way possible to popularize the aged exile and his sons. Preparations more elaborate than those undertaken for any January 27 since William II abdicated and secretly crossed the Dutch frontier in November, 1918, have been made for the celebrations which will be held throughout Germany.

The tide of opinion that seemed to be running in favor of the dethroned monarch when the Nazi regime came into power is fast receding. In the 12 months that Chancellor Hitler has ruled the reich two distinct groups have developed within the Nazis and the one that is now larger and stronger is distinctly anti-monarchist.

REGENCY LIKELY

That Hitler one day will appoint a young Hohenzollern prince as reich regent is not unlikely. It is even declared that Prince Alexander, of Prussia, only son of Prince August Wilhelm, a storm trooper and fourth son of the ex-Kaiser, is being trained for this purpose. But a regentship with Prince Alexander would not be monarchism; it would be a flagrant violation of royal family traditions. The Kaiser is known to be strongly opposed to this compromise made to appease both monarchial and radical groups.

Meanwhile, the Kaiser is free to return to Germany. The only formality necessary for his return to the Homburg castle reserved for him is to apply for a passport. It is regarded as unlikely that he will wish to return as a mere resident.

Separator Co. Fight Damage Verdict

A motion for a new trial has been filed by the Delaval Separator Company against which concern Peter J. McGrath obtained a verdict for $5,000 damages for injuries the latter received in a traffic crash in Ardmore boulevard, November 10, 1929. It is alleged the company's automobile struck the rear of McGrath's car, McGrath receiving internal injuries.

Old Gould Yacht, U-Boat Chaser, Burns

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26. — (AP.)—Fire beat the junkman to the U. S. S. Niagara early today, completely wrecking the one time palatial yacht, which the government obtained from Helen Gould, New York heiress, for use as a submarine chaser during the World War.

The 200-foot craft served as a survey vessel after the Armistice and was towed here from New York last September.

Firemen of State Wait $650,000 Fund

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Firemen and their dependents, within a few weeks, will receive benefits of between $650,000 and $700,000 from the Auditor General.

The money represents two per cer cent of fire insurance premiums paid by Pennsylvania policy holders to companies located outside the state. The money goes to the various municipalities in proportion to the premiums paid from them.

2 Hurt as Auto Hits Van Trailer

Robert John, 29, and Peter Dinella, 28, both of Valley Heights, near New Kensington, were in the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, today, suffering severe head and face injuries received when their automobile struck the trailer of a large moving van on Freeport road near Springdale last night. John, the driver, attempted to pass the van, driven and owned by Victor Minor, of New Kensington, according to police.

Wife Who Paid Baron To Stay Away Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(Universal.) — Margaret Dulles, Baroness Ettore Romano Fontana, who for a decade paid her noble husband $3,900 a year to remain away from her, died at her Rittenhouse Square apartment here yesterday.

The Baroness was the daughter of the late Andrew Cheves Dulles and was "born to the soil" of Philadelphia. She lost a brother, William Crothers Dulles, in the Titanic disaster.

Stork Beats Police To 'Accident' Scene

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—An accident report sent police hurrying to the American Hospital today and when they arrived they were greeted by the unmistakable wailings of a very young baby. A nurse said, as she pointed to a room from which the crying came:

"There's your accident."

It was a six-pound girl born to Mrs. Marian McCloskey as a passing motorist, George Gerker, was taking her to the hospital after the automobile of her husband, Martin, had broken down en route.

Two Husbands, Wife Suing for Divorce

Divorce suits were filed yesterday by Albert S. Brass against Valera Brass, Josephine Hart against Leon Hart, and by Bryce N. Harrison against Mary C. Harrison.

200 IDLE STORM RELIEF BOARD

Staging the second demonstration in the past week at the North Side branch of the County Emergency Relief Board, 200 members of the Unemployed Citizens' League stormed the place yesterday, demanding a hearing from officials.

When the mob refused to leave the building at 521 Sandusky street, Mrs. Edna Chubb, assistant director, called police, who dispelled them. No arrests were made.

Robert Lieberman, executive chairman of the league, said relief officials had approved a meeting of his group with directors of the North Side unit. Workers at the branch replied that they had received no orders to hold a conference.

Benedict Re-elected By Road Builders

E. L. Benedict, of Pittsburgh, was re-elected vice president in charge of the northeastern district, American Road Builders' Association, at the organization's annual convention in Chicago yesterday.

H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, District of Columbia, was re-elected president. Other officers named are Charles M. Upham, of Washington, vice president, southern district; Grover C. Dillman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., vice president, central district, and Stanley Abel, of Taft, Cal., vice president, western district.

JOHNSON ASKS PILLORY FOR 'CHISELERS'

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The old-time pillory, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson believes, is needed for the chiseler who thinks it is clever to outsmart Uncle Sam and who would box without Queensbury rules. He told the Chamber of Commerce last night:

"There are among you some people who, now that orders are coming in and idle spindles are working once more, think it would be a good time to scrap all these old rules of fair competition. In other words, that the old habit of letting the devil take the hindmost and boxing without any Queensbury rules should come back again."

When such instances are brought to his attention, said the general:

"I find myself regretting that the public pillory is no longer an American institution."

Despite the minority who would stand in the way of NRA, Gen. Johnson said, for the first time since the depression every business index is pointed upward. He added:

"The starved demand of four years of privation opens hungry maws in all directions. The President has cleaned up the banking situation. The monetary situation is rapidly clearing. An enormous amount of debt liquidation has occurred. Expatriated capital is flooding back."

B'nai B'rith to Fete New, Retiring Heads

Mrs. I. A. Melnick, newly-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary, Pittsburgh Lodge No. 44, B'nai B'rith, and Mrs. Simon Davis, her predecessor, will be honored at the organization's annual president's day luncheon at Webster Hall Monday.

Dennison New Head Of Business Bureau

Directors of the Pittsburgh Better Business Bureau yesterday promoted G. H. Dennison, assistant manager, to general manager. He succeeds Reuel W. Elton, who leaves for Washington next week to become secretary of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

The annual report of the directors revealed a decline in business racketeering and unethical practices as a result of the bureau's activities.

NRA DOOM SEEN BY DICKINSON

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Senator Dickinson (Rep.), of Iowa, assailed administration policies here last night, asserting the NRA was "passing and passing fast" and dubbing the entire Democratic legislative program "an economic guessing party."

Speaking before the Chamber of Commerce, the Iowa Senator contrasted the recovery efforts of the United States since 1932 with those of England, and said this country was sending up a "trial balloon" of spending to regain prosperity, while England was saving for the same end.

Springdale Man Injured in Mine

30-HOUR WEEK FIGHT OPENS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The battle for the 30-hour week and greater labor participation in NRA code administration will be renewed in Congress through hearings to be conducted by the House Labor Committee, it was announced today.

The hearings, which Chairman Connery (Dem.), of Massachusetts, said would begin soon, may cover the whole field of operations of the NRA and give Congress a first-hand picture of the attitude of industry and labor.

With the House committee planning to call leaders of industry and labor before it, Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, was considering a drive to force action on his proposal to restore the anti-trust laws which were modified in the recovery act.

HOUSEKEEPING OF STAR UPHELD

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The housekeeping abilities of Barbara Rogers were upheld by a Municipal Court judge yesterday after the movie actress had made a tearful protest in defending herself against a $750 suit.

She was sued by J. E. Geddes, who contended $500 worth of household articles were missing and another $250 worth of damage was left when Miss Rogers vacated his premises last summer.

Miss Rogers sobbed:

"Not one of those articles listed as missing was in the house when I rented it for $150 monthly. I'm a good housekeeper, I'm not dirty and I don't break things."

After offering to call a recess so Miss Rogers might have a "good cry," the judge, E. R. Brand, gave judgment in favor of the actress and Gregory La Cava, screen director, who was named co-defendant because he had subleased the place from the actress.

The others, seven men and a woman, will die together in Kilby Prison unless Gov. B. M. Miller intervenes.

First Wedded Year Happiest, Study of Divorce Shows

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Divorce statistics for 1933 compiled by Loring P. Jordan, registrar of probate of Middlesex County today showed:

More wives than husbands seek divorce (528 to 184); the first year of married life is the happiest; the fifth year is the "danger year"; cruelty is the most frequent grounds.

JUROR JAILED IN BRIBERY

A charge of bribery was lodged today by County Detective David Drexler against Harry Timmons, 211 Cedarhurst street, a juror in a recent Common Pleas Court case, who is alleged to have accepted $20.

Timmons was to receive a hearing this afternoon before Alderman Thomas M. Geary. His arrest followed charges that an unidentified man offered money to two jurors and that Timmons, after first refusing, accepted the money the night after the verdict.

The jury found for the defendant in the case of Julius C. and Arthur F. Schmidt, realty dealers, who sued Oliver M. Wright for $2,0[illegible] commission in a $82,000 realty purchase for Allegheny County Memorial Park.

HONOR SLAYER FREED BY JURY

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Millie Prince, 31-year-old matron, has satisfied the law that she killed Charles J. Wolfert, retired Astoria jeweler, in self-defense.

The young housewife, who was found not guilty of second-degree murder by a jury after five hours' deliberation last night, was "very fortunate," however, in securing the acquittal in the opinion of Judge Thomas C. Downs. He said:

"You are a very fortunate woman. More fortuante than you deserve. I hope you will profit by this."

August Wolfert, eldest son of the slain man, attempted to address the judge after the verdict was announced. He was hustled from the courtroom into a corridor, shouting:

Mrs. Prince's husband, Harold, a highway bureau employe, and her 10-year-old son left the courtroom with her.

Kittanning Youth Falls From Auto Here

Robert Flemm, 21, who fell from an automobile in which he was riding with friends in Highland Park last night, was in the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, today, suffering cuts and bruises. Flemm, who lives in Kittanning, was returning home from the automobile show.

HUSBAND SLAIN BY HIS 5 WIVES

MALEWSKI, Poland, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Because he did not divorce four previous wives, Isador Ruskewyat paid with his life yesterday.

His fifth wife became suspicious, learned that her husband had not divorced four predecessors and searched until she found them.

In time, the five became friends and the fifth lured the unsuspecting husband to a party at which all were gathered.

Blind with rage, all five kicked and beat him to death.

Grand Jury Blames None for Lynchir

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The Somerset County grand jury has ended its special session without finding a true bill in the lynching of George Armwood, a Negro.

Armwood was taken from the Princess Anne Jail the night of October 18 by a mob that overpowered 20 state police and was hanged and later burned. A Coroner's jury which investigated was unable to hold any persons as being responsible.

CLOTHES SCANT, QUITS MOVIES

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Virginia Peine Lehmann, estranged wife of Edward J. Lehman, Jr., Chicago millionaire, was "at liberty" today.

Refusing to wear a scanty costume provided her for a movie, Mrs. Lehman, who had been working in the films as "Virginia Pine," walked off a stage set.

Fox studio officials admitted Mrs. Lehmann had refused to appear in the costume because of its sparsity.

Other showgirls wore the costume and the scene was filmed.

Thrilling War Drama On WCAE Tonight

"Regimented Dead," a radio re-creation of the most dramatic moments of the World War, is broadcast over WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

The same stirring program will be heard Saturday evening over WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., at 1:15 p. m.; WMMN, Fairmont, at 6:30; WWVA, Wheeling, at 8; WLBW, Erie, at 9, and WWSW, Pittsburgh, at 9:45 p. m.

'Romanoff Romance' Russian Drama

This afternoon and evening radio listeners in the Tri-State area hear a true story of the love of a royal Russian princess for a commoner.

Princess Valentine, who has written the story of her life for the American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, was exiled from Russia to prevent her marriage with her commoner-lover.

After the revolution and death of the Czar, she returned to Russia to seek happiness.

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, O., 7:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m. and WLBW, Erie, 9. p. m.

'Club Car Special' Full of Humor

The second installment of the new "Club Car Special," hilarious radio serial written by O. O. McIntyre, Will Rogers, George Ade and other famous humorists, and sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph, is heard over WKBN, Youngstown, this afternoon at 1, and over WMMN, Fairmont, at 6:30 this evening.

Tomorrow, the "Club Car Special" rolls into Charleston, W. Va., over the WOBU air waves at 5:15, and into Columbus, O., over WAIU at 7:15.

George M. Cohan May Direct All N. B. C. Productions

By AIRCASTER

Chieftains of the National Broadcasting Company and George M. Cohan are huddling on a proposition to have Cohan take charge of production and all creative activity for both networks.

As yet, George hasn't turned in an answer.

CBS engineers have begun installation of revolutionary equipment in the Columbia playhouse, whence future programs will come, by which "wide band, high fidelity transmission," the radio equivalent of a third dimension in movies, is attained.

Sounds and nuances that hitherto have eluded the mike will become audible, and automatic stop clocks will time the broadcasts to a split second.

BIRTHDAY

Part of the combined network program in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday, to be broadcast at 11:15 p. m. January 30, includes a message from Admiral Byrd, Nino Martini, Paul Whiteman, George M. Cohan, John McCormack, Burns and Allen, the three service bands, Mischa Elman, and a five-minute talk by the President.

A grand onslaught on talent eager to be represented on the show has begun in the artist bureaus.

The premiere in Hartford, Conn., of the new American opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts," by Gertrude Stein, and music by Virgil Thompson, will be aired by way of CBS-WJAS February 8, in the evening, and will consume an hour.

* * *

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conductor, has been signed for a commercial series on CBS-WJAS and will open on March 6, at 9:30 p. m.

The signing gives the Columbia System exclusively three famous symphonic outfits—the Philharmonic, the Philadelphia and the Minneapolis organizations.

A new feature title, "Improve My Music," makes its bow tonight at 5:45.

Globe-Trotting

By Louis L. Kaufman

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Mayor William N. McNair will break his long radio silence tomorrow at 6:30 when he appears on the Globe Trotters program over WJAS and WCAE.

This will be his first "especially for radio" talk since he assumed the chair of the City's Chief Executive.

His last appearance was the day after the election returns showed that he had been chosen Mayor.

At the same time, if his health permits, we may hear from the Mayor's life long friend and associate, Francis Maguire, who expects to accompany the Mayor while he broadcasts.

Remember the time—6:30 tomorrow night.

What ho! a lady in distress!

Mrs. Madue E. Young gave Mr. B. her washing machine motor to repair. Mr. B. has not returned the motor. He is waiting to hear from Mrs. Young and Mrs. Young has lost his address.

If Mr. B. sees this will he get this motor over to the Young's.

Walter Winchell

+ ON BROADWAY +

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

That Missouri lad who knocked himself off in a Kansas City hotel was no sentimentalist, at any rate . . . Nor did his last note smell of self-pity or the usual blah which suicides pen . . . It would be the sort of last note I think I would leave if I wanted to quit this not so funny world. "To the management," it began, "my apologies! To my mother: I'm sorry. To my brother: So long. To the rest of the world: Nuts!" . . . My idea of an item is one like this about Will Rogers, who keeps his doings out of the papers instead of telling his press dep't about them. I got the fact from a neighbor . . . When that recent washout ruined the boulevard just below his estate in the Santa Monica Mts.—Rogers saved motorists from plunging into a 30-ft. cut made by the flood waters—by staying up all night waving a red lantern . . . Cute repartee between Sophie Tucker and Master Vallee, on his return to the Hollywood spot . . . "I'm the real Mrs. Vallee," said Soph. as she hugged him . . . "No," clowned Rudy, "You're Jane Doe Number 5" . . . The passing of Mr. Campbell, the best known of the undertakers in town, reminds me of his Christmas cards . . . When you got one—you shuddered a little—at his sense of humor. His photo was on it—as Santa Claus! . . . Mr. Campbell buried any newspaper man free . . . Probably a pleasure.

The widow of Holbrook Blinn, whose acting was grade-A, writes me a letter . . . Would I be so kind, she queries, to help correct a mistake which has crept into the various gazettes often . . . Mrs. Blinn relates that "a Beatrice Blinn" is referred to as the niece of the late Holbrook Blinn . . . This is not so, says the widow, as he had no sister or brother . . . And he told Miss "Blinn" once that he couldn't find a trace of their relationship . . . Miss "Blinn" has been in the papers recently—with an action against Crane Wilbur, her ex-husband . . . All of us who write pieces for the papers have listed her as the late star's niece right along, and this is the first time, I think, that the thing has been challenged . . . Therefore, if Beatrice "Blinn" wishes to offer rebuttal I will be glad to give her the same space here . . . I can't get that story out of my bean—the one I agreed to use—but without the names . . . She was a famous child star of only yesterday, it seems—who made a half million dollars making faces at the cameras. And her name was in lights eveerywhere. Now she and her kin are destitute and hungry—and forgotten by the audiences who once adored the baby actress—who grew up, poor thing.

Ever since I passed on my favorite line on friendship—the mail has been thick with them . . . Not all of them are very good, but Vivien Ruth's passes, viz: "True friends see thru you, and close their eyes. Others open their mouths!" . . . Howard Marsh offers: "Your true friends tip you off—the falsies will tip you—over" . . . Tops, however, still is: "A real friend is one who walks in—when the rest of the world walks out" . . . I like Sid Garfinkel's idea of a great actor . . . He is Corse Payton, who while playing to a matinee of about 12 people—could look thru a stage window into the wings—and see the notice of the play's closing on the bulletin board and exclaim with fervor: "Ah, what a magnificent view from here!"

Some people have such imaginations . . . Take that article writer in the L. A. Herald Express, who relates how tough it is for him to write news about his fellows at the college he attends . . . "Winchell's column," he sets forth in true high school boy fashion, "is a snap compared to my job" . . . He goes on to babble, "He can sit in his office and send out 'wisecracks' all over the country—and have a whole continent separating him and his victim" . . . Billy? . . . He ought to drop in some time and see the marks on the walls where some victims wish they could bang my head . . . I am sure, at any rate, that my collegiate critic has an easier time of it . . . For he hasn't the nerve to put his name over his stuff . . . Of all beverages! Billy Sunday's pet quencher is hot grape juice! . . . I like that prediction in a movie mag—where a horoscoper predicted twins in 1934 for the John Gilberts, who just went foomphff.

Woollcott will have a fit because I'm using this for myself. . . . He'd give his second chin for one like it . . . I mean that jittery story about the witch doctor . . . Arthur Mehaffey, a medical student at the University of Toronto, won a scholarship, it seems . . . And a job with the Rockefeller Institute, which assigned him to the Nigerian yellow fever camp . . . Young Mehaffey accepted, and urged his sweetheart, a nurse, to marry him. He has since remarried . . . She agreed, and off they went to the African jungles —but after a few days the bride got into a row with one of her Swahili servants, a young punk. . . . She had to fire him after he made a scene, and that afternoon while at the market center with a Japanese doctor for escort, a ju-ju man ankled up to Mrs. Mehaffey—looked her in the eye—told her she shouldn't have been mean to the servant —and then in sinister whispers said: "You are wished!" . . . The Japanese physician pushed the voodoo guy away, cussed him a little, and the ju-ju man looked at the doctor and said: "You, too! You are wished!" . . . Nothing much was thought of the incident until a few nights later, at dinner . . . Mrs. Mehaffey's eyes seemed riveted on the dome light over the table . . . She then slumped over—dead. . . . Stimulants were administered, an autopsy was performed, but none could explain the cause of death . . . Three days later the Japanese doctor died in the same manner. But why? . . . And so my friend, Gordon Sinclair, the globe-trotting reporter for the Toronto Star, departs within a fortnight for the West Coast of Africa—to look up that witch doctor and get the lowdown—and perhaps justice.

Ultra-Violet Rays Prevent Colds

A week of glorious sunshine is stimulating—gives a real appetite, clears your eyes and steadies your nerves. Winter is here and the sunshine is blotted out by Smoke, Dust and Fog. You will lack these precious rays given by the Sun.

Science provides a real artificial sunshine to give you these Ultra-Violet Rays. Five minutes under these rays several times a week will protect you from colds caused by the lack of sunshine.

Dix Befriends Hitch-Hiking Youth

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—One of the more amusing stories of the week features Richard Dix and a movie-struck farm boy from near Passaic, N. J.

Mr. Dix

Five years ago, 13-year-old Jack McCune started to write to Rich about his dislike of farm life and his ambition to come to Hollywood. The quality of the boy's letters interested the star, and he sent back fatherly advice to be content with milking cows and other chores around his parents' place.

The correspondence went back and forth until last Wednesday when a strapping, six-foot youth waylaid Rich as he was entering the RKO studios.

It was Jack McCune, who had found the lure of the movies too strong and who had hitch-hiked 3,000 miles across the country to see his idol.

One glance was enough to see that the boy had no screen possibilities. A bit puzzled, Rich took him out to his Beverly Hills home to spend the night. Then he thought of a solution. The next morning he sent Jack out to his ranch, where the boy now has a regular job as handy man with the daily task of milking the cows.

Not long ago, Sir Guy Standing, distinguished British actor, was present at one of those Hollywood buffet suppers where everybody stands in line to help himself to food.

Sir Guy

"Pardon me," said Sir Guy.

"You Englishmen are always saying 'pardon me,'" the fellow sputtered.

"I thought it was preferable to pouring lobster down your back," observed Sir Guy.

* * *

The energy of 17-year-old Jean Parker is disconcerting to Hollywood's young and giddier set. In addition to acting and writing a novel, the M-G-M starlet is now planning to embark upon a series of dance recitals in the larger cities of the country. Before the screen found her, Jean studied dancing for a number of years. She has conceived the idea of a modern ballet and has the music department at M-G-M writing the score for her.

* * *

Buddy De Sylva's suspicions are aroused. Not long ago he wanted a showgirl, Louise Seidel, for his Fox picture but couldn't find her. Then he walked into the Vine street Brown Derby and recognized Louise selilng cigarets.

He asked her what was the idea and she told him she had decided there was more money to be made as a cigaret girl than as a Hollywood beauty.

But, yesterday, Buddy was suspicious. In fact, he openly claims that Louise had been planted in the Brown Derby for Earl Carroll to "discover."

* * *

His wanderings in Spain now completed, Gilbert Roland will arrive in Hollywood today . . . Peggy Fears, estranged wife of New York's A. C. Blumenthal, and sometimes a Broadway producer on her own, will confine herself to acting under her Fox contract . . . Anna Sten has a younger sister, Eugenia Nelskaya, who has worked in European pictures and who has just been admitted to the Moscow Art Theater Company . . . The honeymooners, Pat Wing and Bill Perry, are back in town and Pat is all excited over a portrait Ben Ali Haggin (Bill's cousin) is doing for her . . . R. H. Bruce Lockhart, author of the widely read "British Agent," will be a guest of Leslie Howard during his stay in Hollywood . . . The film celebs are giving a great play to the professional football games. Joe E. Brown has bought 500 tickets for next Sunday's game between the Chicago Bears and the National All-Stars . . . Josef Von Sternberg says he was made too much of a hero in that film fire episode—that the operator in the booth did most of the work . . . Gene Raymond, writing from Europe, says that the commodore of the Bremen gave a tea for Gene and his mother and for Galli Curci and her husband, Homer Samuels.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Warner Brothers are arranging one of those gala openings for "Fashions of 1934," featuring William Powell and Betty Davis. The Pennsylvania premiere of the picture, a comedy that has a style-stealing racket as its basis, will take place in the Stanley next Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Preceding the presentation of the picture there will be a style show on the stage, beginning at 8 o'clock with 24 professional models in this part of the bill. Doors of the theater, to be closed for a short time, will reopen at 7:30 o'clock for the style show and premiere of "Fashions of 1934."

* * *

Rae Samuels, singing comedienne, known as "The Blue Streak of Vaudeville" in the days of "big time" variety, has organied a touring unit called "Cocktail Hour," in which she plans to travel from coast to coast. Her local engagement will be in the Pitt, beginning Friday, February 2. She has a company of 25, including Kitty Doner, also a popular star of vaudeville in the olden days.

* * *

The Carroll Sisters, Jean and Joan, who look like twins although they are a year apart in age, will be seen in "Jazz Babies," burlesque opening Sunday midnight in the Variety. Jean was the "Miss Hollywood" of 1932 and Joan was "Miss Southern California" last year.

* * *

Flora Le Breton, who will be seen in the support of Osgood Perkins and June Walker in the Theater Guild production of an American adaptation of the Moliere comedy, "School for Husbands," in the Nixon next week, is an English actress who was last seen here in "The Cat and the Fiddle." She came to America to be a picture star after having achieved the distinction of being "the Mary Pickford of England." Long curls helped her to get that title, and she continued to wear the low-reaching tresses until recently, when she submitted herself to the bobber. Beginning as a child dancer, she had been a leading woman on the London stage before going into pictures over there. It was Sir Gerald Du Maurier who discovered her ability to act.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Slaughter of the Innocents

IT WAS a touching domestic scene. Mother sat near the tea wagon, a piece of toast poised daintily between the index finger and thumb. Daughter, looking like a clean carbon copy of mamma, sat near the window.

"It's just twenty years ago," sighed mamma, "that I left Plinsky's revue to marry your father. Ah, my dear Daphne, those were the good, old days."

Mother shook her head.

"I am thinking only of your future, my dear," she said. She swallowed the toast hastily. "I realize, of course, that I am only your mother. Just a something to be cast aside like an old toy."

The girl appeared a trifle exasperated.

"You know that's not true, mom. You know I'd do anything in the world for you. Wasn't I as nice as I could be, even when you married that terrible, old Fletcher man? And I was respectful enough when you married Mori, wasn't I? And the time you eloped with that funny broker?"

Mother smiled her forgiveness.

"All those things are past and forgotten," she cooed. "They were unfortunate experiences, all of them, and I will admit that you have been very considerate toward your dear mother's—er—ah—romances.

"But it is you, Daphne, that I am thinking about now. You have grown up, as all children unfortunately do. You are in the Follies now, and it's high time you stopped playing around with that stupid clarinet player.

"You must now set your cap for some respected gentleman, my child. Some one with intelligence, experience and—er—plenty of cash."

"Well," said Daphne resignedly, "who?"

"Who?" repeated mother archly. "Who, indeed, but Archibald Mumphead? He's absolutely mad about you. His eyes burn when they gaze at my little Daphne. But this is different, my dear. For Archibald is a very wealthy man.

"He's fairly bursting to propose. He has a huge office downtown, and he fairly reeks with money. Maybe you don't love him now. But you will, my dear, you will. For love is nothing that ——"

Daphne stood up.

"Oh, the devil with that stuff, mom. Talk sense. This Archie Mumphead is as old as you are. I mean—"

"So," she sneered indignantly. "I have lived to hear my own flesh and blood call me old! That's the way it goes. I'm nobody now. Nobody wants me. Before I know it, I will die in a gutter. I might have known that all my sacrifices would be in vain. My own child calls me old!"

The girl shrugged her shoulders.

"Listen, mom. Probably the only sacrifice you ever made for me was to marry my father. And I want to thank you for it. But after all, you're still my mother. And if you want me to marry that dopey Mumphead just to get some ready cash, I'll do it."

"Now you're talking, my darling Daphne. Now you're talking." . . .

* * *

News item:

"Miss Daphne Duval, of the 'Follies,' was married to Archibald Mumphead, business executive, in Greenwich, Conn., last night after a surprise elopement. The bride's mother witnessed the ceremony." . . .

* * *

"Oh, Archibald, I'm so happy I could cry. You've been so wonderful to me. Getting me a large suite near yours, just so that I could be near my darling Daphne. It's just too wonderful!

"And that check for a thousand dollars! It was just too much. I've already used most of it, you know, buying a few odds and ends. Thanks again and again for being so nice.

"Well, I'll be dashing along. You must be getting down to your offices, I suppose. You business men! I don't know how you do it. Goodbye, dear Archibald." . . .

Two nights later. A huge dinner. Snowy table linen. Men with hair on faces, none on heads. Women all front, no back. The rattle of tableware. Mother is throwing a dinner in Archibald's honor; also in honor of the fact that she had received another check larger than the first.

"Oh, Dephne darling," whispered mother to daughter, "isn't this marvelous? How beautifully we are clipping that sucker!"

As Daphne looks away, two men walk in. Despite the fact that they're detectives, they don't wear derbies. They're young; nice. They walk up to the long table and grab Archibald. He wipes his mouth, grins feebly, and starts from the room.

Mother grabs the nearest detective by the arm.

"What," she gasps, "are you doing? Do you know who you have there?"

The first detective grins.

"We sure do, lady," he replies. "This bird calls himself a big business executive. Well, that's what he is—except that his business is the passing of big bum checks. He's a crook, lady, if you'll excuse my saying so."

The detectives, plus Archibald, pass out. Mother almost does the same thing. She reaches over and clasps Daphne to her bosom.

"Did you hear that?" she cries. "Archibald is a crook! Oh, my God! Is there no place where an innocent mother and daughter are safe from such vultures?"

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment, which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly 90 per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

Bills Changing Today

* * *

The Stanley screen now features "Four Frightened People," with Claudette Colbert, Herbert Marshall, Mary Bolans and William Gargan in the leading roles. It is a tale about four who flee a ship and get lost in a Malay jungle.

* * *

Edmund Lowe, Ann Southern and Miriam Jordon have the principal roles in "Let's Fall in Love," screen comedy that is the Warner feature attraction today.

* * *

Lew Ayres and June Knight are bus travelers in "Cross Country Cruise," feature now on the Davis screen. Alan Dinehart and Alice White also have prominent roles in the picture.

* * *

* * *

* * *

"Jimmy and Sally," with James Dunn and Claire Trevor in the leading roles, is the screen attraction in the Pitt. The new stage feature is "Sweet and Lowdown," with Arthur and Morton Havel. Ruth Royce, character singer, is a special feature.

* * *

"Dutch Henry"

A STATEMENT FROM THE EMPLOYEES OF

DUTCH HENRY'S

We, the employees of Dutch Henry, feel that a very great injustice has been heaped upon him in the eyes of the public, and make this statement of our own free will and without Mr. Henry's solicitation.

There are employed in Dutch Henry's restaurant 108 people. We feel and believe that the robbery, in which over $1,400 was taken, was an inside job and over half of the loyal employees were told about a plan, suggested by detectives, whereby a notice was posted in the basement, asking each employee to donate $1.00 per week for 12 weeks. We were told that this order would not be enforced and were also told what to do in an effort to find out who was responsible for the robbery. The notice had the desired effect in getting some very valuable clues, and the guilty parties, we have reason to believe, will soon be punished.

Mr. Henry has treated us like a father. His wages are above the average. At Christmas time he gave every employee a big turkey. He has paid hospital bills for unfortunate employees, and we are satisfied and happy in working for him and giving the public the best food and service we know how to produce.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Of interest here will be a wedding in the East, for the bridegroom is well known here and so is his father, who was president of the United States Steel Corporation until he resigned in April, 1932, an office he held for more than 20 years.

The son is James A. Farrell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Farrell, of Rockledge, Hickory Bluff, South Norwalk, Conn., and the bride-to-be is Emilie Hill, daughter of the William Hogarth Hills, of Darien, Conn.

Their marriage will take place Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock in St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Noroton, Conn.

Will Make Home in Darien After Marriage

The bride's a graduate of the Convent of Sacred Heart at Collender's Point, Noroton, and she is a member of the younger hunting and riding set of Fairfield County. She's active in the affairs of the Ox Ridge Hunt Club, Darien.

Mr. Farrell was prepared at the Canterbury School, New Milford, Conn., and was graduated from Yale in the class of 1923. He is a member of St. Elmo. His other clubs are the Wee Burn Golf and Ox Ridge Hunt, where he's master of fox hounds.

Vera M. Pointka Is Married to W. C. Gordon

Mr. and Mrs. John Pointka, of Wilmerding, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Vera Mae Pointka, to William C. Gordon, of Braddock, which was solemnized on Saturday. The Rev. T. D. Imbrie, of the Presbyterian Church of Braddock, officiated at 5:30 o'clock in the parsonage.

Miss Emma Frank was the bride's only attendant, and David McKay was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their home in Lobinger avenue.

Sorority Dance To Be Given On Feb. 16

The fourth annual dance of the Alpha Lambda Sigma Sorority will be held in the Edgewood Country Club Friday evening, February 16. Miss Dorothy Prescott, president, is general chairman.

The floor committee includes Miss Arlene Cupples, Miss Virginia Kunkel, Miss Henriette Bergman and Miss Mary Gregg.

The ticket committee members are Miss Ruth Fisher, Miss Marjorie Mills, Miss Betty Rehtmeyer and Miss Mary Louise Campbell. In charge of the orchestra arrangements are Miss Jean Hays, Miss Betty Slocum and Miss Laura Walton.

Publicity is being done by Miss Mary Ellen Gavett, Miss Betty Shram, Miss Beryl Bahr, Miss Louise Elkins and Miss Jane Brooke.

Alumni aides will be Miss Ruth Bovard, Miss Marion and Miss Gertrude Spellmire, Miss Dorothy Holbrook and Miss Ethel Schram.

New Colonists' Group to Be Installed

The Daughters of the American Colonists will be entertained at tea in the home of Mrs. John G. Daub, the organizing regent, tomorrow, and the newly formed local chapter will be formally installed. Out-of-town guests will include state and chapter officers of Western Pennsylvania, among them Mrs. Benjamin Beisel, of New Castle, state historian.

Pittsburgh Chapter officers are: Regent, Mrs. Daub; vice regent, Mrs. Alan Chandler; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph E. Baldridge; treasurer, Mrs. Halsey R. Jones; registrar, Miss Blanche Swope; historian, Mrs. Charles Thoms.

Mrs. Frank Dravo Hostess For Sewickley Club Tea

When the department of education, Sewickley Valley Woman's Club, has its tea following the lecture on Monday afternoon, Mrs. Frank Dravo will be hostess and Mrs. George McCague, Mrs. Alfred B. Harlow, Mrs. James D. Rhodes and Mrs. C. I. Lieper will pour. The aides will include Mrs. William Galbraith, Miss Isabel Wardrop, Mrs. Robert Applegate, Mrs. James Arrott, Mrs. Frank Darlington and Mrs. Lawrence Woods, Jr.

* * *

The annual celebration of St. Bridgid's Day will be held by the L. A. A. O. H. county board in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow afternoon. Luncheon will be served at 1:30 o'clock and there will be cards and a program. The Rev. L. A. O'Connell will speak on the "Life of St. Bridgid;" John Gibbons, Jr., will sing, accompanied by Miss Lenore Hickey, and Miss Ada Gannon, parliamentarian, will speak.

Mrs. Arrott, Mrs. McCague Bridge Party Hostesses

Honoring Mrs. Frank C. Woods, of Wynnewood, Pa., and her young daughter, Betsy Woods, who are guests of Mrs. Woods' grandmother, Mrs. William O. Campbell, Mrs. Lawrence Crane Woods, Jr., entertained at a tea today in her Sewickley home. The hostess and Mrs. Frank C. Woods are sisters-in-law.

Going on a West Indies cruise late next month will be Mrs. Gordon Fisher. And Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., and her mother, Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, will go for a Mediterranean trip, but not until early March.

W. A. Duckhams Sailing On West Indies Cruise

The William A. Duckhams will sail tonight on the Columbus for a West Indies cruise, and the Hugh Andersons will take a similar trip late next month, finishing up the winter at Pinehurst.

Mrs. J. Howard McFeely will sail February 27 for Bermuda to visit her niece, Mrs. Wendell Anderson, of Detroit.

Sailing early next month for Europe to visit their daughters, Martha Burdick and Betty Evans, in school there this winter, will be Mrs. Julian Burdick and Mrs. Thomas Raymond Evans.

Mrs. M. R. Moxley Entertained on Visit Here

Mrs. M. R. Moxley, former Pittsburgh clubwoman who is now living in Riverside, Cal., is being extensively entertained during her visit in Pittsburgh.

On Monday Mrs. T. M. Stahlman and Mrs. R. W. Johnston, with whom Mrs. Moxley served as a director while they were presidents of the Congress of Clubs, will give a luncheon of 25 covers in her honor at the Congress clubhouse.

Others who have entertained for her have been Mrs. S. B. Heppenstall and Miss Lucy Gleason, both of whom gave luncheons in their homes. The Highland Chautauqua Literary Circle gave a luncheon for her at the Congress on Tuesday.

Tiny, Historic Structure Theater

One of the tiniest old buildings in Pittsburgh, has one of the longest and most interesting histories. These days it is being used to promote one of the favorite arts—drama, by the Experimental Theater.

Diminutive though that building is, it is the site of the foundation of both the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and Shady Side Academy, and was built when Aiken avenue was just a muddy lane!

In the first place there was a brick building erected which was called Dr. Crabbe's Select School for Boys, a college prep school, of which Shady Side Academy is a direct outgrowth. Then in 1860 Thomas Aiken and William B. Negley started a Sunday school in the building, located on what was then called Aiken lane, later changed to Aiken avenue, and at that time it was not even in the city limits.

The Sunday school continued only for a short time, but it was long enough to found from it the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. The brick building was torn down about 1862 and the present wooden one built, in which the Misses Bradshaw conducted a Polite School for Children, where mothers sent their children to "learn good manners" to point their toes and make grave curtsies, and that school existed for about 36 years.

Finally the property was purchased by Col. Robert E. Withers, whose home is just next door, so that he might preserve the lovely old trees on the site. And now the Experimental Theater is giving plays there. The interior is so small that the stage occupies half of the room, and as in Shakespeare's time, the audience sits right up to and literally on the edge of the platform. People have even been known to sit on the piano top!

The theater members are giving a play, "Granny Preferred" written by Clarke Logan and Harold Allen, uncle of Hervey Allen, who authored "Anthony Adverse." And it will be presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Bruce Hewitt Rodeniser, Jr., who is a member of the theater, is giving a tea for the cast in the Fillion Studios on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. W. C. Hawley and Mrs. Louise Bryce are pouring, and aides will be Miss Anne Louise Uhl, Miss Jean King and Miss Marguerite Marquette.

Miss Sarah Lee Sedler Marries Martin Gluchow

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sedler, of Braddock avenue, East Pittsburgh, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sarah Lee Sedler, to Martin Gluchow, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. Weinberg, of Jackson, Tenn., which took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky. Mr. and Mrs. Gluchow will live in New York.

Dormont Girl Scouts Holding Sale Tomorrow

Troop No. 9, Dormont High School Girl Scouts, will have a bake and candy sale tomorrow at 2893 West Liberty avenue. Miss Alice Wetter, leader of the troop, is being assisted by Mrs. E. L. Thomssen.

Brilliant Easter Season Seen

HOT SPRINGS, Va.—With the first taste of spring in the air early this week, Hot Springs is looking forward to a brilliant Easter season. The early date of Easter this year, April first, throws the season forward, so that it will begin about the middle of March. One of the several special events of early April for which dates have already been set aside is a concert by the University of Virginia Glee Club, to be given in the Homestead Theater on Saturday evening, April 7.

The regular Monday live fox hunt of the Bath County Hounds, Mrs. Fay Ingalls, master, met at Grose's Spring. It was a very exciting run, and after running down one fox, the pack jumped another, which they lost.

Mrs. William L. Van Alen drove in a surrey through Dunn's Gap, and Mrs. Thomas Crimmins and Miss Sheila Crimmins also chose a surrey for their drive to the Cascades. Forrest S. Smith played golf daily on the Homestead course.

Recent arrivals include Mrs. John W. Wrigley, of Clearfield, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sellers and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wardle, of Philadelphia; Miss Bertha R. Bannan, of Pottsville, Pa.

Irma Jane Philips And Reading Man Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Philips, of McKinley avenue, Avalon, make known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irma Jane Philips, to Donald Worrell Fields, who is a son of James A. Fields, of Reading, Pa.

Miss Philips is a graduate of the Homeopathic Training School for Nurses here. She has not set a date for her marriage.

1934 Model Deb Needs Stamina

MIAMI, Fla. — The ancient Amazons had nothing on modern debutantes vacationing in the Florida playground, when it comes to stamina.

The 1934 model deb must be an all-round athlete as well as a fluffy dancing partner, if she expects to get around.

After lunch, a sun bath on the sands, and then a strenuous workout on the tennis courts, or 18 holes of golf.

Just to wind up the day's activities there may be a swift dash by speedboat down the bay, or perhaps a plane ride at sundown.

Then it's cocktail hour.

Seven o'clock, and it's time to dress for dinner, after which there may be a bicycle party, winding up with pig sandwiches and beer at a barbecue stand; a tour of the night clubs; a trip to the gambling ship anchored three miles off shore, or a beach party.

A BLACK CHIFFON SETTING

By PRUNELLA WOOD

GOOD AMERICAN names, easily pronounced (and often attached to a school or college mate) are rolling off smart women's tongues during style post mortems, these days. The number of youthful, successful American women who are making good as designers grows greater and more important every day, and already connoisseurs are able to distinguish their personalities, as they can detect a Schiaparelli from a Vionnet, with the flick of an eye.

Muriel King was one of the first to gain recognition, and her cleverness with misty fabrics, seductive silhouettes, and trailing feminine effects might be called her cachet for fame. The gown sketched is highly typical—an enchanting frock that wants only a lovely girl and an orchid or two.

Keep your head in the stars, little ones, and yet be not accused of dreaming! For with the set of four little rhinestone combs in your hair all will be easy . . . . nay, perfectly simple when they come for as little as $1 the set. The best way to insure your twinkle-twinkle at the President's Ball, or elsewhere.

* * *

Little Miss Prunes and Prisms! All done up in your new Queen Victoria collar of organdie and lace. These stand up so primly 'round your swan-like (?) throat and dress up your frontage so beguilingly . . . . that . . . . no one would guess you're a little sinner and not a saint! Dust off your manners and wear one of these and behold yourself! . . . . shyly Victorian, and oh, so sweet! $1.95

A hard time of year to keep the children interested and in order when they have to stay inside . . . but the new Valentine boxes will do it! These have all the "makings" for Valentines of every variety—lace paper ones too—and come in boxes at 25c . . . 35c . . . and 50c. Figures need not be cut (no danger of fingers being snipped) . . . they "pinch out" of their outlines. And Valentine Day isn't so VERY far away you know!

Too bad you aren't all centipedes! With all the hosiery hosannas we've thrown out on the four winds, any one of you should be glad of some extra legs.

Now it's those famous Dexdale hose that all the women are leading a merry dance. They're the hose whose silk-sealing process insures longer wear . . . snag-resistance . . . and unspottableness on rainy days (something to be thankful for if you have ever experienced that pinto-pony feeling after a walk in the rain!) Originally priced at $1.15 and $1.25 . . . reduced from there ONCE . . . NOW they're taking a further slump down to 69c and 89c. Which should win them an orchid (apologies to W. W.) and your most grateful thanks!

Put a stop to your nightmares over your hair! If it's dry, brittle, and generally like a scalded cat from too much dyeing, a smart transformation is the most MODERN way to get through the "growing-in" period. If it's too thin and short to wear softly and graciously as hair is being worn nowadays . . . or won't braid 'round as you want it for evening . . . little curls and braids are a point of wisdom, not of shame.

AND . . . (great big AND!) . . . one of the town's nicest shops is reducing its hair goods by Manuel and Curly 15% and 25%. These, youngsters and oldsters, are the finest things you could beg, borrow, or steal in the hair goods line and even crowned heads would be proud to wear them! All colors are to be had (platinum blondes and titians excluded) . . . and styles are the newest. Of course, domestic hair pieces as well.

* * *

Instead of worrying over being windblown these days . . . we're inviting it! New suits and coats actually wear tucks at the front and stand-forth collars! Furs have a tendency to swish forward and downward from the shoulders . . . and we must give the appearance of being perpetually in front of an electric fan if we're to be smart!

Soooo! Have yourselves a look at these newcomers. Smartest new suits for $22.50 to $35 . . . in Spring shades like string, navy, gold, and gray. In sizes 14 to 20. (With the long coats which can act as all-'rounders for practical souls).

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face — dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Varied Events Listed for City Club

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The Woman's City Club's new calendar brings promise of the usual varied events for next month, the first of these to be a lecture on "Germany Today," by John George Bucher, a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society. Motion pictures and colored slides will illustrate Mr. Bucher's talk, which will be given at 4 o'clock Thursday.

Miss Esther Bradley and Miss Helen Hecker have charge of the afternoon of bridge listed for the third of the month. These bridge afternoons have been growing in popularity, more and more of the club members finding it an especially pleasant way in which to entertain their friends and pay their social obligations.

After that there are two weeks with nothing definite scheduled, for the next event is on the seventeenth, the library luncheon at which Mrs. Harvey B. Gaul will tell of a visit she had with the author of "Anthony Adverse" and his family. Then the events come rapidly, the Sunday musicale-tea being listed for the eighteenth, a buffet supper for the twenty-first, the book review luncheon for the twenty-fourth and the drama group meeting three days later.

The musicale will be given by Letha Frazer Rankin, Jean McCrory Newman, Viola Byrgerson and Marion Clark Bollinger. Assisting Miss Karen Fladoes and Mrs. W. F. Andrews at the buffet supper, another increasingly popular feature, will be Miss Emily Wilson, Mrs. Berne Stenger and Miss Ethel Ryman. Supper will be followed by a talk concerning Japanese prints which John Walker III will give.

Mrs. Phineas Buchbinder is to speak on "The Romance of Reading, or Adventures in Books," at the book review luncheon. The drama group, meeting on the twenty-seventh, will have a play reading under Mrs. H. Allen Machesney's supervision.

Eleanor L. Rickenbach Honored at Bridge Party

Mrs. Frank C. Elk, of the Royal York Apartments, entertained recently in honor of Miss Eleanor Louise Rickenbach, with a bridge party. Decorations were in pink and silver.

Miss Rickenbach is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Rickenbach, of Mt. Washington, and her engagement to Daniel Rhys Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Jones, of Hornaday road, Carrick, was announced recently. Theirs will be a June wedding.

Half-Way Mark Reached in 'Y' Campaign

Workers in the 1934 budget fund campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association saw more than half of their $107,682 objective subscribed at their meeting today in Central Branch, Chatham street.

Miss Helen Crawley, metropolitan industrial secretary of the "Y" made the principal address, and Miss Josephine Sabatiella, a member of the Industrial Girls' Council, presided. The invocation was offered by Rev. Dr. H. Boyd Edwards, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

At yesterday's meeting a total of $13,915, representing 354 subscriptions, was announced, the largest single day's report, which brought the total to $44,220.80.

Mrs. Thomssen's Press Work Praised

Mrs. Elmer E. Melick, press chairman for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, in reporting at the board meeting which was held Tuesday and Wednesday in Harrisburg, paid a tribute to the work of Mrs. E. L. Thomssen, of Pittsburgh, southwestern district chairman of press and publicity. Mrs. Thomssen's work, Mrs. Melick said, was outstanding in the state. Mrs. Melick, by the way, will conduct a school of publicity at the federation convention in Harrisburg next October and a publicity contest based on convention news will be held during the convention.

Among many facts brought out at the board meeting which show a generally encouraging club outlook was the membership increase. Two counties, seven junior clubs and one senior club have become federated since the October convention in Pittsburgh.

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

1 Crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water.

2 GARGLE thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

Veterans Resent Reed On Shannon Ticket

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon will be in Pittsburgh for a soldier ceremony, but there will be plenty of time for some animated and direct discussion among his frinds here touching on the proposal to make him a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

At Sixth and Bigelow boulevard Gen. Shannon will see a huge sign advising the electorate to promote him from second to first place in the state government, the most direct and open appeal yet made on his behalf. Elsewhere in the state, starting with veterans, there has been much Shannon talk, and gradually it is being pushed along by some practical politicians.

As far as that is concerned, some of the most practical politicians, especially in the western end of the state, are also veterans, and thus have access to both wings of ballot strength. When here Gen. Shannon will learn that many of his soldier friends do not view with anticipation the suggestion that he run in the primary on the same ticket with Senator David A. Reed.

This sentiment springs not alone from the belief of some soldier leaders that Senator Reed, himself a veteran with a record of active service overseas, has in the past forgotten their interests with the government. It comes also from the settled conviction that the Senator will not find 1934 a favorable year for statesmen of his origin and environments.

On behalf of the Senator it can be stated that he will not compromise his beliefs on the score of expediency, but the soldier friends of Gen. Shannon contend that his courage is not taking a course to insure popular favor. There is no deceit among these soldiers, either. They are open in their sentiment for Shannon, first, last and all the time, and they want with him a ticket they believe can win.

* * *

Quaker City G. O. P.'s As Confused as Here

That is the reason so many of them, such usually regular Republicans as County Treasurer Robert S. Cain and Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster, would prefer that Gov. Gifford Pinchot be the Shannon running mate. They have belabored the Governor in former campaigns, but they are willing to aid him if he can be teamed with Gen. Shannon.

These gentlemen have been paying close attention to developments in Philadelphia. They were discussing today the pronouncement of Senator Samuel Salus there that he thought Shannon and Pinchot the ideal ticket to win, and expressed favor for it.

The declaration by Senator Salus came at the same moment Republican City Chairman James M. Hazlett was approving Senator Reed, following a Reed approval by State Chairman Edward Martin. The conflicting incidents are valuable as illustrating how far the once cohesive Republican organization of Philadelphia has split itself into raiding bands.

Mr. Hazlett cannot control the organization, even through the magic of the name of Vare, which has lost its potency to rally the faithful. The Republican situation in Philadelphia is quite as confused as it is here. There, as in Pittsburgh, not only are independent Republicans — formerly there were not many—warring with the organization, but the organization leaders are fighting among themselves.

Senator Salus is one of the oldest of the party regulars, a Senate veteran, and somewhat shrewd about his politics. His pronouncement confirms what some of Shannon's friends here have said, that there was much sentiment for such a ticket in Philadelphia.

* * *

Pinchot Has No Alliances Yet

Gov. Pinchot has made no tie-up with Shannon, or anyone else. He thinks it too early to decide alliances. He is represented, however, as feeling that his gubernatorial running mate should come from the central or south central part of the state and a candidate for Lieutenant Governor probably from the west.

The story of a Davis-Pinchot-Reed combination, with Davis retiring from the Senate to run for the gubernatorial nomination on the same ticket with Reed and Pinchot, is just fantastic. First of all, Senator Davis resigns from nothing without something else nailed down as a certainty, which the Republican candidate for Governor will not enjoy this year, no matter who he is. Secondly, the friends of Gov. Pinchot, while desirous to see him in the Senate, also wish some consideration for themselves from the next state executive, and they can see no advantage in the three-cornered team suggested.

The suggestion must have originated with some person infected with the atmosphere of Pittsburgh's City Hall.

A new Pittsburgh Registration Commission must be appointed within a few days, if it is to efficiently arrange for permanent registration before the primary. Monday may see the two-man body named.

There should be no surprise if none of the four former commissioners is reappointed. Gov. Pinchot named Mrs. J. Wood Clark and John McCarthy last spring at the instance of Joseph F. Guffey. Recently Mrs. Guffey has been bitter against Mr. Pinchot, and abolition of the old commission by the Legislature gracefully opens the way for the Governor to get even. He might even name a Democrat disapproved by Mr. Guffey and David L. Lawrence.

Interest in Sales Tax Growing Over District

Accountant Tells Of Disfavor for Income Levy

The growth of interest in the general manufacturers' sales tax during the past 15 years among men in all circles of Western Pennsylvania life was told today by F. M. Richey, public accountant of Connellsville.

Describing his advocacy of a national tax system based on it many years ago as a substitute for the income tax, Richey explained that the success of the venture in Canada, where it is in effect, has won many to its cause.

He said:

"I had my first argument over the sales tax 15 years ago, when I first became interested in it. It was with income tax men, who told me I was wrong—that income tax was the thing.

"But the experiences that have followed since bear out, and in Uniontown, Connellsville and other places where I am frequently at work, I find more and more discussion of the sales tax. Favor is growing, while disfavor for the income tax also is growing.

"Such a sales tax imposed on experts who are familiar with the various businesses would eliminate a whole lot of trouble. By it, each pays according to his use. No one class, but all the people bear what burdens it offers. With it the government would have much less debt.

"I think such a tax, universally applied, with certain proportions returned to state and county governments, the tax troubles of the country would be reduced if not eliminated."

Richey declared that many business men in the coke regions have come to prefer this mode, in theory at least, over the income tax.

U. S. Recognition Given El Salvador

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The United States today recognized the government of El Salvador, headed by President Maximiliano Martinez.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

The old homing pigeon flew back to its nest. Crossed Arizona, New Mexico and Texas in one night. Slept all the way. Fort Worth for breakfast. Amon Carter meets all planes and sells tickets for the big Roosevelt ball Tuesday night. I bet Fort Worth raises more money for that splendid cause than any city five times its size.

Bill Murray has taken good care of the old state since I been gone. In California we had forgotten there was such a thing left as a bootlegger, but back in these states, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, they are thicker than CWA workers.

Yours, BILL.

DRAVO REFUSES TO QUIT DAM

The Dravo Contracting Company plans no cessation of construction work at the new lock and dam site in the Kanawha River at Winfield, W. Va., according to an Associated Press dispatch from Charleston today.

Commenting upon the ruling of Comptroller General McCarl that the award of the contract to Dravo was illegal, because it was not the low bid, W. C. Revercomb, counsel for the company said, according to the dispatch:

"Considerable work on the project already has been done. We will not halt until we officially have been ordered to do so and we do not expect such an order."

PROBE BOROUGH POLICE FUND

Burgess Joseph Carter and other Whitaker borough officials are investigating a police fund in the borough said to have been soliciting money by mail throughout the state to purchase uniforms and guide books for the 13 Whitaker volunteer policemen, who receive 50 cents an hour when called to duty.

The treasurer of the fund, Justice of the Peace Alfred J. Ackerman, stated the guide books the fund had furnished were paid for by advertisements. He said:

"There was not enough money to buy shirts for the policemen, let alone uniforms, so the money was used for relief work."

Mellon's Son-in-Law Heads Pittsburgh Coal

Politicians Still Remain Adept at Robbing the Poor

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Lesson today will be a test in grafting arithmetic.

How much is left when a CWA chiseler bites seventy cents out of a sixty-cent dollar?

Those relief cheaters compare very favorably to the philanthropist who sold life preservers on the wreck of the Hesperus.

Where there's jam there's sticky fingers.

Scaife Takes Warden Place in Mystery Shuffle

Alan M. Scaife, son-in-law of the late R. B. Mellon, today took over the direction of the $152,000,000 Pittsburgh Coal Company, largest operator of mines in this district.

He succeeded as chairman of the board of directors W. G. Warden, who resigned yesterday. Warden, who guided the organization through the troubled period of the last decade, in which the company broke its agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, established its operations on a nonunion basis, completely modernized its operations, and finally, under pressure from the NRA, again recognized the union and returned to its former relationship with labor.

Warden was the dominating factor in the company's policies when it started its fight with organized labor. In recent years, however, he has taken a less active part in the organization's affairs. The difficult task of negotiating with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and other NRA officials has been carried out by J. D. A. Morrow, president of the organization.

No official explanation of the change in the chairmanship has been made in the coal trade. However, it is reported that the change reflects the fact that the Mellon family has taken over active control. For years the Mellon family has held a large stock interest in the Pittsburgh Coal Company. It is understood that in recent years this interest has been increased, largely through purchases of the preferred stock, which has equal voting rights with the common stock.

Scaife, the new chairman, is the husband of Sarah Cordelia Mellon, daughter of the late R. B. Mellon, president of the Mellon National Bank. He is the nephew by marriage of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury.

Scaife holds positions on the boards of directors of several companies in which the Mellon family is interested, including Standard Steel Car Company, Forbes National Bank, Mellon National Bank, Pullman Company and Pullman, Inc.

WEIRTON FIRM TOLD TO OUST WORKS BOSS

Discharge of Foreman Fails to Appease Union Men

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 6.—Striking miners of the Isabella mine of the Weirton Coal Company today demanded removal of D. A. Blover as superintendent before they would agree to return to work.

The company, a subsidiary of the Weirton Steel Company, had previously agreed to removal of Joseph Maraney as mine foreman, as the result of intervention by the United States Department of Labor and the National Labor Board.

James F. Dewey, special representative of both government agencies, obtained the concessions following a conference yesterday with C. G. Lichliter, general manager of the Weirton mines.

All but two deputy sheriffs assigned to duty at the mine were sent back to Uniontown this morning. The miners objected to their presence, claiming they were not needed during the strike last fall, and they were not needed now.

A number of Brotherhood members and their families also were reported to have agreed to leave the mining community.

Lichliter also agreed to meet with the local United Mine Workers grievance committee to hear complaints against the Isabella superintendent, David A. Bloyer, and three other assistants.

The strike committee, headed by Dan Sabula, president of the local, accepted terms of the settlement and declared a truce last night. The membership was voting on final acceptance of the truce and a return to work today.

U. M. W. BACKS AGE PENSIONS

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26. —(AP.)—Resolutions approving in principle unemployment insurance and old age pensions were adopted today at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mechanization of the mining industry has brought about a necessity for unemployment insurance, it was stated in one resolution.

The resolution on old age pensions suggested an effort be made to obtain federal aid for states which have old age pension laws. It proposed that the federal government match dollar for dollar any state appropriations made for pensions.

P. T. Fagan, of Pittsburgh, Pa., chairman of the resolutions committee, declared the passage of resolutions should be followed by an active effort on the part of all members to interest their state legislatures in the subject of old age pensions.

Trolley, Autos Meet; Traffic Delayed

Twelve street cars were tied up for 20 minutes in Fifth avenue, near Congress street, this morning, when a trolley hooked itself onto the fender of a parked auto of Samuel Toney, 619 Baldwin street, Bridgeville. The street car dragged the auto into another automobile, owned by B. Halpern, of 1034 Fifth avenue.

Gunman Gets $15 In Store Holdup

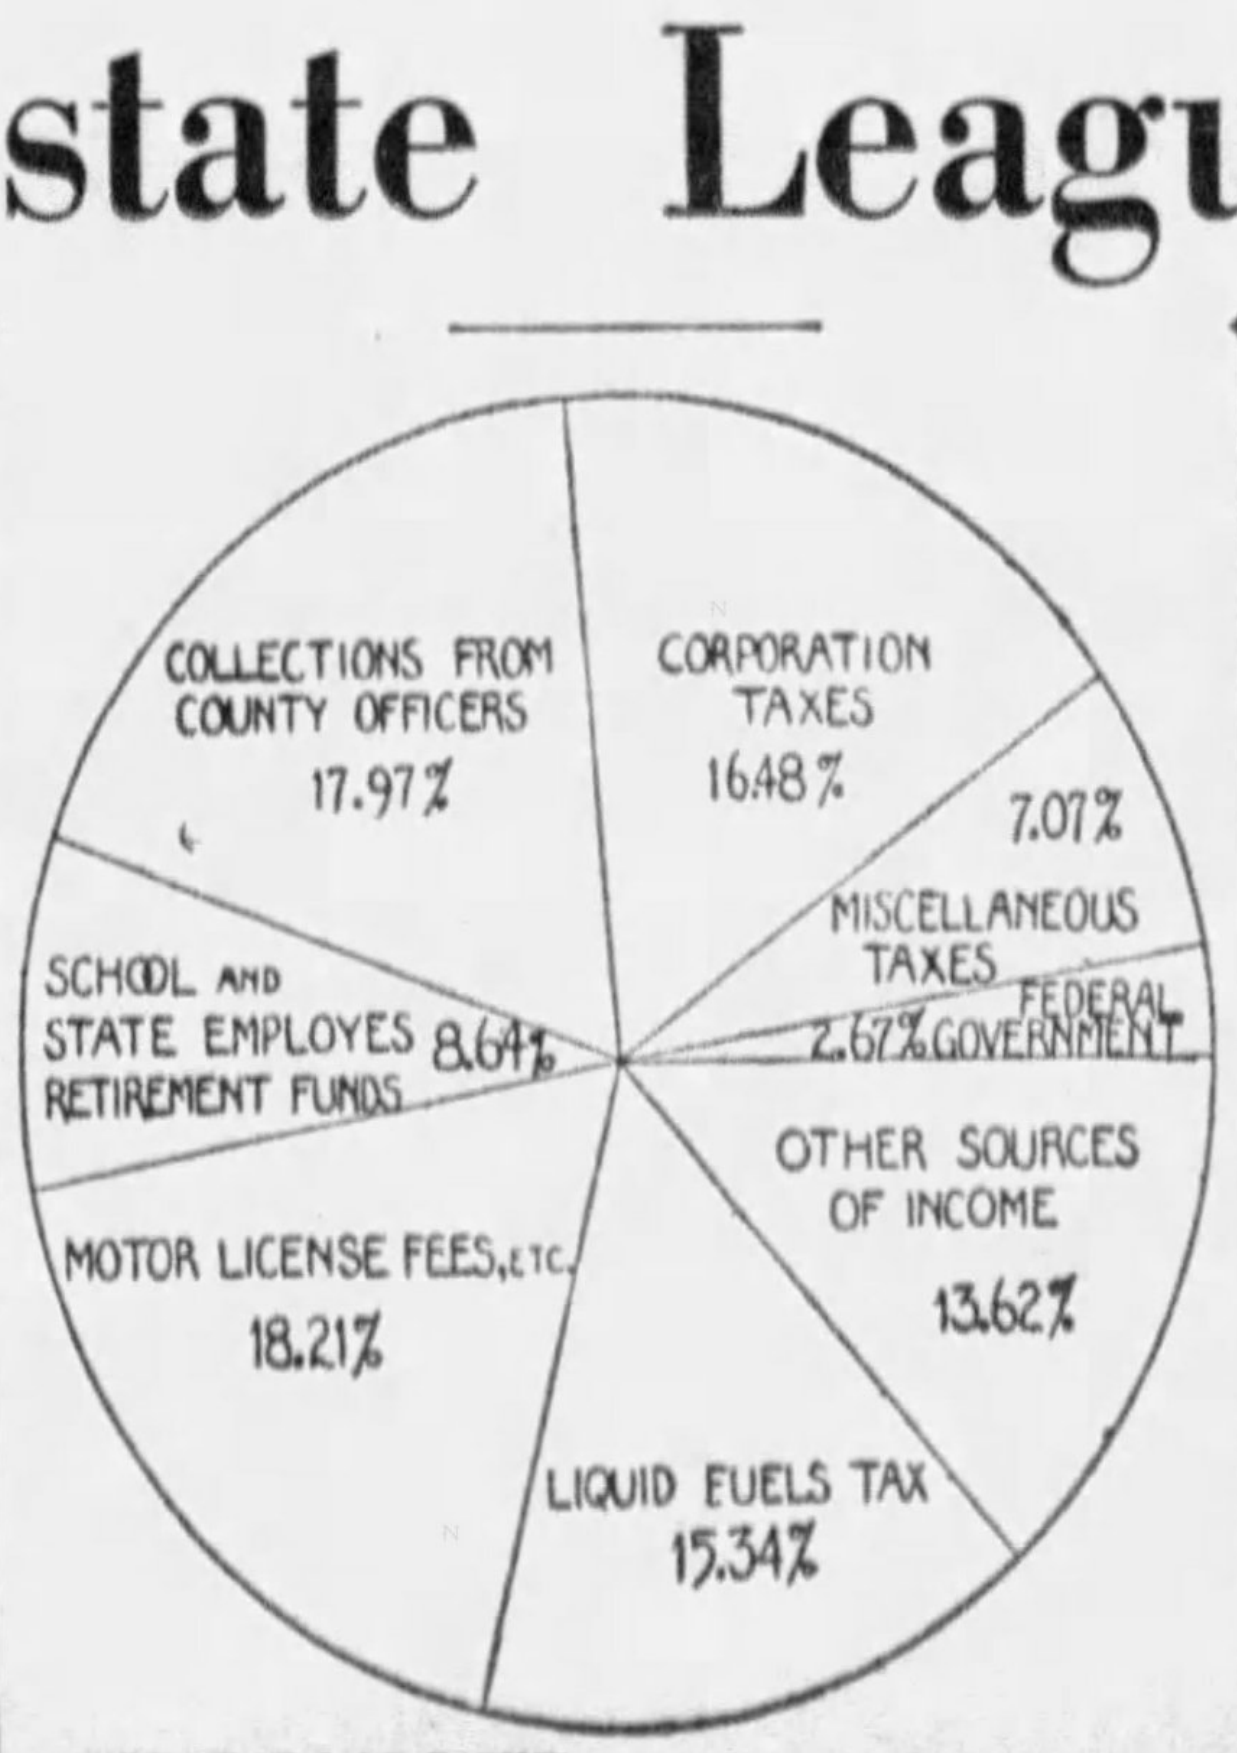
A gunman late yesterday walked into a chain store at 2208 Fifth avenue and rifled the cash register of $15 after threatening J. P. Williams, the manager, and his clerk, Miss Bertha Coben, of 914 Clarissa street, according to a police report. After obtaining the cash the thug ran into the street.

Real Estate League Joins Fight on County Costs

Backs Sun-Telegraph Campaign Against Overlapping

(In today's article the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League adds its support to the Sun-Telegraph campaign to bring about governmental economies. The league also announces its complete program for which legislation will be sought.)

The Sun-Telegraph's campaign to reduce the cost of government by eliminating duplication and waste in governmental agencies, today received the approval and support of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League. The legislative program advanced by the league attacks virtually all the duplications and wastes which have been reviewed at length by the Sun-Telegraph during the last few weeks.



(SEE CHART AT RIGHT)

While the league is primarily for reduction of taxes on real estate, its members also are working for efficiency and economy in governmental operations by keeping close watch on expenditures of taxpayers' money, I. Leonard Aronson, president of the league, stated.

CITES OVERLAPPING

In indorsing the Sun-Telegraph campaign, Aronson said:

'The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League is in accord with the objectives of the Sun-Telegraph as set forth in the series of articles now being run on this subject. Inefficiencies and overlapping of governments, schools, city and county must be eliminated."

Subjects which have been reviewed here during the last few weeks and which are a part of the league's legislative program are:

Abolition of the delinquent tax office and all other fee offices in Allegheny County.

One board of assessors for the entire county to eliminate the present duplication of city and county assessors in Pittsburgh.

Centralization of tax collection to replace the large number of tax collectors scattered throughout the county, by having a single receiver of all city, county, borough, township, school and poor taxes.

Consolidation of school districts with the County of Allegheny as one unit. This would replace the 120 districts that now operate, each with its paid solicitor, secretary, treasurer, auditors, and tax collector.

Consolidation of all welfare and poor district relief work in the county, under one central board of welfare.

Creation of a tax commission such as exists in Indiana and other states, to which citizens can appeal to stop extravagant budgets and exorbitant millage rates.

Legislative Program Deplores Burden On Taxpayers

TAX UTILITIES

In addition to the above mentioned points, the league's program also includes taxation on real estate, owned by public utilities and public service corporations. It also asks that voting on county, city, school and other municipal bond issues be limited to owners of real estate. The league further seeks ways to enable taxpayers to pay their delinquent taxes in installments over a period of five to 10 years with abatement of penalties, interest, costs and other charges, providing the current, city, school, county or other municipal taxes are paid when due.

Aronson declared the league was in favor of holding another special session of the Legislature in the near future to consider governmental economies and tax questions. He further stated that the only way the taxpayers could obtain real results was to band together in local organizations, which in turn would co-operate with other groups throughout the state.

URGES SHARING BURDEN

The league, the president said, advocates having the state assume a greater share of the burden of operating the schools, thereby relieving the real estate owner, who must bear the greater part of the school tax burden.

Aronson said that the taxpayers of the city, county and of the entire state have now reached the point where they will not be satisfied until the antiquated, oxcart and expensive system of government and school operation has been done away with entirely and supplanted with modern, up-to-date systems which can function more efficiently and economically.

C. V. Shoup, executive director of the league, also added his word of approval to the Sun-Telegraph's efforts to reduce governmental costs. He said:

"We all realize no prosperity can return until this heavy burden of taxes on land is substantially reduced. There is now no demand for real estate and it is no longer the basis of credit. These conditions must end, the industry upon which most of our people depend must be lifted up or the people of the state can have no hope and little chance for recovery."

CROWDS GAINING AT AUTO SHOW

Attendance at the 1934 Pittsburgh Auto Show for the first four days represents an increase of 135 per cent over that of 1933, and 17 per cent over 1932, W. N. Owings, secretary-manager of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, reported to the National utomobile Chamber of Commerce day.

Today, the fifth day of the ow, which closes tomorrow ght, record-breaking crowds were ill pouring through the doors of otor Square Garden. Spurred, it believed, by the fact that for e first time in three years, ners of outworn, outdated autobiles are in a position to buy w models.

In his report, Owings said:

"Keen public interest in manufacturers' outstanding improvements and remarkable values is the sole reason for huge crowds this year, because no prizes or special attractions are offered. Dealers are enthusiastic and report many sales and excellent future prospects."

The automotive industry expects to experience one of its busiest seasons of all time, he said.

As an added attraction, the three Weston sisters, who have been appearing in a floor show at the Ritz Hotel, will be at the automobile show tonight and tomorrow night.

MAN CLEARED IN STRANGLING

Homicide detectives today renewed their investigation of the murder of Mrs. Mamie Brockett, 58, following the exoneration by a coroner's jury of Christ Bergstresser, 57, of 24 Isabella street, whom they had arrested for questioning.

Mrs. Brockett, widow of a grocery salesman, was found strangled with her own stockings in a shed in East Lacock street, January 7. Her throat also was cut.

REFUSE TO PAY SHERIFF BILL

Objecting to bills submitted last spring by the Sheriff of Centre County, Chief County Investigator Leo Riordan believes he has saved Allegheny County $1,404.

The bills rendered for the transportation of prisoners between Bellefonte and the Western Penitentiary, Riordan called "irregular on their face." Officials of Centre County agreed to withdraw them and resubmit charges in other form.

No new bills have so far been submitted, Riordan reported to the Commissioners.

Some Real Information on

COLDS

How any community can cut down the time lost and suffering in "Cold" season

Place no faith in so-called "instant" cold cures. To relieve any cold, try above all to clear the head, dry the secretions, and reduce the fever. This takes more than a "few minutes," and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of any druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold, take three of these little tablets; chew them up, drink a glass of water.

To relieve a more stubborn cold will require a second treatment, and frequently a second day of this treatment, but it's worth the time. Colds that have been driven out of the system are gone.

JURISTS MOURN AT EVANS BIER

Many judges, members of the bar and public officials yesterday paid final tribute to the memory of retired Judge John A. Evans, for whom funeral services were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Don Rose, of 46 Beaver drive, Sewickley.

Courts adjourned at noon to enable jurists and attorneys to attend the services, conducted by the Rev. O. D. Odell, pastor of the Sewickley Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Wilkins Cemetery. Judge Evans, who ascended to the Court of Common Pleas bench in 1898 and served for 32 years, died at his home Tuesday after a lingering illness.

Funeral services for Judge Sylvester J. Snee, Judge Evans' successor, who died suddenly in his chambers Tuesday shortly after penning an eulogy to his predecessor, will be held tomorrow from his home, 58 Hoodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon.

LINKS BLONDE IN ROBBERY

A Negro held for court in connection with the theft of merchandise valued at several thousand dollars, testified in Central Police Court today that a blonde woman gave him the goods and named a rendezvous for its delivery to her in Leechburg.

Maltee Gober, 23, and Hazekak Lankford, 25, Negroes, both of 815 Locust street, were held for court by Magistrate Howard B. McNutt on charges of receiving stolen goods. They were arrested at New Kensington by state police, who said they found clothing in the Negroes' automobile.

Part of the merchandise was identified as a portion of the goods valued at $15,000 stolen from the Winer Style Shop at 1342 Fifth avenue Saturday night.

WOMAN LEADER OF WELFARE WORK DIES

At the time of her death Miss Schonfield was a member of the board of directors of the Congress of Women's Clubs, having served on the original health committee of that organization. She also headed the speakers bureau there.

Miss Schonfield established religious classes in the Pennsylvania training schools at Morganza and Thornhill and the play-producing group of the Drama League of Pittsburgh.

More than 1,500 children were under her direction when she was director of the Jewish religious schools' committee in Southwestern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware and in the Council of Jewish Women.

She taught her first class in story telling when she was 11, and at 16 she became chairman of the Congress of Clubs at the Moorehead School playground. In 1900 she graduated from Central High School.

In recognition of Miss Schonfield's work in social and religious fields a day to her memory was dedicated by her friends at a ceremony in the Hotel Schenley in June, 1931.

She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Leob, of Erie, and Miss Olivia Schonfield, and a brother, J. L. Schonfield, of Buffalo.

LEASE SEIZURE HELD ILLEGAL

Two door keys, two leases and other papers seized by prohibition agents in the office of the grist mill of Ritter and Lenze, of St. Marys, Pa., November 3, were ordered suppressed as evidence against Thomas Ritter, Fred G. Ritter, Albert T. Lenze and Fred Hoehn, and returned to the company, by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar, who held the seizure was illegal.

Prohibition agents, after seizing a still and 516 gallons of moonshine whisky in a building owned by Ritter and Lenze, went to the grist mill some distance away and arrested the four defendants and seized articles in the company's office.

No evidence was produced at the hearing tending to show that they knew of illegal liquor operations in the building. The defendants were represented by D. J. Driscoll, former United States district attorney, and Attorney Frank J. Zappala.

Prudence Penny Seeks 'Dress Up' Formulas

With Valentine Day near, entertaining is much influenced by Cupid and his symbolical red hearts. Not only decorations but foods are following the sweetheart theme, so that Mrs. Mary Habich's Valentine club sandwiches, in today's $1 prize group, are published at an opportune time.

It's neither difficult nor expensive to make your foods festive Such a little touch will transform an entire dish that you really should dress up your refreshments to suit the season.

Perhaps you have some recipes just suited to the present time of year. If you do, send them in with your other favorites to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. One $5 and ten $1 prizes are awarded daily to the best recipes received. No recipes will be returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. PAULINE BUTCHER,
33 Sampson avenue, Ingram.
SWEET-BREADS A LA KING

Ingredients:

Two cups of cooked, cubed, cold sweetbreads, half cup diced celery, one cup mushrooms, canned small buttons, or fresh, two tablespoons butter, one heaping tablespoon flour, four cups whole milk (or milk and cream mixed), one-fourth of fresh green pepper cut in small squares, one tablespoon pimento cut into small strips, salt to taste, a dash or two of curry-powder, a dash of celery-salt.

Method:

If fresh mushrooms are used, wash, peel and cube, then saute in butter for about 10 minutes. Let celery and green pepper boil in water until near tender, drain. Melt the butter and stir into it the flour, stir until very smooth, then add the milk and cream, a little at a time, then add mushrooms, celery, green pepper and salt. Let it all simmer until heated through thoroughly. Take off fire and add the curry-powder, pimento and dash of celery-salt. Serve with hot biscuit, in ramikins or on toast, serves 6.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. MARY A. HABICH
808 25th Street, Ambridge.
VALENTINE CLUB SANDWICHES

Loaf of day-old bread.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
Two bars cream cheese.
Head of lettuce or shredded cabbage.
One-quarter cup butter.
Small can pimientos.
One-quarter cup chopped walnuts or pecans, salt, paprika.

Lightly butter bread before cutting each thin slice. Spread one slice with pimientos rubbed smooth with paprika and salt and the other slice with the cream cheese mixed with the chopped nuts. Dip the lettuce leaves in the mayonnaise and lay over the pimiento slice, then lay cheese slice on the top. Press slightly together, trim off crusts and cut in oblongs. Fasten together with a wooden toothpick on which a little scarlet pepper heart has been fastened by means of slits through which the top of the toothpick is run. The date of the entertainment may be put on the hearts.

MRS. W. F. SNAMAN
3645 East Street
PEASANT FARE

One quart hominy.
One medium size can tomatoes.
One large green pepper.
Two medium size onions.
Two tablespoons grated chese.

Cut up onions and pepper in medium sized pieces. Mix hominy, tomatoes, green pepper and onions together. Place in baking dish. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven one hour and serve with small broiled fresh sausages.

MRS. H. A. JOHNSTON,
102 South Main street, Masontown.
CARROTS A LA KING

Pare, dice and cook 12 medium sized carrots till tender. Drain and prepare a medium thick white sauce using two tablespoons butter, two heaping tablespoons flour and two cups milk; season with salt and pepper. Then add to white sauce two tablespoons each of finely minced onion, celery, green pepper and parsley. Pour over drained carrots and serve.

MRS. T. H. AUGUSTINE
104 Third Avenue, Westmont, Johnstown.
RAISIN SAUCE

Wash three-quarter of box of seedless raisins.
Cover with water in sauce pan.
Add:
One-half cup sugar.
Pinch salt.
One-half teaspoon nutmeg.
One tablespoon whole cloves.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.

Four thin slices lemon, chop lemon in small pieces, rind and all.

Cook slowly about 10 minutes. Add one tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in one cup cold water. Cook till thick and clear. Serve hot with baked ham.

MRS. H. A. LEEZER,
112 Sixth street, McKeesport.
MIDWINTER CHILI SAUCE

One quart canned tomatoes, two onions chopped fine, one-half easpoon celery salt or two pieces celery minced, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one green pepper chopped fine, one-fourth cup vinegar, two teaspoons salt, three tablespoons brown sugar, one-half teaspoon mustard and dash cayenne pepper. Put all ingredients into a preserving kettle; stir together, bring to a boil and boil gently for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cook a little longer if needed to make the right consistency.

GRACE TRANSOU,
Weber Apts., Voekel avenue, Dormont.
LEMON BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

One-half cupful of brown sugar.
One tablespoonful of butter.
Two tablespoons of cornstarch.
Two eggs.
One large lemon.
Two tablespoons water.

Melt the butter, add the sugar and cook together for three or four minutes. Then add cornstarch dissolved in one-fourth cup of cold water. Cook until thick and pour over the beaten egg yolks, adding the grated rind and juice of the lemon mixed with two tablespoons of water. Return to the fire and cook five minutes longer, then cool and place in a baked pastry shell. Top with meringue made of the egg whites and brown lightly.

MISS DOLORES NIXON,
2322 Eccles street.
GREEN BEANS PUT UP

Pick and cut any number of green beans in two-inch lengths. After washing thoroughly pack firmly in quart jars and cover completely with cold water. Add one teaspoon of salt to every quart jar. Store in a dark place for at least 30 days. These beans require no boiling either before or after packing. The salt will retain the color and keep the beans brittle. When used drain off the salt water but do not resalt the beans.

MRS. P. C. GANDY
601 Clyde street.
ITALIAN BAKED BEANS

Two cups navy beans.
One small onion.
One-half cup olive oil.
Three sweet pickles.
One bunch celery.
One-half cup grated cheese.
One-half cup stuffed olives.
Two cups tomatoes, strained.

Boil beans one hour, cook tomatoes in the oil for one-half hour, then add chopped onion, olives, pickles and celery. Pour over beans in baking dish. Cover and bake two hours slowly.

HELEN NARBUTH
909 Kennedy street, Carnegie.
SAUSAGE WITH BUCKWHEAT CAKES AND SAUCE.

Fry sausage well on frying pan until they are rich golden brown, remove from pan and put in warming oven. Reserve the drippings for greasing griddle and sauce.

Cakes—Pour boiling water over half-cup corn flour, add half teaspoon salt, mix well and set in cool place. When about lukewarm add half cup wheat flour, one cup buckwheat flour, add half cake compressed yeast dissolved in a little warm water. This mixture should be prepared the night before. In the morning pour oc water which has settled on top. Add half cup of milk (preferably sour) with quarter teaspoon of soda. Mix well and fry on hot griddle using drippings to grease pan.

Sauce.

One small onion chopped fine.
Two tablespoons sausage drippings.
One tablespoon vinegar.
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
Two-thirds cup catsup.
Three tablespoons lemon juice.
One tablespoon prepared mustard.
One cup beef stock or bouillion.

MRS. J. A. MOONEY,
224 Maple Terrace.
COCOANUT PEACH CREAM PUDDING

Sliced fresh or canned peaches.
Two cups of milk.
One-half cup of sugar.
Four tablespoons of corn starch.
One-fourth cup of cream.
One cup of shredded cocoanut.
Three eggs, separated.
One-half teaspoon of almond extract.

Line a greased pudding mold with sliced peaches. Pour milk into upper part of a double boiler, add sugar and heat; then add cornstarch dissolved in cream, stirring constantly. Add cocoanut and fold in whites of eggs, stiffly beaten. Pour into the peach-lined mold and set away to chill. Turn out and serve with custard sauce made with yolks of eggs, three tablespoons of sugar, two cups of milk and a dash of flavoring.

DOCTORS BACK ROOSEVELT BALL

Recognizing the importance of the President Roosevelt birthday ball to focus public attention on the ever present peril of infantile paralysis, the Allegheny County Medical Association's directors and the chiefs of staff of 13 hospitals today had approved the movement.

Pittsburgh's program, which will be held at the Hotel William Penn next Tuesday night, is one of more than 6,000 similar balls and parties being staged simultaneously throughout the country. Proceeds of all the programs will be contributed to the Warm Springs Sanitarium which is backed by President Roosevelt.

To further aid the local committee, the following physicians representing the staffs of various local hospitals have become members of the general committee: Drs. G. W. Grier, H. T. Price, W. W. Blair, J. R. Johnson, A. W. Sherrill, C. W. Morton, W. S. Langfort, R. J. Behan, R. S. Marshall, R. R. Huggins, H. B. Gardner, L. H. Landon and W. H. Guy.

DONORA GIRL'S SLAYER JAILED

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Benjamin Weiss, 31, a Brooklyn cook, was sentenced yesterday to serve 10 to 20 years in Sing Sing prison for the slaying of Rose G. Kidzinski, 18-year-old dance hall hostess, who came here from Donora, Pa.

Weiss pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter during his trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The slaying occurred last August 26. Testimony in the trial was that Weiss and Jack Miller, intoxicated, demanded admittance to a room shared by Miss Kidzinski and two other girls. The slain girl was shot as she ran from the room.

Fresh Fruits Come From South in Abundance

Inexpensive Method For Marmalade Revealed

IF YOU CATER to a sweet tooth you have probably noticed the increased cost of orange marmalade in the past few months. It is also true that you are paying little more for sugar and no more for the unusually fine oranges and grapefruit which are in market. Orange marmalade is easy and inexpensive to make and three fruit marmalade, combining grapefruit, orange and lemon has that same pleasant bitterness which bitter oranges give.

* * *

THREE FRUIT MARMALADE—1 orange, 1 grapefruit, 1 lemon, sugar.

Select fruit with clear skin. Slice all fruit very thin, discarding seeds. Measure fruit, add three times as much water as fruit. Boil hard for 20 minutes. Measure again. Allow a cup of sugar for each cup fruit and juice. Continue boiling for 40 minutes before adding sugar, and cook about 15 minutes longer until syrup jellies. Remove from fire, pour in hot glasses. When cold seal with paraffin. This makes approximately 15 glasses.

FLORIDA STRAWBERRIES are improving on flavor, increasing in quantity and decreasing in price. Apples continue to be plentiful. Fresh apple pies will be better during the next two months than later in the spring. Fresh pineapple and winter pears are available though not plentiful.

If you have an appetite for green salads and relishes, lettuce, celery and tomatoes may be supplemented with watercress, endive, cucumbers, shallots and radishes. Avocadoes or alligator pears are also available for the plumper pocketbook.

FRESH PEAS PLENTIFUL—Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cauliflower and new cabbage are of fine quality and reasonable in price. Green beans are a dependable winter standby of which one does not easily tire. Less spinach is coming for a time from Texas because of storms so that the price may be a little higher this week.

For especially nice dinners there are green peas, fresh lima beans and mushrooms. Peas are more plentiful than ever before at this season and the price is reasonable. Both lima beans and peas have such heavy pods that they are never cheap to serve.

New carrots and beets are an inexpensive winter delicacy. Rutabaga turnips and onions are essentials of good soups, stews and braised dishes. Some new potatoes are beginning to come into the markets and they, like the hothouse rhubarb, are pleasant promises of spring.

OYSTERS, PORK LOINS GOOD VALUES—Oysters are being produced in quantity and are relatively cheap. Western halibut and salmon, fish fillets, red fish, red snapper, trout and fillets are all available at reasonable cost. Shrimp, too, are relatively inexpensive.

Pork loins are unusually plentiful and will be found economical this week. Inexpensive dinners can be prepared using smoked pork shoulders, corned beef, pot roasts or stews.

Earl Weatherford and Foster Miller

Twentieth Century Club

PROGRAM

Duets:

Sound og the Trumpet (1689-1740)	Purcell
The Angler's Song (1660)	Lawes
Only to Thee (The Swan-Saint Saens)	Arr. by Gena Branscombe
The Sleigh (a la Russe)	Kountz
La Fleur que tu m'avais jetee (Carmen)	Bizet
Ruhe, meine Seele	Strauss
Gruppe aus dem Tartarus	Schubert
Silent Noon	Vaughn Williams
At the Postern Gate	Gena Branscombe
Faust (Act 1, Scene 1)	Gounod
In the Silent Night	Rachmaninoff
Yarmouth Fair (Norfolk Folk Song)	Warlock
The Pipes of Gordon's Men	Hammond
The Sound of the Sea	Ronald
Vision Fugitive (Herodiade)	Massenet
Deep River	Burleigh
Good News	Curtis-Burlin
Go Down Moses	Budleigh

(Negro Spirituals arranged as duets by Schulen.)

The Twentieth Century Club presented two very promising singers in recital yesterday afternoon in the club hall. There was a shockingly small audience for such a good program, for both Earl Weatherford, tenor, and Foster Miller, bass-baritone, have things to say.

Mr. Lissfelt

As joint recitals go, the program was bound to be somewhat heterogeneous, but in the long run, we had a bit of good operatic singing, some excellent old British music, a fine ballad or two, and two marvelous German lieder.

In the duets the singers had a nice feeling for the ensemble; their "Faust" scene was not overdramatized and kept within the bounds of the concert hall. The arrangement of Kountz's "The Sleigh" sounded even better than in the original.

Miller is perhaps the more matured of these two young artists. His voice is richer and the production more certain; in the Strauss "Ruhe, meine Seele" he showed unusual interpretive and musical gifts.

Weatherford's voice needs more ring, he is likely to hurry his songs but withal has a certain skill which proves that he thinks much about his art.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Morning Musical

Hotel Schenley

Suite—b minor Polonaise. Badinerie.	Bach
Sonata Allegro Moderato. Siciliano.	Bach
The Last Hour	Kramer
Lungi da Cara	Sacchi
"Vision Fugitive"	Massanet
Chanson	Pierre Camus
Romance	Widor
Scherzo	Widor
Don Juan's Serenade	Tchaikowsky
Pleading	Elgar
Aria—Eri tu (from The Masked Ball)	Verdi

At the morning musicale in Hotel Schenley yesterday Hulda Lefridge presented Robert Johns, baritone, in a return performance, and Joseph Mariano, flutist.

John's voice again impressed by its volume and fine resonant qualities. I should suggest that he go to a specialist in voice and seek aid to restore his legato, which I feel is somewhat uncertain at present. It would be a pity to have this defect exaggerated, for it may injure his songs.

A delightful surprise was the flutist, who gave excellent account of himself, especially in music of Bach, which is pitifully unknown here. This young man has a most fluent and beautiful tone, seems sure of his production, and understands the making of a consistent phrase. Singers who attend these recitals could learn much from him.

Hearing this player makes me want to suggest again to Miss Lefridge that there is a large library of music for oboe, bassoon, clarinet and French horn which might be investigated and brought out at these concerts. The audience here requires constant novelty, and this might afford new material and give other soloists among instrumentalists a real chance.—J. FRED LISSFELT.

High School Girl Criticizes Younger Generation

Who's asking—some soured old fogey who's forgotten he was ever young? Whose imagination paints every gay laugh as a wild orgy?

No, Stranger! It isn't. It's one of their own gang. A bewildered kid who—but listen! Here's the story, in her own words—and it is a terrible story. Is your youngster one of her necking, gin-swizzling pals?

Dear Elsie:

I don't know if there is something wrong with me or not, but I am completely disillusioned concerning life in general. I honestly thought that I was rather modern, but I find now that I am extremely old-fashioned.

What, in heaven's name, has happened to the decency in which our mothers and grandmothers grew up? It isn't exactly pleasant, I can tell you, to have an outlook such as I have on life, when you're only 16 years old.

Last night I went to a party given by the students at high school. Most of them are around my own age and a little older. But the goings-on they indulged in were enough to make our great-grandmothers turn over in their graves.

We no sooner got inside the doors than they offered us drinks. I'll admit this party was not as bad as others, in that none of them became intoxicated. But the necking! Lord! Every chair had a couple in it, and the couches two couples.

PROMISCUOUS PETTING

The funny part is that they didn't even seem to care with whom they necked, just so it was someone. If one of them disappeared, another would take his or her place. And when they got bored with each other, they turned the lights on (it might have proved disillusioning to have them on), and told the most filthy "jokes." Of course, I had to pretend to laugh at them, but my heart turned over inside of me.

Tell me—are there any good, interesting people in this generation of mine? This crowd I have just told you about was really supposed to be a tame one. At other parties the kids went home drunk.

I think about one out of 25 has any ambition at all, or cares about anything except having "a hot time." And this one in 25 is, almost without exception, as dull as dishwater, and completely absorbed in school work.

I work hard in school myself, but I like pleasure, too, good, clean pleasure. I don't think these kids even know the difference between right and wrong. I don't want to be one of them, yet—I hate to be always alone, too.

I don't know which way to turn. For heaven's sake, tell me what you'd do in my place. It's all so mixed up. Should I just concentrate on work and a career, and forget about them? I don't know what to do. Won't you and your readers help me? Please. MAY.

MANY FINE YOUNGSTERS

Is it a picture of the rank and file of modern youngsters? Is that what happens when your boy or girl goes to a party?

If it is, whose fault is it? Are the kids, eager for fun and life, to blame — or have we given them the wrong slant on what makes a "good time?"

And now for May's question — are there no worthwhile youngsters in her generation? Of course there are—thousands of them—youngsters who are neither rowdies nor dowdies; youngsters who have fine dreams, who work hard, but who know how to have fine good times, too—clean, happy times that leave no scars, no headaches behind them.

So don't lose heart, little girl. Keep your own fineness, your own dreams and look around you for regular people. And I'll gamble you'll find plenty of them—sometimes even beneath "the recklessness and silliness of the 24 out of 25."

A Sequel to Heart
Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Noel Dramatically Denounces Avis Arlen.

"Beware the fury of a patient man," sang Dryden, and I mentally echoed the poet's chant as Noel faced Avis Arlen, with his threat to throw her out of the farm house if she added another word to the tissue of falsehoods she had been vocally weaving for Mary's benefit.

Noel, sensitive with perfect breeding and courtesy, has caused those of us who love him and Mary to wonder whether he possessed enough of what is mistakenly called "temper" to enable him to battle life successfully for himself. But I answered that query with a decided affirmative as I saw him facing Avis with clinched fists, eyes blazing with fury, and voice low-pitched, but deadly in its wonderful ultimatum.

Trained to the code that one must never speak roughly to a woman, I knew that he must be almost beside himself with rage, to utter the epithets and the threat he just had used to any woman, especially to the daughter of his father's dead friend.

But she had goaded him beyond endurance, first by her wailing reproach that he had shown their "sacred sonnets" to me, and then, following Mary's entrance, by her unblushing statement that he had cared more for her than for Mary the preceding summer. He had interrupted her impudent corollary concerning his present state of mind with a vitriolic outburst, which delighted me, apparently had no effect whatever upon Mary, but which momentarily reduced Avis Arlen to something resembling gibbering idiocy.

CHOCKED WITH ANGER

She backed away, as I once had seen her back from an unforgettable tirade of Mary's. Her hands were spread wide at her sides, palms turned backward as if groping, her face drained of color, her eyes wide and staring with terror. If she had not so richly deserved what she was getting I could have found it in my heart to pity her, for I read in Noel's face that he had not finished with her—that he meant once and for all to smash the tradition of his caring for her which she had so blatantly voiced first to me and then, most unforgivable of all, to Mary.

"I have been the most assinine idiot that ever was spawned," Noel said, his voice dripping venom. "I have been taught to believe that a decently bred girl simply could not do the despicable things of which you have been guilty. I have been taught also that I must treat all women with respect and courtesy. But you—"

His voice shook so that he could not control it. He closed and unclosed his fists and advanced farther toward Avis, who backed away again until she had reached the wall.

I took a hasty step forward myself. The boy was so beside himself with fury that I was fantastically afraid he might strike the girl, but, miraculously, he pulled himself together and began to speak again, although still stammering with anger.

PROTEST UNHEEDED

"You—you have forfeited every consideration of respect that was ever due you, and I am going to tell you now exactly what I think of you, and make right, if possible, the awful things you have said before Mary."

Avis threw one arm over her eyes as if shielding herself from a blow, and her strained voice murmured, "Oh! No, No-el!" But if Noel heard her he paid no attention to her protest and went relentlessly on.

"Let me put one thing straight, first," he said. "I was never in the least in love with you. I was not even particularly attracted by you, and since your performance of last summer you have been absolutely repellent to me. I would walk miles to avoid even a chance meeting with you.

"Now as to this sonnet business," he went on, taking a deep breath, "you will perhaps remember that you and your mother were my father's guests on that trip. He asked—indeed, insisted—that I should pay especial attention to you and make the trip as pleasant for you as I could, and I obeyed him.

"I found you a pleasant enough companion—" I wondered if he was deliberately making his voice insufferably patronizing. Intentional or not, I knew it was making Avis writhe as if she were stretched upon a heated gridiron, and I listened breathlessly for Noel's next words.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

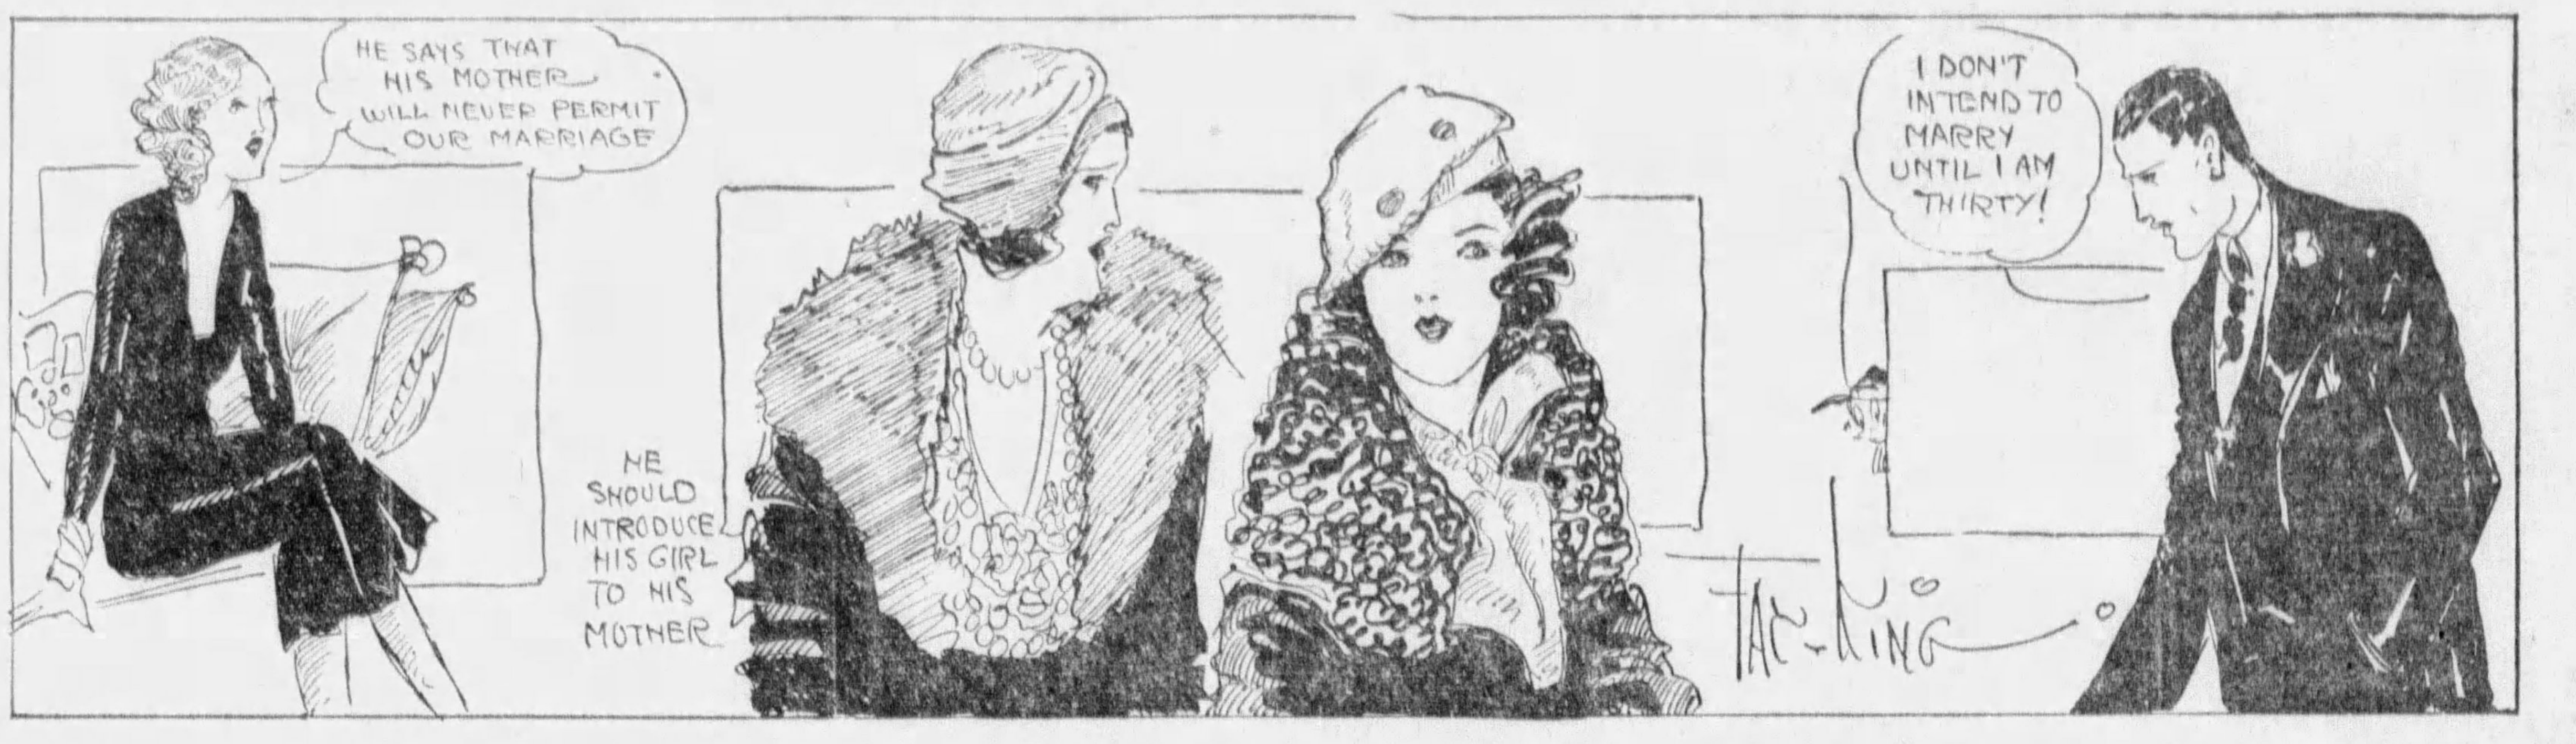
Cut toe nails straight across. If cut down too far at the sides, flesh will harden there, form ugly mounds that have the character of corns; they can become extremely painful. If cuticle must be loosened at the nail base, use an orange wood stick that has been dipped in olive oil.

Time soon for the mid-season permanent. Prepare for it by having an oil treatment once a week for a month or so. Apply the oil to the ends of the hair which are to be rewaved, and which are bound to be a bit dry after the steaming. Get a perfectly elegant haircut beforehand; that means a lot.

Home made curling fluids are seldom satisfactory, because it is difficult to get the lotion the right consistency. There are prepared powders, to be added to water, that work very well.

Unconscious freedom of movement and resilient muscles make for grace. Quick, jerky steps or long strides deprive the body of that nice balance which is necessary for pleasing motions. Few women realize that the "expression" of the body is a revelation of character. Bent shoulders suggest faint heart. Vitality of muscle, good posture, light step signify courage and spirit. Awkward gait and unlovely gestures are liabilities. Avoid them, pretty one.

All Men's Mothers Not Prejudiced Against Girls, Says Fay King



HE SAYS THAT HIS MOTHER WILL NEVER PERMIT OUR MARRIAGE
HE SHOULD INTRODUCE HIS GIRL TO HIS MOTHER
I DON'T INTEND TO MARRY UNTIL I AM THIRTY!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Sometimes a mother who is unselfish, fair and considerate in everything else will be unreasonably prejudiced against the girl her son loves.

She refuses to meet the girl, or try to know her and like her. She simply dislikes her because he loves her. Nothing and no one could convince her that the girl is worthy of her wonderful son.

She would probably feel the same toward any girl.

But before you blame a mother for this, be quite certain that is a fact. For, sometimes a man has no intention of marrying, and tells a girl that his mother is so bitterly opposed, just to evade matrimony himself.

Few mothers are so unreasonable. Most mothers hope to see their sons settled and happy.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

There Are Many Causes of Skin Inflammations

Dr. Copeland

A recent report of the United States public health service tells of a strange and unusual inflammation of the skin. This is a disease given a big name, "dermatitis venenata." It is caused by contact with Brazilian walnut wood.

In a cabinet making plant a number of cases were discovered. These occurred while the men were working on an order calling for the use of Brazilian walnut.

The afflicted men complained of redness of the skin, accompanied by pimples and blisters of the hands, forearms, face and neck. In some cases the skin was so swollen that the victim was unable to open his eyes. In addition to this skin eruption, many of the workers complained of running of the nose and sneezing while working in the room where the wood was stored.

Though this form of dermatitis is a rare affliction, many similar irritations of the skin can be traced to contact with unusual pieces of wood, clothing and food. The inflammation, or dermatitis as it is called medically, is often a source of constant irritation and discomfort. The sufferer frequently resorts to the use of salves and ointments and erroneously believes that he is the victim of eczema or some other common skin affliction.

When a careful study is made of a case of inflammation of the skin, inquiry should be made into possible exposure to an irritating substance, such as Brazilian walnut wood, or other material. It will be seen that the application of a salve or ointment, while it may help to relieve the discomfort, will be of little avail if the offending pollen or substance is not removed.

As I have told you so often, there are many inflammations of the skin. The treatments for them vary, depending upon the causes. Every day I receive letters requesting information and advice about ointments and lotions for the cure of skin inflammations.

Many of these are soothing, promoting comfort and allaying irritation. But there are certain inflammations of the skin which demand wise medical advice, for home treatment may prove detrimental, rather than beneficial. Do not be misled in such cases by well meaning friends who strongly recommend this or that treatment. If you have a persistent irritation of the skin, be on the safe side and consult with your physician. He has been trained in this work and is, of course, in far better position to advise and prescribe for you.

If you know you are sensitive to certain foods, common sense tells you to avoid them. Include plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits in your diet. If your skin is sensitive, avoid fried and greasy foods, sweets, pies, pastries and condiments.

Simple foods and hygienic living are important. Cleanliness of the body, inside and out, will go far towards giving a clear and healthy skin.

Contract Bridge

How to Play
How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

The Boomerang Double

Some very fine Bridge players, after it has become evident that an opponent will play the hand, make Penalty Doubles with the object in view of deceiving the Declarer as to the position of high cards held by the opposition and thus causing the Declarer to so misplay the cards as to bring about the defeat of an otherwise ironclad contract. Frequently these tactics result successfully. On the other hand, there are many occasions when they prove ineffective as was the case with West's Double of the Slam contract on the hand below:

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠Q 7
♡A J 8 7 4
◇J 7
♣K J 10 7

♠K 10 9 6 5
◇K 9 6 4 2

North — West — East — South

♠8 4 3 2
♡9 6 5
◇10 8 5 3
♣8 2

♠A J
◇A Q
♣A Q 6 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♡ (1)	Pass	4♡ (2)	Pass
5 N T (3)	Pass	6♡ (4)	Pass
Pass	Double (5)	Redouble (6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South has 5½ honor-tricks. It is, however, questionable whether an Opening bid of one would not have been preferable.

2—North's Raise of his partner's Opening Forcing bid to four is perhaps an underbid.

3—With North's Double Raise, South now sees the possibility of a Grand Slam and shows three Aces and the King of a bid suit by the bid of five notrump.

4—North closes the bidding with six hearts, although, in view of the Opening Forcing bid and the strong Slam suggestion of the five-notrump bid, he could not be greatly blamed for bidding seven.

5—A very bad Double. The player afterwards explained that he made this Double because of his void in hearts and hoped that thereby he might protect a possible heart trick in his partner's hand.

6—North, who had considered bidding seven, now prefers to redouble, as he feels sure the contract can be made.

The effect of West's Double was to help and not hinder the Declarer in fulfilling his contract. The combined hands of North and South had a solid trump suit and also the remaining three Aces, as well as all the Queens. Thus it was at once apparent to South that West's Double must have been based upon the spade and diamond Kings; otherwise the Double would be very foolish indeed. The problem of play was thus simplified.

West opened a club. South won the trick with the Queen, then exhausted East's trumps and took three additional rounds of clubs, thus stripping his own and Dummy's hands of that suit. He then led the Ace of spades and followed with the Knave. West won this trick, of course, but was in an utterly helpless situation. To lead another spade would permit the discard of a diamond in the one hand and a ruff in the other, while the diamond lead itself was up to the tenace in the South hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

♣A 3 2

North — West — East — South

♣Q J 5 4

South is playing notrumps and has the lead. How should he play the club suit to make the maximum number of tricks?

Answer: Lead a small one to the Ace and return a small one to the Queen. To finesse the Queen may be fatal if either opponent holds four of the suit wherever the King lies. Three tricks are more likely to be made by not leading the Queen.

Household Hints

Knives will take on a better polish if the blade is hot or the knife board warmed before polishing.

After laundering a fancy lace scarf, the best way of getting it back in proper shape is to first place a cloth on the rug, on top of which the scarf should be pinned, the pins being caught in the rug so as to hold it firm until dry.

Shopping bags which fold up neatly into an ordinary handbag size and so do not look cumbersome when empty, are now procurable. This does away with the tiresome business of carrying an obvious shopping bag around. These bags are made in all the serviceable handbag colors and are waterproof.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Late Supper

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When entertaining friends in your home at dinner, is it correct to serve light refreshments later on in the evening? W.

No, this isn't necessary or appropriate, unless the party extends "far into the night."

Thank-You Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When sending a thank-you note for a wedding present received from a man and his wife, how should the envelope be addressed, and would the salutation be just Mrs. including in the note Mr., or would it be "Dear Mr. and Mrs."? C.

Write the note to "Mrs." and address the note to "Mrs." and in the note itself include "Mr." in the expression of appreciation. Like this:

Dear Mrs. Thomas:

You and Mr. Thomas were so very kind and thoughtful to plan to make John and me so happy sending us such a beautiful lamp for our new home.

For Stepmother-to-Be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is dead, and my father is going to remarry. He is marrying a lady I am very fond of. I am very friendly with her and I would like to give her some sort of gift, shower, luncheon or something else appropriate for the occasion. Will you please advise me as to which is correct, if any? R.

This is sound and excellent social judgment, to show welcome to your stepmother-to-be. And I am sure that your father will be proud of your co-operation, spiritual and social.

Don't plan to give a shower, for this would give too much the appearance of a "promotion," and wouldn't give the party the especially dignified air that it should have. I like best the idea of giving her a luncheon, if you wish to introduce her to your women friends, or a dinner, if you wish to have a mixed party.

of milk, 5 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons of shortening, 1 compressed yeast, 2 tablespoons of lukewarm water, 1 egg, well beaten, 4 cups of sifted flour.

Combine the scaled milk with the sugar, salt and shortening and cool until lukewarm. Meanwhile soften the yeast in the lukewarm water and stir into the first mixture. Add egg and as much flour as can be stirred into the dough without kneading. Turn onto a floured board; form into rolls and arrange in greased pan. Cover with clean cloth and let rise in warm place—75 to 85 degrees—until nearly double in bulk. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes. Remove from pan, brush with melted butter and cool on a cake rack. Submitted by Mrs. M. C. Kline, Erie, Pa.

* * *

PINEAPPLE DUMPLINGS—2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon butter, ¾ cup sweet milk, ¾ cup well drained pineapple (canned), unsweetened tart sliced apples.

Sift dry ingredients twice, cut in butter, then add the milk. Roll out into a sheet and cover thickly with unsweetened sliced apples and well drained pineapple, roll up like jelly roll and cut into inch slices, lay in a buttered pan.

Make a sauce of 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup cold water, letting these come to a brisk boil. Pour over dumplings and bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot or cold with cream. Submitted by Mrs. P. J. Coulter.

* * *

Pulverize crackers and blend with dates, nuts and marshmallows. Moisten with cream. Form into a roll, chill, slice and serve with whipped cream. Submitted by Mrs. P. J. Coulter.

Health-Giving Qualities Plentiful in Rice

Ancients of India and Southern China Knew Food Value of Rice; Hundreds of Varieties Are Adapted To Use as Cereal or as Vegetable, Even as Substitute for Potatoes, Combining Well With Other Foods.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City, United States Senator From New York.

If rice were less abundant I am sure that it would be more commonly used in many households. Because it is easy to obtain and inexpensive, many housewives overlook its health-giving qualities and delicious taste.

Many believe they are well fed because they satisfy their appetites. This is a fallacy because there are more important things than merely the satisfaction of hunger. Too often food values are neglected when menus are planned. Please bear in mind that the body requires certain substances to keep it in good health. Rice contains a large number of these substances.

This cereal has been known to mankind for many centuries. It was cultivated in India and Southern China long before the beginning of the Christian era. It is now grown in all moist tropical or semi-tropical climates. It is consumed in large quantities in most eastern countries.

There are many hundreds of varieties of rice. Some of the popular forms are "polished whole grains," "partly broken grains," "brewers' rice," "cream of rice," "puffed rice" and "rice flakes." "Brown rice" contains the bran and germ. It may be used as a cereal or as a vegetable.

RICH IN CARBOHYDRATES

"White rice" is the most popular form. Practically all of it is polished. When rice is polished, the outer coat is removed. Vitamin B is found in the outer coat of a grain of rice. This is lost, however, when the rice is polished. But this loss is readily compensated for when fruits and vegetables are eaten with rice.

Polished rice contains 76 per cent carbohydrates, 7 per cent of protein, and small amounts of ash and fat. Because of its rich carbohydrate content, rice is an excellent source of energy.

Carbohydrates include the sugars and starches. After they are digested and taken into the body they are practically the same. Carbohydrates are easily digested and are necessary for the body to maintain its normal condition.

WASH THOROUGHLY

To insure its tempting flavor, rice must be properly prepared. First, thoroughly wash it in many waters. Then measure the amount necesary for your requirements and drop it into rapidly boiling salted water. Continue to boil it for 30 minutes or until the grains are tender. Never remove the cover during the cooking. Fry the rice over a low flame for a minute before serving.

Rice combines well with other foods. It is an excellent substitute for potatoes. It is an appealing breakfast dish for the young child or the adult. It is tasty when used to thicken chicken, lamb and beef broths. When served with dried fruit, egg and milk, as a pudding, it helps to make a wholesome and well balanced dessert. Since it can be used in a variety of ways it is a welcome addition to the menu.

JUNIOR PATROL

Good artists are scarce, especially in America. It seems like the people of our country have been working so hard for so long building up the country and clearing the wilderness that they haven't had time to do much painting of pictures or sculpturing.

But we have had great American artists, nevertheless—and today there are probably more good artists than ever before. More and more people are learning to love good pictures and sculpture and carving.

Maybe some of you will be great artists some day. Anyway, now is the time to start thinking about it. Go see some beautiful art and get some books which show beautiful pictures. Surely some of you have been to Carnegie Museum and have seen the pictures there. And in school you have teachers who can help you to learn. Being an artist takes much labor and trying. But it is almost as important to like art as it is to be a good artist.

Every boy and girl should try his best to know good art, and learn why it is good art—as compared with work that is not good and true.

Here is a letter from Betty Ann Stauffer, of 108 Plum street, Greenville, Pa. She writes:

"I got your letter Tuesday. I am going to listen to your broadcast every Wednesday. I am going to try and get all the members I can. I am going to wear the button every day but Sundays. I am going to try and get all my playmates to join the Junior Patrol. Do you have a pledge to fill in every day and if you do please write and tell me so, because I do not think all of my playmates get the Sun-Telegraph and I would like to know if they could cut the pledge out of my paper."

We print the pledge almost every day, Betty Ann, and it is perfectly all right for your playmates to clip your paper. But that isn't really necessary. They can make copies of the pledge if they want to and sign them.

We have a card from George Hertz, of Box 20, Indianola, Pa., and he wants two more membership cards. He says he has been elected a captain, too, but he doesn't send pledges for his new members.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR Patrol, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

AUTO LICENSES 50,000 LESS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—Issuance of 1934 drivers licenses has fallen almost 50,000 below the total for the same period in 1933, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles reported yesterday.

The total issued to date is 84,308. One of the reasons for the decrease is the fact that many blanks must be returned so that applicants can properly fill out questions relating to their accident record asked this year for the first time under the financial responsibility law, the bureau explained.

SISTER RESCUES 4 CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The heroism of 10-year-old Peggy McManus saved the lives of her four brothers and sisters.

An open heater in the home of their father, Daniel McManus, a CWA worker, set the house on fire. Peggy tore a flaming sleeping garment from her 6-year-old brother, Daniel, Jr., stamped out the fire in it, and put out the fire that had spread in the bedroom. Peggy and Daniel suffered second degree burns. Pat, 6; Mary, 4, and Mollie, 2, escaped without burns. The parents were away when the fire started.

Bird Claws Globe Until Exhausted

TIFTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A mocking bird clawed at its own image reflected in a globe until it fell exhausted. The globe was covered with cloth but the bird continued its attacks. Mrs. P. D. Fulwood suggests the bird thinks its mate is imprisoned in the globe and is trying to free it. For the past few days the bird has lessened its attacks and has placed bugs and crumbs on top of the ball.

Estate of Woman Goes to Churches

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Two churches, one Sunday school class and 49 individuals were named beneficiaries in a will filed in the Cumberland County Court, disposing of the estate of the late Sarah Watkins, of Newville.

A bequest of $20, the highest legacy, was given the Newville Methodist Church. Among other bequests were the sum of 50 cents each to Phyllis Watson and Gladys Watson.

CWA Workers Find 4 Fleas to Each Rat

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The number of fleas on a rat's back averages four. This figure was reached on a count of the 4,000 rodents caught last week in the CWA rat-catching project here. About half of the total were alive when they reached the quarantine station. The fleas were combed from these and the rats were classified. One rat, taken from a private residence, had 89 fleas, which was the record.

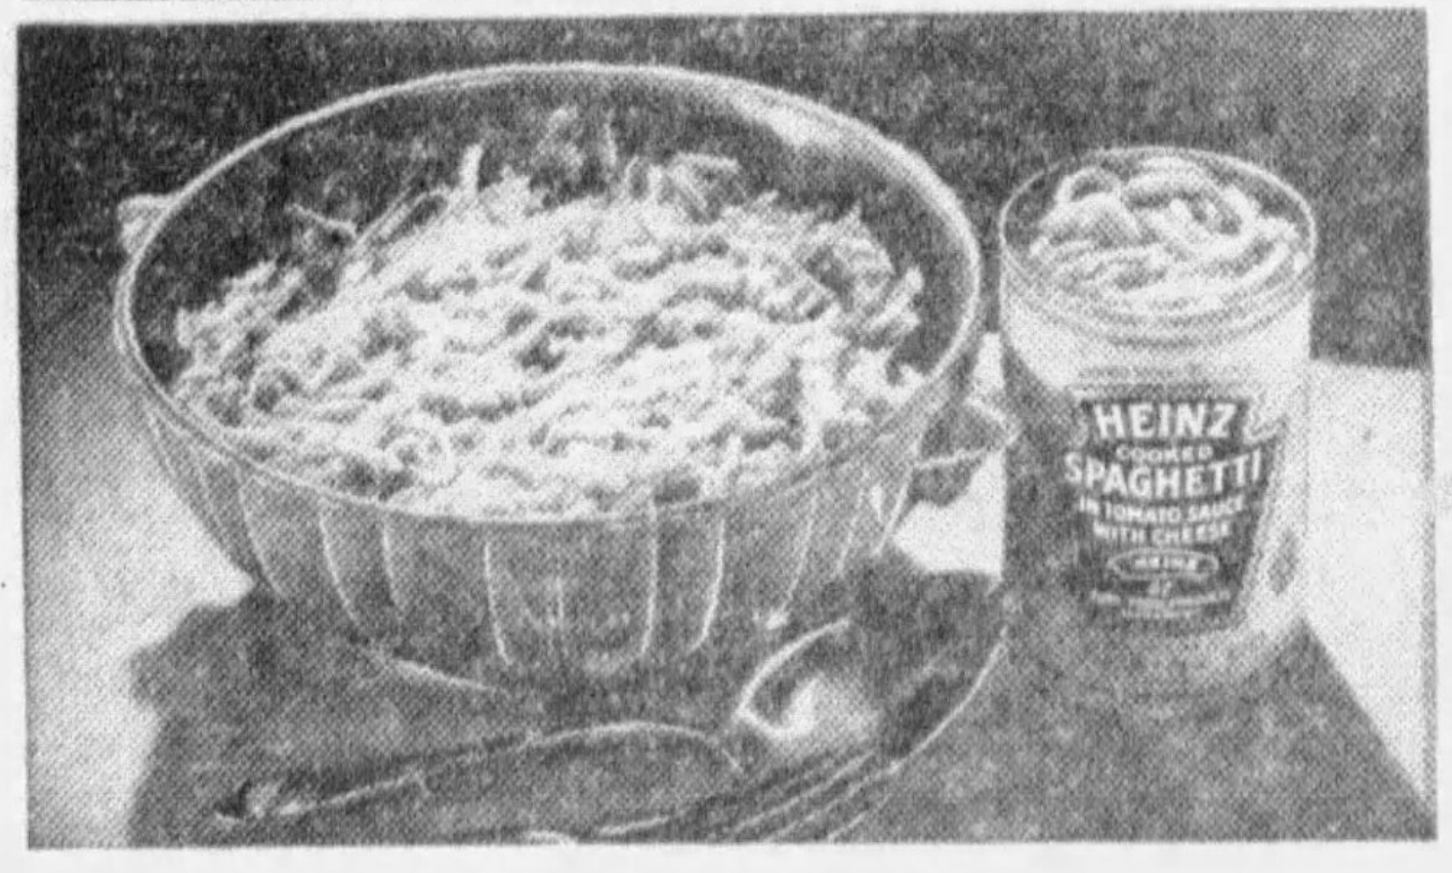
Cooked Spaghetti to Go With Thrifty Meats



By Josephine Gibson

Hear Miss Gibson's radio talks on foods, N. B. C., Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.

A pound of veal or a little left-over pork—such thrifty meats as these can be combined in no time at all with Heinz Cooked Spaghetti. And the resulting dishes are brand new treats for the family. There are a hundred recipes for merging all manner of meats with Cooked Spaghetti. Here are just two. Watch for others!

LEFT-OVER ROAST PORK WITH SPAGHETTI:—Cook one medium onion, minced, and one-half cup finely chopped celery in four tablespoons butter until tender. Add one and one-half cups of diced cooked pork, sprinkle with one tablespoon flour and brown. Add one-half cup of water, stirring until thickened. Then add one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, one teaspoon Heinz Worcestershire Sauce. Add one large tin Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and heat thoroughly. Serve hot and sprinkle with grated American cheese.

ESCALLOPINE OF VEAL WITH SPAGHETTI:—Slice thin one pound veal cutlet, cut into very small servings, and season with salt, pepper and onion juice. Dip in flour and brown in frying pan with butter. Sprinkle with one teaspoon Heinz Worcestershire Sauce add one-quarter cup water and simmer till tender (about 20 minutes). Add one large tin of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and allow it to heat thoroughly. Heap in hot serving dish, place meat over top, garnish with sprigs of parsley.

America tasted them and clamored for more!

Cream of mushroom. Noodle soup. Last year Heinz introduced them. People tasted them. Families raved about them. They told their friends. From kitchen to kitchen the news spread. News of two unbelievably tasty soups! Ready-to-serve soups. Ready-to-serve, in flavor, in consistency. As freshly delicious as any ever ladled from a chef's soup kettle.

Good cream of mushroom and noodle soup are not easy to make. Until recently, only well-taught family cooks could prepare them successfully.

Heinz adopted their prized recipes, their methods. Heinz follows them to the letter. Procures ingredients more choice than are available to the family shopper. Concocts soups in small batches. Cooks them slowly in open kettles, under the care of skilful chefs. Submits each batch to the Heinz Flavor Jury before sealing fresh into tins.

Heinz home-recipe soups are finished soups. Please add nothing to them. Heinz soup chefs have done the whole job for you.

And American palates have approved their achievement, as your own grocer will tell you. Tell him you'll try these remarkable home-recipe soups of Heinz.

Cream of Mushroom

Tender cultivated mushrooms, cut into tiny cubes, are blended with wholesome sweet cream, then delightfully seasoned to bring out the true mushroom flavor, and slowly cooked under the supervision of skilful chefs.

Noodle Soup

Heinz makes the noodles in air-washed rooms. Long, thin and tender, they are cooked in well seasoned broth which has been simmered for hours. This soup cannot be told from well-brewed home-made soup made in your own kitchen.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Grad System Works Here. • Reulbach Shutout King.
Pitt Makes Own Coaches. Finances Hamper Coast.
Hubbell Mark Not Record. Net Pros' Local Start.

While there may be a lot of dissatisfaction with the alumni system of football coaching in some sections of the country, there is one place where its continuance is hailed with delight. That particular spot is the University of Pittsburgh area, in which the signing of Dr. John Bain Sutherland to another long-term contract as head mentor took a load off the chests of thousands who were worried about the possibility of an interruption in Pitt's lengthy sequence of crack elevens. That's one graduate coaching system which satisfies everybody concerned, and its carrying on, with another Pitt man, Bill Kern, as the new first assistant to Sutherland, gives Panther supporters a feeling of assurance that winning teams will continue.

Bill Kern

The same does not apply to all colleges. Yale authorities have some factions of the alumni body greatly worried and in an argumentative frame of mind, simply because they intimated that they would stick by an Eli alumnus for the 1934 coaching appointment, despite signs that favored Harry Kipke, of Michigan. Dartmouth, in naming Earl Blaik, of Army, recently threw overboard its policy of using none but its own products. Princeton is employing with success a Chicago graduate in the person of Fritz Crisler. Columbia has Lou Little, of Penn. Gil Dobie, at Cornell, comes from Minnesota. A Yale man, Howard Jones, is in charge at Southern California. Penn and Stanford have Pitt men in Harvey Harman and Tiny Thornhill. Many additional schools use outside coaches.

ENTIRE PITT STAFF MADE UP OF ALUMNI

Even where the graduate head coach is still in favor, he is, in many instances, handed a group of non-alumni assistants. Adam Walsh, Bucky O'Connor and Ivan Williamson, at Yale, and Wes Fesler, at Harvard, are outstanding examples. At Pitt, however, not only does Dr. Sutherland, an alumnus, continue as head man, but as in the past his assistants, too, will be men who are graduates of the Panther school.

With the exception of the late Alex Stevenson, Sutherland always has had Pitt men as aides. The late Chalky Williamson, Charley Bowser and Andy Gustafson, Jock's series of first lieutenants, were highly satisfactory, and now the promotion of Bill Kern adds another of rare qualities to the list. Of the other coaching assistants, Skip Gougler, Zeke Wissenger, Buck Templeton, Cliff Carlson, Ray Montgomery, Joe Donchess, Eddie Baker, Eddie Hirshberg and Ulhard Hangartner all have been living proof that the alumni system works—when the right men are there to work it.

HUBBELL SHORT OF REULBACH'S RECORD

Digging back 25 years into the baseball records, they've discovered that Carl Hubbell didn't set a record after all when he pitched 45 consecutive scoreless innings last season. Furthermore, it has been found that Ed Reulbach has a better record than ever was credited to him. The baseball books said the best mark prior to Hubbell's performance was 44 innings, pitched by Reulbach for the Cubs in 1908, but now it is disclosed that Reulbach actually hurled 50 innings in a row without allowing a run, though he went into two seasons to do it, and that his record is still five innings better than Hubbell's.

Carl Hubbell

On September 17, 1908, Reulbach held Boston scoreless in the last two innings; on September 19 he pitched 10 runless frames against the Phillies; on September 26 he shut out Brooklyn in both games of a double-header, adding 18 rounds to his string; on October 1 he blanked the Reds in nine chapters; and on October 3 he was leading the Reds 15 to 0 at the end of the fifth inning, when Manager Frank Chance took him out to save his arm. That made 44 innings for 1908, and Reulbach stretched it to 50 by pitching six scoreless innings in his first game of 1909 before a run was scored against him. Inasmuch as Alvin Crowder was credited with 16 consecutive victories after piling up 15 in 1932 and winning his first start in 1933, it is held that Reulbach, in all fairness, must be given credit for those first six innings in a second season.

METERS NOT CAUSE OF COAST WITHDRAWAL

Eleven times in the last 13 years, California's athletes carried away the team honors in the I. C. 4-A track and field meet. This year they'll be missing, but it is denied that opposition to the metric system influenced Stanford, California and Southern California in their decision not to compete.

According to Dink Templeton, it's a matter of finances, Stanford would like to send a team East, but can't afford it. Dink says that, far from wishing to stay out of the meet, he is particularly sorry not to be in the Eastern competition this year, not only because he thinks he would have a chance of winning with a good, small team, but because he will be deprived of a fine opportunity "to go to bat against the metric system and try to get the I. C. 4-A body back where it belongs, on good old yards, feet and inches."

PART OF PRO TENNIS START STAGED HERE

Pittsburgh can claim to have played a part in starting professional tennis on its way in this country. Pro competition, which has grown to such a degree that the Tilden-Vines series is one of the big sports features of the present winter and an annual open tournament is practically certain to develop, had its birth in a tour on which this city was one of the most successful stops. The action of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen in turning professional for a $50,000 offer was the starting point. Along with C. C. Pyle, the girl who had led French tennis into the light blazed the trail that now so distinctly crosses the path of the amateurs.

Suzanne Lenglen

It was in 1926 that Pyle promoted a professional tour with Mlle. Lenglen as the star, supported by Miss Mary K. Browne, Vincent Richards, Howard Kinsey, Harvey Snodgrass and Paul Feret. The troupe performed here at Motor Square Garden, and the financial and artistic success of the local appearance did much toward encouraging the promoter to extend the tour and also gave no little impetus to the commercialized game. Out of this tour, the Professional Lawn Tennis Association of the United States was born in 1927, under the able leadership of Richards and Kinsey, and a pro championship tourney became an annual fixture. Karl Kozeluh, Ramon Najuch, Dan Maskell and other European pros came over to join in the competition; later Bill Tilden's turnover supplied about the last thing necessary to assure the success of the game, and now with Ellsworth Vines and other stars attracted from the amateur ranks professional tennis is on a firm foundation.

ROOKER STARS IN PANTHER CARNIVAL

By JESS CARVER

If the competition in tonight's finals is as keen as it was in the trials last night, the first annual University of Pittsburgh's indoor track and field meet will be jotted down as a success. The carnival is being staged in the Pitt field house.

Only one record (a field house mark) went by the boards last night as athletes from 11 colleges, clubs and high schools competed and 25 of 'em qualified for tonight's finals. The mark was set in the only event in which a champion was crowned, the only final on the program, the hop, step and jump. In this form of competition, if it may be termed such, Robert Scott, Pitt's Negro star, covered 42 feet 4 inches.

The feature of the evening was the broad jumping of husky Harvey Rooker, varsity end on the football team. The kibitzers along the sidelines were offering 8 to 5 or better that Harvey would not even hit the pit as he took off on his first jump. The former Tarentum fireman, however, fooled 'em all by leaping 20 feet 11 inches on his first flight; 21 feet on his second and 21 feet 3 inches on his third. He wound up by qualifying for the finals tonight in second place, the best leap being made by Scott, who did 21 feet 6 inches.

Rooker has a lot of speed and drive and fine form, and Coach Carl Olsen, who, by the way, is an Indiana and not an Iowa Swede, hopes to develop the big grid star into a 24-foot jumper.

Pitt qualified 13 men for the finals tonight, with the Kay Community Club placing four, the P. A. A. and Mt. Pleasant High School two each and Geneva College, Center Avenue Y. M. C. A. and Connellsville High School one each.

The qualifiers and summary:

QUALIFIERS

50-yard dash—Fleming, Schlossberg, McMunn and Menaker, of Pitt; Lewis and Wells, of Kay Community Club; Evans, of Geneva College; Demler, of P. A. A.

300-yard run—Kiger, Menaker and McMunn, of Pitt; Jones, of Mt. Pleasant High.

1,000-yard run—Connelly and Leggin, of Pitt; Gaines, of Kay Community Club; Snyder, of Mt. Pleasant High.

600-yard run—McDonald, Keller and Pfaff, of Pitt; Slinka, unattached.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE—Bernard Elliot, who served with the Twenty-first Division Northumberland Fusiliers during the World War, was advancing in the first line of attack on April 2, 1916, near Croisilles, France, when a Mills grenade, which he carried in his pocket, was struck by a machine gun bullet. The Mills grenade is a missile of formidable explosive power and Elliot's escape unharmed is virtually a miracle.

TARTANS FACE REAL TEST IN COVENANTERS

THE LINEUP

CARNEGIE.		GENEVA.
Spisak	F.	Ginsberg
Macalka	F.	Pennebaker
Ewalt	C.	Schmitz
Rigg	G.	Littell
Freedel	G.	Grahame

Referee—Hetra. Umpire—Richards.

Geneva College's dangerous basketball varsity makes its second invasion of Pittsburgh of the campaign (and incidentally its last) tonight to test the comeback effort of Carnegie Tech, an effort which got off to a fine start Tuesday night against Wash-Jeff.

The contest originally was scheduled to be played in Beaver Falls, with the Covenanters booked to come here later in the season, but when a conflict arose over the securing of the Beaver Falls High School gymnasium floor, the dates were reversed.

GENEVA FORMIDABLE

Ken Loeffler, one of the smartest mentors in the district, has his team rolling along in fine style at present. They gave the Dukes the scare of their young lives here two weeks back, leading the Bluffites at the half by a seemingly comfortable margin. But in the second period, the Beaver Falls entry tired and the Dukes went on to win.

Geneva's machine is sparked by young Hymie Ginsberg, who has been playing excellent basketball in all departments. His passing and floor work is of high order, and he's a dangerous scorer, dangerous enough to cause Coach Maxie Hannum, of the Tartans, to spend the past couple days perfecting a defense for him.

With Art Grahame playing the ball of which he is capable (and playing it for 40 minutes) and Littell continuing his steady work, the Covenanters come close to being even money bets against almost any brand of opposition, and rate just that against Tech tonight.

SILVERMAN MAY PLAY

Capt. Red Silverman, of the Plaid, who has been confined to his bed all week with an attack of the flu, insists he'll be able to return to the lineup tonight. Dr. W. L. Marks, the Carnegie team physician, says he won't. The Redhead usually gets his own way, and if he is able to get out of the hay, he'll be in there.

Otherwise, Coach Hannum has indicated that he'll start the same lineup that faced Wash-Jeff, using Freedel at Silverman's guard position, Gibson and Spisak at the forwards, Johnny Ewalt at center and Ted Rigg at the other guard.

Coach Red Carlson has been permitting his Pitt Panthers to take it comparatively easy this week as he prepared them for the game in the Stadium tomorrow night with West Virginia and will have a rested and ready team to toss into the arena with the Mountaineers.

DUKES FACE THIEL

Excitement over the football coaching situation at Duquesne has cleared sufficiently to again allow the Dukes' cagers the attention deserved by their string of 23 consecutive triumphs. With the fall of Notre Dame before the Pitt Panther, the Dukes reign supreme.

Tomorrow night, however, Coach Charles Robinson Davies will take his team on the road to meet Thiel College at Greenville, Pa., seeking the twenty-fourth win.

Another home game has been added to the University of Pittsburgh varsity basketball schedule. Pitt athletic authorities announced this afternoon that the Panthers would meet Westminster College in the Pitt Stadium pavilion on Wednesday, February 21.

POND TO COACH ELIS, REPORT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Raymond (Ducky) Pond, of Torrington, Conn., will be the new head football coach at Yale, the New Haven Register says in a copyrighted article.

It names Reginald (Reggie) Root, last season's head coach, as head coach of the freshman.

The varsity coaching staff is given as Alfred Earl (Greasy) Neale in charge of the backfield; Bennie Osterbaan, the former Michigan end star, in charge of varsity ends, and Jack Blott, Michigan line coach, may be in command of Yale's line.

The register says the freshman staff is not yet completed. Ivan Williamson, of Michigan, already has been appointed end coach for that squad.

Sutherland Host At Layden Fete

Others in the party were Coaches Howard Harpster, of Carnegie Tech, and Joe Bach, of Duquesne; Athletic Director W. Don Harrison, of Pitt, and Athletic Manager Clarence Overend, of Carnegie Tech, and Ed Leech, Harry Keck, Havey J. Boyle and Chester L. Smith, newspapermen.

Layden's children already have gone on to Davenport, Ia., and he will leave with Mrs. Layden tomorrow. Their furniture will be shipped by van, and they will be in their new home on Monday.

WEBERS GET GOALIE

The Scott Morgan team, of the City Amateur Hockey League, have loaned Frank Curl, a goaltender, to the H. J. Webers for the remainder of the season. Curl will be in the starting lineup for the Webers tomorrow night against his former teammates.

SCHOOL FIVES REACH HALFWAY POINT TODAY

LEADERS CLASH IN SECTION IV HEADLINER

By JULIUS LEVIN

South High School, bidding for its second successive City League championship, invades Fifth Avenue High School in the feature attraction in Section I. The Orioles will be out to record their twentieth straight City League victory by disposing of the Briggs passers. So far this season, South has recorded five wins in a row and is the only City League quintet undefeated in league competition to date.

In other Section I engagements, Connelley Trade School, beaten only by South, strives to remain in the running for the crown by invading the Westinghouse High Court, while Peabody and Schenley tangle on the Schenley floor.

LEADERS DEADLOCKED

Section II, showing a deadlock between South Hills and Langley for the top position, each winning four and losing one, likewise offers an attractive program. Langley, still smarting from the setback received at the hands of South Hills Tuesday afternoon, faces another menace in Allegheny, the only quintet to check South Hills.

Allegheny, after losing three successive games, appears to have started a winning streak, having defeated South Hills by a single point and Allegheny Vocational by a big margin. Unless Langley displays a decided improvement over the form it showed against South Hills Tuesday afternoon, the Russell-coached team may suffer its second straight setback.

CARRICK TOUGH TEAM

South Hills, almost invincible on its home court, entertains a tough opponent in Carrick, a team that has scored three victories in five starts. Coach Cuddeback, of South Hills, has his floor machine going at full speed, and if Freddie Crissman and George (Whitey) Fowle, his two sterling forwards, continue to keep the range of the baskets, it is going to prove a tough task stopping this team. Crissman and Fowle have stood out in every game played by the Tunnelites.

Perry and Oliver, sectional rivals of the North Side, lock horns on the Oliver floor. Perry, the defending champion in this division, already has taken two on the chin, but this fact will not detract from the interest shown in the contest by the followers of the two schools.

Interest in the W. P. I. A. L. centers around the outcome of the first battle of the season between Ambridge and Aliquippa in Section IV. The Bridgers, defending champions, and Nate Lippe's Aliquippa quintet are deadlocked for the lead at the present time and the winner tonight takes undisputed possession of first place. Both teams have scored five victories in as many league starts and their game tonight at Ambridge completes their first half schedules.

Leon See's 'Inside Story' Of Carnera's Career

EDITORIAL FOREWORD

And now for one (or rather, two) of the most vivid melodramas in Carnera's chimerical career—his super-thrillers with the late Young Stribling at London and Paris, late in 1929. . . .

By LEON SEE

Des [illegible]ormer Manager of Primo Carnera, World Heavyweight Boxing Champion.

CHAPTER X.

At the time when Carnera first appeared on the Alhambra stage, Stribling had arrived in Paris accompanied by his mother, his wife, his brother, his young son and also by his father-manager, Pa Stribling. The latter, taking stock of the popularity which Carnera enjoyed, understood immediately that an encounter between his son, then considered one of the four leading heavyweights in the world, and the giant could not fail to realize tremendous gate receipts.

Primo Carnera

Pa Stribling talked about it to Jeff Dickson, who, as a smart promoter, had replied to him:

"Evidently the gate receipts would amount to a million francs, but I think you will never get Leon See to agree to the match."

Then Pa Stribling left by airplane for London. There he visited me at my hotel.

PA STRIBLING PROPOSES

"I come to make you an interesting proposition," he said. "Jeff Dickson is ready to promote a fight between Carnera and my son. I do not need to tell you that it would draw a big gate. Dickson is prepared to give you a minimum guaranty of £2,000 (about $10,000) with the privilege of 30 per cent of the receipts."

"I'm sorry, but I must refuse," I replied. "Carnera is still a novice and Young Stribling is far superior to him. Even for 200,000 francs (the money you mentioned) I am not interested in having my man—who is today the idol of the English—beaten."

But Pa Stribling—knowing only too well that Carnera was the only adversary capable of attracting the crowds in a fight with his son in Europe—was not a man to let such an extraordinary opportunity slip.

"But consider," he told me, "that 200,000 francs is so large an amount of money that you can't disregard it!"

DECLINES MATCH

"Why, we can make that much in one month at the music hall," I replied, "without my needing to have Primo murdered by an adversary 10 times more scientific and more experienced than Carnera is now."

Utterly discouraged, Pa Stribling took the airplane for Paris and gave Dickson an account of the failure of his proposals.

"I am convinced," the Parisian promoter told him, "that Leon See will NOT accept to have Carnera beaten and battered; you will never be able to decide him."

Two days later, traveling again by airplane, Pa Stribling came back to resume his attack. He could not resign himself to seeing such a money match fall through. His insistence was such that I ending by talking to him without subterfuges.

"You are too smart a manager," I said, "not to understand the situation. Carnera, in reality, is nothing but a novice as yet, having boxed only for a year, and you know as well as I that at least four years are required to make a boxer worth while. Nevertheless, Carnera has attained such reputation and such popularity that it would be utterly ridiculous on my part to have him beaten. It would be like killing the goose that laid the golden eggs, to destroy in one day the work of an entire year."

CARNERA MUST WIN

"Then you believe that he has no chance at all against my son?" countered Pa.

"Not the slightest, and you know it very well."

"That's so, if he has only one year of boxing," agreed Pa, thoughtfully. "I would have loved, though, to have been able to arrange this bout that would produce the biggest gate receipts ever dreamed of in Europe."

"There is only one way of coming to an agreement," I said, "and it is that CARNERA SHOULD BE THE WINNER and that he does not receive any severe punches."

To tell the truth, I must say that remark drove Pa Stribling into a violent burst of indignation—almost a fury.

"My son to take a dive for a novice? You're absolutely crazy! Young Stribling has never taken a dive for anybody and he has not the slightest intention of starting now."

"I can't blame you for defending the interests of your son," I retorted, "but you'll realize, I'm sure, that I must defend the interests of my pupil."

TWO BOUTS PLANNED

That evening Pa Stribling and I parted coldly, as far as his sentiments toward me were concerned; while, on my part, the indignation he had shown contributed to raise him in my esteem.

But it was painful for him to return to Paris once more without success, and the next day he resumed the discussion.

"Have you considered," it was suggested, "that such a battle would produce as big a gate in Paris as in London? Carnera is as popular in France as he is in England, and, even if he is defeated here, a return match in Paris would probably bring in more money. In two or three weeks, each of us could make 400,000 francs, almost half a million. That deserves consideration."

"Everything has been considered," I said. "Carnera must be the winner or—nothing."

"That never!" Pa exploded.

I then knew my scheming would have to be carried out alone.

VICTORY, BUT NOT DEFEAT

I certainly could not blame Pa for flatly refusing to enter any "arrangement," but, on the other hand, how could I accept to let a novice fight such an experienced man as Young Stribling?

Clearly I had the vision of a deplorable bout, of a Carnera disfigured, stunned by punches, disgusted with boxing forever . . .

It was then that I thought of one of the most incredible scenarios ever imagined, which, it so happened, was carried out to its minutest detail—and for which I assume entire and absolute responsibility.

My plan was that Carnera should win the first encounter without Stribling being beaten, and that Stribling should win the second without Primo actually tasting defeat . . .

PRIMO THE FURY

The match was finally made and the first bout took place in London . . . The clever American outpointed my green giant for three rounds and then, in the fourth, the fireworks blazed . . .

After having been floored for about two seconds, Primo got up and literally pounced on top of Stribling with all the ferocity of a savage beast seizing its prey.

The way in which my giant leaped and the expression of fury on his face made the shouting crowd shiver with terror.

It was an unforgettable moment. It was no more a question of boxing, it was the mad rush of an unchained ogre!

Goliath was about to slay David under the eyes of 10,000 spectators! All were on their feet. It was impossible not to feel seized with real terror...

Then Stribling, thrown to the canvas, got up groggy, and in the ensuing melee, struck beneath the belt. Because of that obvious foul, the referee intervened, declaring Carnera the winner. The excited crowd heaved a sigh of relief... Never had London witnessed such a prodigious pugilistic spectacle.

'SHOULD BE BARRED'

The accounts of the events of the night before were still vibrant with the unforgettable emotion experienced. More sensational articles had never been published before concerning a European boxing event. But the limits were surpassed by one sports writer, noted as a genuine fight expert and for the acuteness of his criticisms, who published a page one article in enormous type in which, in substance and with a definite conviction, he warned:

"Carnera is a most dangerous tiger. It is absolutely necessary that he should be barred from boxing. In a moment of ire he is capable of killing the referee and judges and perhaps his own manager," etc., etc.

A FEW REFLECTIONS

Before entering the second act of this 1929 ring melodrama in two parts—those Carnera-Stribling shows extraordinary—it is important to make some reflections:

It may be thought that I exaggerate, that I use vague excuses. It is not so.

I used to believe in the sincerity of sports. I also fought for 30 years against arranged fights, against "combinations" of all kind.

But 30 years pass.

I realize now that much of sport is adulterated, that the promoters and authorities themselves are rarely above suspicion or reproach.

Allow me to invite the average reader to evoke and compare these two pictures:

At Leipzig: an absolutely sincere fight where the result was Carnera is declared beaten by default although he had indisputably won on a foul by Franz Diener. We are disqualified and the purse is retained in the most scandalously unjust way. The spectators left furious, disappointed and shouting, "fake." The local newspapers assailed us with insults and sarcasm.

The promoter, in desperation, averred that boxing had suffered an incalculable setback at Leipzig and that months and months would be necessary to repair the disaster. He added that Carnera could never again box in Germany. Primo and I departed, deeply injured financially and morally. Besides, Carnera was seriously hurt by that blow and was laid up eight days.

MONS. SEE'S SECRET

At London: I plan a great show. Result: Everybody is delighted. No difficulties of any sort. The fans enjoyed a memorable evening; action was tremendously exciting; the newspapers overflowed with expert enthusiasm. The promoter raved with delight, was exuberant in his thanks and affirmed:

"You have given boxing in London an extraordinary lift when it had fallen into decline. I do not know how to thank you, how to congratulate you. I beg you to accept a return match in Paris in 15 days.

"And if you come back to fight in England every month you will find Albert Hall too small."

What if he had known my secret?

MAXES GET OFFER

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26.—Benny Franklin, local boxing promoter, has offered $75,000 for a bout between Max Baer and Max Schmeling, to be staged here in June.

LOCAL AMATEUR SOCCER FRAY POSTPONED

By TOM BIRKS

The Heidelberg-Castle Shannon Riehl national amateur cup replay, scheduled for Greenlee Field Sunday afternoon, has been postponed for at least two weeks. The death of the mother of the two Urbanic boys, of the Heidelberg team, made the postponement necessary.

Inasmuch as the Curry eleven is booked to tackle the Cleveland Slavias here one week from Sunday in a national open tournament battle at Greenlee Field, the amateur cup battle will have to be held over for at least one more week, as it would not be fair or good business to put it on as a counter attraction to the open tussle.

The Arsenal eleven, of the Central League, is idle this week and may have its advantage shaved somewhat by the Old Carnegie team, which takes on the Aliquippa booters at Aliquippa tomorrow. Old Carnegie is the only team in the circuit standing a chance of catching the league leader and the two points involved in the game with Aliquippa will come in very handily.

Three other contests are scheduled, none of which cuts any figure in the championship race. The Pittsburgh Rovers travel to Swissvale to engage the Union Switch and Signal entry, Beltzhoover plays the Dunwick Rovers at Leslie Park and the Clan Douglas team takes on the Ambridge eleven at Ambridge.

It is possible that the Morgan-Riehl Keystone League contest, slated for Sunday, may be staged at Greenlee Field in the place of the postponed Heidelberg-Riehl affair.

QUAILL DRILLS WITH YAROSZ

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Johnny King vs. Dick Corbett, 15 rounds, London.

Johnny Pile vs. Ken Overlin, 10 rounds; Frank Little vs. Spib Styer, 8 rounds, and Zeke Kogel vs. Jack Kelly, Milt Jacobs vs. Charley Rhodes, and Bobby Zimmerman vs. Norman Rahn, 6 rounds each, Philadelphia.

Frankie Battaglia vs. Sammy Slaughter, 10 rounds, and Tait Littman vs. Paul Pirrone, 8 rounds, Milwaukee.

Ted Yarosz, entering upon the last lap of his training for the 15-round state title bout against Jimmy Smith, of Philadelphia, at Motor Square Garden, next Friday night, yesterday impressed a delegation of boxing men as he went through his paces in the Turner Hall, Monaca.

Young Gains Tie For Tourney Lead

Defeating Peter Albertoletti, of Jeannette, 125 to 23, last night, Jack Young, of Penn, Pa., scored his second victory in the West Penn championship pocket billiard tournament at the Ritz parlors last night and went into a tie with Robert Wilson for first place among the 12 contestants.

Young missed equaling the high run record of 34, set by Harry Reibert, of East Pittsburgh, by one as he tolled off 33 billiards against Albertoletti.

In tonight's match, Reibert meets H. L. Rumstay, of the North Side. One of the two will force a three-way deadlock for the tournament lead.

REED, FAGAN TO CLASH IN SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

City Champion McCook Reed battles his talented Keystone teammate, Charley Fagan, at 5:30 p. m. today in the semi-final feature of the annual Pittsburgh Golf Club invitation singles squash racquets tournament on the Northumberland gallery court.

At the same hour, Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. star and the only non-Keystoner still surviving in the event, engages Ed Seifert, twice victor in the interurban racquet contesting here last weekend. The O'Loughlin-Seifert affair is the last of the bracket-of-eight tussles. The winner will meet Henry Blaxter, crack Harvard performer, in penultimate conflict either tomorrow or Sunday, the final arrangement depending on situation with regard to the regular P. S. R. A. Interclub League bill, which calls both Blaxter and Seifert to Saturday action.

Reed, Blaxter and Fagan came through quarter-final jousts yesterday with varying degrees of difficulty. Reed eliminated his cousin, McCook Miller, in a warmer tilt than had been anticipated, 18-17, 15-10, 15-11.

Blaxter, however, was pushed to the limit by the Winged Head veteran, Frank McClintock, who flashed perhaps his keenest squash of the year to date to annex the first two games and to lose out only after the hottest sort of a scrimmage down the stretch, 12-15, 17-18, 15-10, 15-13, 15-10.

Fagan traveled the four-stanza route to account for Jim Ebbert, main hope of the home club, 15-12, 13-18, 15-12, 15-13. The Downtowner's clever corner clicks scored often.

REILLY LOSES TO GIZZY

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Battling Gizzy, 135, of Donora, Pa., slugged his way to a decisive victory over Jimmy Reilly, 137, of Fairmont, in 10 rounds here last night. Gizzy showered Reilly with punches until the local pugilist was dizzy, but Reilly refused to give in, although he was badly battered at the end.

St. Rosalia Grid Elevens Honored

The St. Rosalia Preps, champions of Section II of the Lightweight Football Conference, and the St. Rosalia Prep Juniors, champions of the Junior League, were feted by the Greenfield Boosters' Club last night. The affair, held in the basement of the church, was one of the most successful football banquets of the season.

Pisula in Confab With Buc Officials

Alex J. Pisula, of Scottdale, president of the Springfield, O., club of the Mid-Atlantic League, had a conference with Pirate President Bill Benswanger yesterday afternoon relative to baseball matters.

The Pirates recently completed negotiations with Pisula whereby the Springfield club will be used as a farm for the development of young Buccos. The Springfield president says he has many applicants for the managerial job, but no decision in this matter has been made.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The lexicographers seem to be having a hard time with slang and its ramifications . . . The subject certainly goes deeper than the surface in baseball and the men who seek to define it as well as to disclose the originators of the ofttimes picturesque jargon have carried their research into the sportive field . . . The works of Ring Lardner, Damon Runyon, Bugs Baer and others already have been dissected in the laborious task.

It is the opinion of this observer that the research men have missed a point in not consulting some of the major league players inasmuch as they have studied those who chronicle the events. . . The writers have their organs in which to parade their smart cracks that may or may not have merit, whereas the gems sputtered around the diamond are often wasted on the desert air.

To illustrate, many of the stars of the present are using the interesting phrases brought into baseball about a dozen years ago by one James (Cotton) Tierney, a Pirate secondsacker. . . Yes, Cotton has gone this many a year, but scores of his contemporaries prefer to use his verbiage when they wish to make themselves emphatic.

Shortly after the arrival of the towhead from Kansas City the batters began to "hang clotheslines;" they still hang the clotheslines, which is more expressive to them than to state they hit a line drive with a brand new ball. . . And the smart pitchers would throw "that old Pughandle" in a clinch to a good batter. . . Better English would demand that you say the pitchers threw a curve. . . Tierney's "plough jockeys" were the unsophisticated boys from the farm districts; these lads were also "country butter" to Cotton.

A stupid player who flipped the ball to the wrong base, or anybody in civilian life who had a tendency for doing the sour thing, was a "Joe Gek" to Cotton. When Tierney went to the plate to "cow-tail" one you could hear the swish of his bat as the action suited the word . . . Cotton's slang was so meaningful it was not necessary for him to pass out a glossary when he talked.

Tierney's brethren have developed words and phrases that have blended into our national life . . . If you are an American and you refer to anybody as a "foul ball" you are not required to furnish a blueprint . . . The impelling force of baseball slang was reflected in no less a personage than Franklin Delano Roosevelt as he made his now historic campaign speech at the home of the Pirates . . . The presidential candidate was a bit bewildered by lights and camera flashes as he rose to speak. This was his opening number:

"My friends—They tell me I am in the vicinity of second base, but I am more concerned about getting to first base."

SPORT VIGNETTES

How would you like to fight a tough 10-round bout, lose the decision when you thought you had a safe lead and wind up with 36 cents for your end with which to toss yourself a banquet and be careful you didn't overeat? . . . That's what happened to Dominic Mancini, local welterweight boxer, in his bout with Joey Bazzone at McKeesport last Monday night. It was his first bout of the year and out of his purse of $51.36 on a percentage basis had to come his yearly license fee of $10 and his manager's license fee of $40 . . . A second who assisted in his corner received $1, and Dominic pocketed the difference . . . He laughed off the incident, saying he will get even when he boxes Marty Gornick on the Ted Yarosz-Jimmy Smith card at Motor Square Garden next week, when he will have no licenses to pay for . . . The second who got the dollar for working in Dominic's corner added $9 to it for his license . . . Net loss for four men for one night—$8.64.

Because of the increased license fees for managers, seconds and boxers and wrestlers, a movement is under foot to have the Boxing Commission take out the fees on an instalment basis, at the rate of about $5 per fight except in the case of boxers who receive large pay for their services . . . The present system works an extreme hardship on the little fellows at a time when they can ill afford to be so taxed.

The signing of Joe Bach to succeed Elmer Layden as head football coach at Duquesne University, long delayed, but from the first considered inevitable, strikes a popular chord . . . To complete the picture of harmony and faith in Duquesne's own products, in this writer's opinion, no more laudable move could be made than to elevate Buff Donnelli, one of the finest all-round players the Dukes ever had from the post of freshman coach to backfield coach, and to appoint the deserving John D. Holohan, graduate manager, to the position of athletic director, left open when Elmer Layden was drafted by Notre Dame . . . The Dukes, we think, need have no fear of criticism of a policy which rewards merit within its own ranks . . . Bigger names in the athletic firmament could be obtained at a correspondingly larger price, but, to all intents and purposes, the men named would fill the bill admirably and they have earned the promotions that should rightly fall to them.

Bill McKechnie's brother, Jim, is stage manager for Earl Carroll's show at the Loew's Penn Theater.—HARRY KECK.

SIX AMATEURS K. O. VICTORS

The amateur boxers were in knockout moods last night as they pushed leather in a simon-pure show at the Etna Elks, under the auspices of the North Boroughs A. C. Six bouts ended in knockouts, two being of the technical variety.

Two knockout victors were Lyle Davies, Willow Club; Joe Phillips, of Homestead; Carl Kleiber, Frawley A. C.; Jimmy Wolfe, St. John's Lyceum; Danny Pielan, also of the Frawley Club, and John Tomchick, of Homestead. The summary:

VETERAN SPORT SCRIBE DIES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A veteran newspaperman and baseball authority, James A. Blough is dead at the age of 62. He succumbed last night from diabetes and a cranial hemorrage.

Alternately he worked as reporter, sports editor and managing editor for Johnstown newspapers for 45 years, serving until recently as managing editor of the Johnstown Democrat and as a representative of the Associated Press.

He was secretary of the old Tri-State Baseball League and was one of the warmest supporters of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Hyatt's Team Starts On Tough Trip

Charley Hyatt's National A. A. U. champion Tulsa Oilers basketball team will play 10 games on the eastern trip which will bring it here for a battle with the McKeesport Willigs in the Pitt Stadium pavilion next Thursday night.

The Oilers left Tulsa last Sunday night and are making stops at Fremont, Neb.; Des Moines, Ia.; Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Waterloo, Ia.; Dubuque, Ia.; Chicago and Milwaukee.

They will arrive here next Wednesday and rest up a night before playing the Willigs. The only stop en route back home after playing here will be for a game at Terre Haute the following night.

Willigs Victors Over Butler Five

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 26.—Local basketball fans have had their first glimpse of the W. S. Willigs, of McKeesport, pace-setters in the Allegheny County League, and have found the Willigs much to their liking.

The Willigs walloped the Company D Penn Drakes here last night, 41 to 28, with Fred Brand and Don Smith showing the way with 11 and 10 points, respectively. The locals held an 18-to-12 lead at half time, but the Willigs passed them in the third period. The lineup:

OILERS SCORE WIN

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Jan. 26.—Led by Charley Hyatt, former Pitt star, the Tulsa Oilers, national A. A. U. basketball champions, defeated the Alberts, local quintet 29 to 15, here last night. Hyatt scored nine points.

'KEEPSIE RACE FAILS TO GET BIG SUPPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The reaction of the college rowing world to the decision to renew the Poughkeepsie Regatta June 16 was that it was a fine idea, but that considerable digging into lean athletic pocketbooks would be necessary to insure a full navy at the starting line.

A survey by the Associated Press of all colleges considered likely prospects for the intercollegiate classic on the Hudson shows only four schools, Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse and Navy, as likely to send a full complement of crews. California plans to try and repeat its varsity victory, but all others are definitely out or doubtful starters.

Pennsylvania, whose representative voted for the renewal with the other stewards and which is a charter member of the rowing association, is still a questionable participant. So are Washington, Princeton, Wisconsin, Rutgers and Marietta (O.) College. Massachusetts Tech and Manhattan, a newcomer to the sport, are out of the picture.

Little Marietta, one of the few inland colleges which supports rowing, would like to come East, said Coach J. Ellis McDonald, but he was doubtful that the trip could be financed. Marietta has regattas scheduled at home with Rollins College and Canisius, of Buffalo.

Game Commissioners Approve Land Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—A plan for conversion of submarginal agricultural lands into breeding areas for all classes of wild life, especially migratory birds, has been approved at a conference of game commissioners and sportsmen representing the entire country.

The plan, tentative provisions of which were explained by Thomas H. Beck, of Wilton, Conn., provides for lease of submarginal lands by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, with options to purchase at the end of a year.

The corporation possesses $25,000,000 with which it is estimated 50,000,000 acres could be withdrawn from cultivation.

Names in News

BILL WILKINSON, of INDIANAPOLIS, and CUSTIS BRYAN, JR., of MIAMI, were favored to survive the semi-final round in the annual MIAMI-BILTMORE amateur golf championship tournament today. Sid Carson, of Greensburg, Pa., lost at the final hole to Tubby Price, MIAMI star, yesterday.

WILLIAM WATSON CLARK and AL SMITH, both pitchers, have been added to the list of NEW YORK GIANTS who have signed their contracts for the coming season.

Attorneys for BEN CHAPMAN, New York Yankee outfielder, and his wife, MARY ELIZABETH CHAPMAN, recently reconciled, have filed a petition for separate maintenance and property settlement in BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Tonight's schedule bout at MADISON SQUARE GARDEN between TONY CANZONERI and CLEO LOCATELLI, of Italy, has been postponed due to an attack of influenza contracted by the Italian fighter.

The AMERICAN OLYMPIC COMMITTEE will be asked to either decline GERMANY'S invitation to compete in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin or to table it for the present, according to CHARLES L. ORNSTEIN, a member of the committee, who claims he will present new evidence that GERMANY is discriminating against Jewish athletes.

DREW JOHNSON, of Pittsburgh, was defeated in the consolation semi-final round of the LAKEWORTH golf championship at PALM BEACH, FLA., by WILLIAM B. LANGFORD, of CHICAGO, 2 and 1.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT NARROW

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Financial markets looked and listened today but displayed few indications of participating in either a bearish or bullish demonstration.

Stocks were quite active in the first hour and a number of specialties were turned over for gains of a point or more. Irregularity later developed as some traders decided to cash in profits. Although most of the leaders recorded minor losses, none was especially soft. The volume dwindled appreciably on the declines.

The dollar advanced 2 or more cents in terms of sterling, and was equally firm in relation to the French franc, despite reports of extensive gold purchases abroad by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in an effort to depress the exchange value of the American unit. Grains and cotton were narrow, rubber firm and silver easier. Bonds were fairly steady.

The tobacco shares, including Liggett & Myers B, American Tobacco B and Reynolds B, stood out with gains of fractions to a point or more.

An increase of 4,803 in freight car loadings for the week ended January 20, as reported by the American Railway Association, was about in line with previous estimates.

The financial district was impressed by the country's foreign trade showing for December. A 4 per cent increase over November in the value of exports and imports represented a rise against the usual seasonal trend. Ordinarily, the Department of Commerce stated, the value of exports falls off about 8 per cent in December and imports decline around 1 per cent.

For the month of December, it was reported, merchandise exports totaled 192 million dollars, against $131,614,000 in the same 1932 month and imports amounted to 133 millions compared with $97,087,000. It was pointed out, however, the gain in import values resulted almost exclusively from heavy receipts of spirits and wines.

While the foreign trade pickup has not yet attained the proportions of the domestic recovery, various industrial commentators express the belief that steady improvement may be expected over the next several months, barring political and economic disturbances in Europe.

Recent activity in secondary rail stocks and bonds has drawn the attention of banking circles to the fact that carrier maturities in the current year will total more than 450 million dollars. It was recalled, however, that a large part of this sum is owed by roads already in receivership and will involve no additional difficulties. It is also understood the government will aid several of the companies in meeting payments.

Wall street was cheered by the reception given the Treasury's new billion dollar loan. With an aggregate of $4,770,000,000 subscribed for the 2½ per cent notes and 1½ per cent certificates, financial quarters anticipated little trouble for the administration in its forthcoming borrowing operations involving some nine billion dollars.

WHEAT SCORES PRICE GAINS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26. — Wheat scored price upturns early today after a wavering start. Liverpool reported no pressure to sell despite enlarged shipments from the southern hemisphere.

Opening unchanged to ⅜ lower, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started at ⅛ off to ⅛ up, and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Only a light trade developed in wheat, and advances were fractional. Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat. Buenos Aires cabled that remaining supplies of Argentine corn were larger than a year ago but the quality inferior.

Provisions were responsive to a sharp upturn of hog values.

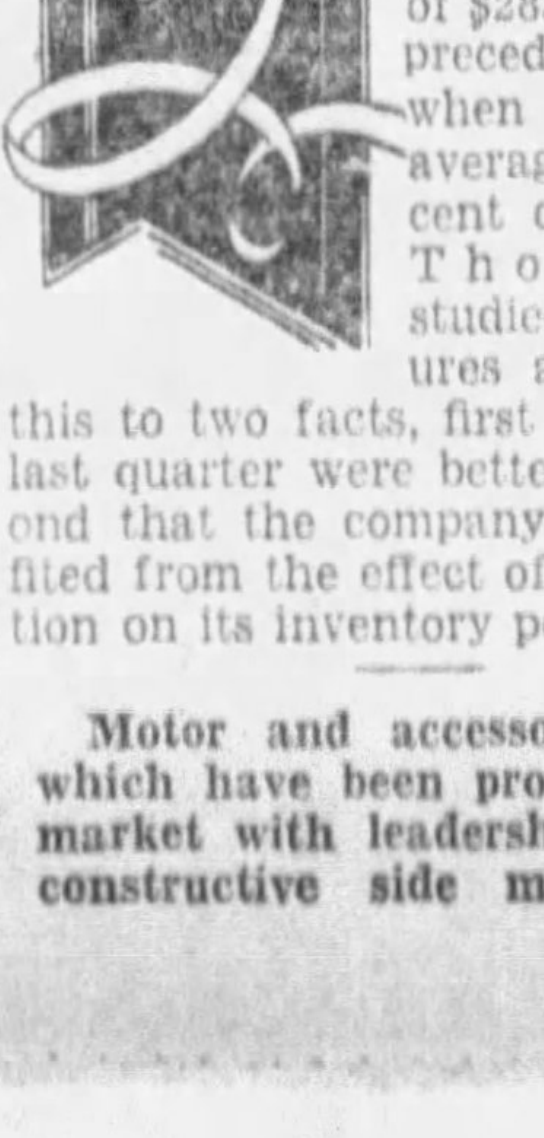
Wall Street Financial Topics



Operating in the "black" for the first time in any quarter since the June, 1931, period, Bethlehem Steel's statement for the December quarter was interesting. The profit was not large, but it was realized from operations at the average rate of 26 per cent of theoretical capacity, whereas the company sustained a net loss of $283,097 in the preceding quarter when operations averaged 40.8 per cent of capacity. Those who studied the figures attributed this to two facts, first that prices last quarter were better, and second that the company had benefited from the effect of this situation on its inventory position.

Motor and accessory stocks, which have been providing the market with leadership on the constructive side moved into new high ground in early trading. Included in stocks bettering their previous tops were Borg-Warner, Nash Motors, Briggs Manufacturing, Hudson Motors, Motor Wheel, Eaton Manufacturing, Houdaille Hershey, Moto Meter, Electric Auto-Lite and Evans Loading.

One of the mysteries of the "Street" is what became of the 165,000 shares of Loew's, Inc., stock sold by the Chase Bank in the recent large turnover. Interests close to the company and those well-informed on "Street" affairs claim that the public absorbed it. This seems highly unlikely in view of the way the stock was absorbed at rising prices. It appears probable that important new interests have taken a position in Loew's.

Continued buying of department store stocks has carried them close to the best levels of the year, Macy selling at 60, Best above 30 and Associated Dry Goods around 15. With overhead expenses down and a slightly better volume of sales, the large stores are expected to be in the "black" in the first half of 1934 and any continued improvement in business would bring earnings up to the best level of the last several years.

Allied Chemical sold at a new high for 1933-34 today. The company's report for last year's operations is, of course, a matter of conjecture, since the company pursues a policy of not giving any information during the year. Incidentally, the proxy fight of last year may possibly be revived at the forthcoming annual meeting this spring.

The upward trend in trade volume and broadening activity in industry were resumed during the past week following some hesitancy around the middle of the month, Dun & Bradstreet reported in their weekly trade review today. "Virtually all of the reports received this week, regardless of the section of the country," asserted the review, "emphasized the strength which the upward trend now has attained. With the continued release of governmental funds collections have benefited, and many accounts are beginning to get straightened out for the first time in years."

PAPER BOX TRADE

Some of the large manufacturers of paper box were able to show a profit in the last half of 1933 for the first time in three years, due not only to the increased sales, but to the greater firmness of the price structure, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

COMMODITY EXCHANGE

LOCAL STOCKS IN NARROW RANGE

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange maintained a steady tone today with the price fluctuations holding to a narrow range, but with volume of business running about equal to the previous session. On the "big board" the market got away to a good start, but ran into a little profit-taking around mid-day.

The heavy industrials on the local exchange continued quiet following their impressive demonstrations last week and the week before. Only a few scattered trades were recorded in the recently active favorites and these were at figures showing only nominal variations from the last previous quotations. Pittsburgh Brewing preferred developed marked strength during the early afternoon. The fuel division was very quiet. Lone Star Gas and Western Public Service were substantially unchanged. Arkansas Gas prefered, which had not appeared in the official sales list for several days, was handled today at $3 a share, a gain of a full point over the figure at which it last changed hands, more than a week ago.

COTTON DROPS ON SELLING

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to 4 higher with higher Liverpool cables and offset by lower foreign exchange and liquidation. March, 11.14; May, 11.29; July, 11.43; October, 11.55; December, 11.66.

There was a moderate volume of business at the start. May contracts after selling up to 11.30 on the initial demand reacted to 11.24 and trading became quiet with orders fairly well divided around yesterday's close. At the end of the first half hour the market was about net unchanged to 1 point lower.

The early decline extended to 11.19 for May contracts with active months generally showing net losses of about 3 to 7 points.

At midday prices were holding steady at 11.27 for May with the general list about net unchanged to 2 points higher.

DOLLAR HITS NEW '34 HIGH

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The American dollar stepped up to its levels for the year today in foreign exchange dealings despite reports from abroad of large purchases of gold by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The British pound sterling fell 2½ cents to $4.93¾ in early transtions while the French franc declined .014½ of a cent to 6.17½ cents. The dollar closed in London at $4.95⅝, up ⅝ of a cent while in Paris the American unit gained 4 centimes at an equivalent of 6.16 cents to the franc. The pound reached the lowest level since November.

Foreign exchange dealers abroad reported that the refusal of the dollar to sag in the face of heavy gold purchases by the United States probably was due to repatriation of American capital.

At today's franc rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 63.47 per cent of parity.

'Picking Up' Reports in All Lines

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

NEWS-GATHERING for this column has garnered these encouraging items:

The best hotels in Miami are crowded, some of them turning customers away.

Demand for some makes of new automobiles is such that buyers have to wait two months for delivery.

Better-class New York hotels that had whole floors closed are beginning to reopen them.

Various southern cities are busier than at any time in the last three years.

Oil company profits have improved pronouncedly. Some companies will resume or increase dividends; others will husband profits to meet maturities rather than face the colossal labor involved in furnishing all data called for by the securities act.

Latest rumors from Washington are that President Roosevelt is willing to consider modifications calculated to make capital-raising by large, old-established corporations more feasible. Many improvements, extensions and equipment replacements are being indefinitely postponed to avoid necessity for new financing. Acceptable amendments to the securities act would encourage expenditures and employment on so-called "capital goods."

Steel men like the way their code is working out. Steel workers also are faring better. In June they got $24,434,000 for producing 1,870,000 tons; in November, $24,838,000 for producing 1,110,000 tons, a jump from $13 to $22 a ton.

CAN ANYTHING be done on behalf of individuals and families of modest means whose savings have been gravely jeopardized by failure of municipalities to meet their bond obligations? One reader writes:

"I am wondering if you would not align yourself on the side of those millions of middle-class people who have put their all into municipal bonds, believing them to be a unit of our government and, next to federal bonds, the safest investment for their savings.

"The government is helping the farmer and the business man and almost everybody else. Municipal credit will be ruined forever if cities are allowed to go bankrupt. The federal government should supervise the refinancing of cities. It is loaning money to other corporations—it could loan money to cities.

Certainly conservative savers who invested in municipal bonds—as well as those who bought "guaranteed mortgage certificates"—are entitled to more consideration than speculators who took "fliers" in the stock market during the wild boom.

Dividend News

Bethlehem Steel Has Profit For Quarter

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

THE EXTENT OF improvement in conditions in the steel industry during the past year is demonstrated strikingly by the report of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, first of the leading organizations in the industry to publish earnings for the final three months of 1933 and for the full year.

Bethlehem showed a net profit of $629,671 for the three months ended December 31. This was after deducting all charges including taxes, interest, depreciation and depletion. It was equal to 67 cents a share on 933,887 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock.

It was the first quarterly profit reported since the three months ended June 30, 1931. It compared with a net loss of $283,097 in the quarter ended September 30, 1933, and a net loss of $5,621,672 in the final quarter of 1932.

Improvement Shown In Spite of Decline

THIS IMPROVEMENT was shown in spite of the fact that the general trend of demand for steel in the final quarter of the year was downward with the exception of the latter part of December. The gain in net profit reflected better prices for steel which were made possible under the industry's NRA code. In the case of Bethlehem, price control appears to have more than compensated for increased labor cost.

The preliminary report for the full year of 1933 showed a net loss of $8,735,729 after deducting all charges. This compared with a loss of $19,404,431 in 1932.

The radically changed condition of the industry was indicated by the fact that unfilled orders on December 31 amounted to $67,684,749. This was more than twice the unfilled orders at the end of the previous year, which amounted to $30,668,937. As is usual at the end of the year, unfilled orders were slightly less than at the close of the third quarter, when they stood at $72,155,458.

Export Sales Start to Gain

EUGENE G. GRACE, president of Bethlehem, said the cleaning up of contracts at the year end resulted in favorable adjustments which helped the company's showing. He declared:

"Our export business has been gradually picking up in the last year. We did about 25 per cent more export business in 1933 than in 1932."

Rail business has been very disappointing, Grace asserted. Some orders have developed, but the total is not up to the tonnage expected.

Treasury Issue Oversubscribed Five Times

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today the government's billion-dollar security issue was oversubscribed almost five times.

The offering of $500,000,000 of Treasury notes paying 2½ per cent, attracted subscriptions of more than $3,415,000,000. The $500,000,000 of 1½ per cent certificates received offers of $1,355,000,000.

The two issues, representing the government's start on a $10,000,000,000 borrowing program, drew subscriptions of more than $4,770,000,000 or nearly half the entire amount to be borrowed between now and June 30, Morgenthau said.

COAST BANKER URGES THRIFT

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Picturing it as a threat not only to the banking industry but to democracy itself, Dr. A. H. Giannini, Los Angeles banker, warned tonight of a new economic theory that calls for spending instead of saving.

Dr. Giannini, chairman of the general executive committee of The Bank of America, Los Angeles, declared this new theory, based on a belief that the nation has passed from the "economy of want" to an "economy of plenty," is being espoused by economists at Washington and elsewhere.

Addressing the Eastern Savings conference of the American Bankers' Association, Dr. Giannini said the profession had little to fear from currency revaluation or government regulation. He said:

"The real menace to our future does not come from the currency innovators. It is not to be found in our banking methods or our professional scandals. What we bankers face today is an attack upon the economic fundamentals which make possible our activities and our services, such as they may be. Mistake not, there is a plausible, a determined, in many respects, a reasoned effort to undermine human thrift itself."

He called on the bankers to prove to the public that private thrift is not outmoded. He suggested that the abolition of private thrift might lead to a revolution, such as that which shook Moscow in 1917.

LESS RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve bank credit outstanding during the week ended January 24 was $2,648,000,000, the Federal Reserve board reported representing a decrease of $10,000,000 for the week, but an increase of $563,000,000 over the same week last year.

On January 24 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,631,000,000, a decrease of $15,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponded with decreases of $62,000,000 in money in circulation and $7,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc., and an increase of $8,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by an increase of $63,000,000 in member bank reserve balances.

Bills discounted declined $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve bank at Boston and $4,000,000 at all Federal Reserve banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market decreased $8,000,000 while holdings of the various classes of United States government securities were practically unchanged.

BROKERS LOANS UP $21,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City increased $21,000,000 during the week ended January 24 to $779,000,000 from $758,000,000 in the week preceding. The record high was $6,804,000,000 recorded on October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,0000 was made July 27, 1932.

General Motors Adds Sprague To Staff

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, who recently figured prominently in the Washington money controversy, resigning as a special assistant to the Secretary of Treasury, has been retained by the General Motors Corporation as an adviser on foreign economics and exchange matters. Confirmation of Mr. Sprague's appointment was obtained from James P. Mooney, in charge of all the overseas activities and interests of the General Motors Corporation.

STOCK MARKET BUYING HALTS REACTION

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—When, last Sunday, I wrote my article for Monday, I advised caution in buying stock, saying that some reaction seemed near. There was a slight reaction Monday, and stocks did little Tuesday. But Wednesday brought some renewed strength.

The public appears to have been coming in, to an appreciable extent, and some foreign speculation for the rise has apparently been going on. Thus underlying buying interest has prevented much reaction, and accordingly selling has dried up on declines.

It is notable that the majority of traders have been, and still are, looking for that reaction. This always makes the experienced observer doubt that much, if any, setback will occur. Reactions generally come when the average man does not expect them.

While traders are cautious, the market does not get over-bought. The bigger operators find few people to sell to except themselves, and so they do not crack the market.

Figuring it this way, we may guess that if Tuesday and Wednesday caused enough of the public to abandon caution and come in, we may now get the reaction—say about four points in composite averages. But if not, we are likely to see merely a few days of irregularity and then another zoom.

I think we must figure that the market is trying to go up, and that (barring "bad news") there will not be much reaction until the technical position becomes weak.

'BROAD' MARKET

The immediate characteristics of the market action are that it is very "broad" (large number of issues traded each day), and that only a small percentage of the total trading is in the few most active stocks. But both the majority of issues traded and the few most active ones have shown pretty steady advances. The total volume has been relatively large.

On the other hand, the averages have made little progress in the last five days, and some symptoms of increasing volume on declines have appeared at times.

We also see signs of shifting activity from one group to another.

On the whole, this description suggests some turn. Ordinarily that would mean a "reaction." But if the market turns dull now and merely fiddles around for awhile, the action would suggest another push-up.

DEPENDS ON PUBLIC

Of course, this depends largely on whether "the public" comes in.

John Public is inclined to feel that he should be able to buy a little cheaper. Sometimes he reflects that stocks selling for 20 or 30 times earnings are high. But mostly he is not thinking about earnings at all. He has become "money conscious," and thinks more about moves based on inflation than about dividend income. When the pound sterling and commodities are down stocks don't do much.

So I think we will have to get our clues to market trend chiefly from the action of the market itself.

Either that spurt a week ago Monday was a 1929 sort of symptom, or it was real. We can tell soon by the nature of the reaction here. Perhaps when the pending money bill is passed, we can tell. If stocks then zoom, the big rise may be on. If they run into trouble, a considerable conjection should come.

TECHNICAL REACTION

Meanwhile, it seems wise to assume the possibility of a technical reaction, and to take at least part of trading profits. Long pull positions, however, need not be disturbed, especially in sound stocks which have not been bulled much of late. If a sharp reaction develops, buy then. If dull irregularity appears, positions may be reinstated in a day or two.

At the moment, oils, construction materials and mail order issues seem favored, and any automobile accessories which are used by all manufacturers.

Foreign Trade Trend Pointing Upward

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Another large export gain in December was shown by Department of Commerce figures today to have given the United States a favorable trade balance of $59,000,000 in that month and a favorable balance for the year 1933 of $226,000,000.

Both exports and imports increased in value during December. Exports amounted to $192,000,000 compared with $184,000,000 in November, while December imports totaled $133,000,000 compared with $128,000,000 in November.

Exports in 1933 were valued at $1,675,000,000 compared with $1,611,000,000 in 1932. Export prices averaged slightly higher than in 1932 and the volume of shipments also was slightly larger.

Imports in 1933 were valued at $1,449,000,000 compared with $1,322,000,000 in 1932, a gain of 9.6 per cent. Import prices averaged approximately the same as in 1932, while the quantity of goods received from abroad increased about 10 per cent.

YEAR'S BALANCE LESS

Despite the increase in 1933 exports over 1932, the 1933 favorable trade balance was smaller than in 1932 owing to the large increase in imports. The bureau said:

"Comparisons of the annual trade totals in 1933 and 1932 fail, however, to reveal the significant changes which took place during the year.

"In the first six months of 1933 the value of exports was 20.3 per cent smaller than in the corresponding period of 1932, and the decline in imports between these two periods was 20.7 per cent.

"The situation was completely reversed in the second half of 1933.

"This expansion of trade from the extremely low level prevailing in the first quarter of 1933 was influenced by the rising level of business activity and by the depreciation in dollar exchange."

LIQUOR BOOSTS IMPORTS

The December favorable trade balance of $59,000,000 was about $3,000,000 over the November favorable balance. It would have been much larger had it not been for the unusual increase in imports of wines and spirits, which gained about $10,000,000.

Gold exports exceeded imports by $9,128,000 during the month. Exports of gold last month were $10,815,000, against $2,957,000 the preceding month and against $13,000 the same month last year.

Imports of gold last month were $1,687,000, against $1,894,000 the preceding month and $100,872,000 the same month a year ago.

Exports of gold in 1933 totaled $366,652,000, against imports of $192,917,000, compared with exports of $809,528,000 and imports of $363,315,000 in 1932.

SILVER INTAKE GAINS

Silver imports exceeded exports by $4,387,000 during the month. Silver exports last month were $590,000 against $464,000 in November and against $1,260,000 the same month last year.

Silver imports last month were $4,977,000 against $4,080,000 in the preceding month and $1,203,000 the same month last year.

Exports of silver so far this year totaled $19,041,000 against imports of $60,222,000 compared with exports of $13,850,000 and imports of $19,650,000 in 1932.

Increases over November of 4 per cent in the value of exports and of 4 per cent in the value of imports were contrary to the usual seasonal trend.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS

FOURTH DEGREE

By K. S. DAIGER

CHAPTER XX

Mrs. Phelps nonchalantly lounged over to the library table and removed a cigaret from a jeweled box.

''Won't you and these gentlemen have one?'' she invited in her best society manner. ''Please let me urge you! If you smoke, perhaps you will not be quite so disagreeable.''

To my utter amazement, Anderson said ''thank you'' quite civilly and accepted one. Mrs. Phelps then offered the box to Carroll and to me and extended an electric lighter attached to a floor plug.

Synopsis

Sonia (Sunny) Paige, wife of socially prominent Randolph (Ranny) Paige, is found hanging by a silk dress cord from the chandelier in her boudoir. An autopsy reveals that Sunny had been suffocated first with the tassel of the cord and then hung. Mrs. Deane, the housekeeper, says the night of the tragedy was her night off and that Mrs. Phelps, a neighbor, was to spend the evening with Sunny. Inspector Anderson is furious when Ranny employs Kirk Judson, a shady private detective, to investigate the tragedy. Anderson and Judson decide to forget their antagonism and work together. Anderson questions Mrs. Phelps. A face peers in the window. Anderson thinks Mrs. Phelps tampered with Sunny's desk when the police sought the intruder. Robert Cleveland, prominent attorney and friend of Paige, seems anxious to help the young man. Mrs. Phelps denies that she tampered with the desk.

Now Go On

In one second, the entire scene had changed from open warfare to a fair imitation of a social call.

Anderson puffed at the cigaret for a moment in silence. He seemed to be making great efforts to overcome his anger and to get himself under control again. He obviously succeeded, for a moment later he said quite gently:

"If you really did not open the desk, Mrs. Phelps, then I certainly owe you an apology both for my tone and for our intrusion here. I wonder if you will be kind enough to let me have a few lines of your handwriting? Anything will do. It is customary in cases of this kind, and I am merely requesting it as a formality."

Takes Cigaret

The woman looked at him in amazement. Obviously she was wondering if Anderson had gone quite cuckoo, and something of the same kind was passing through my own mind. What on earth had the Inspector up his sleeve now?

Mrs. Phelps, however, rose promptly, laid her cigaret on a smoking-stand and swept over to a desk. Here she was clearly on safe ground and was anxious to comply with so innocent an order.

Carroll rose and placed a chair for her, but no sooner had she seated herself and turned her back to us than Anderson, scarcely changing his position, reached across to the smoking-stand and deftly substituted his own cigaret for that of Mrs. Phelps! In one brief second he had extinguished it and dropped it into his coat pocket.

When Mrs. Phelps turned around, the inspector had already obtained another one from the box and was busy again with the electric lighter. The lady had noticed nothing.

"I have just written my name and address," she said, holding up a sheet of note paper. "Will that be enough?"

"Oh, plenty, plenty," answered Anderson affably.

At this moment, the little maid appeared again in the doorway. Plainly she remembered Anderson's injunction that her mistress should not be interrupted and she was scared to death.

Call From Attorney

But as she hesitated, fearful to speak, Anderson asked:

"Yes. What is it?"

"It's a phone call," she began hesitatingly. "Please, sir, I do not know what to do. It is so very important."

Again to my surprise, Anderson said pleasantly:

"Then give it to Mrs. Phelps by all means. I do not wish her to leave the room just now but certainly you are to deliver any message that is really important."

"It's Mr. Robert Cleveland, ma'am," said the servant. "I told him that you were engaged but he says nothing must prevent him from speaking to you at once—that I must get you to the phone at any cost—"

Mrs. Phelps turned deathly white in spite of her rouge and makeup.

"Your lawyer, madam," said Anderson sauvely. "What could be more natural than a call from him under the circumstances? But," turning to the maid, "will you please tell Mr. Cleveland that Inspector Anderson is talking to Mrs. Phelps and that she will call him back as soon as she is disengaged? And then you will come back here? I should like to ask you a few questions."

Mrs. Phelps was silent and bit her lips with annoyance, but Anderson's face was wreathed in a wide smile. Round One of the battle was certainly his! I could see that Mrs. Phelps was now visibly frightened.

Maid Questioned

In a minute the maid returned, ill at ease and glancing from each of us in almost terror.

"Sit down, won't you?" invited Anderson, motioning her to a chair. "There's nothing to be afraid of, my child. I simply want you to verify a few things your mistress has said. Tell us your name, first of all."

"My name's Tilly, sir," she answered, nervously twisting her handkerchief. "Tilly Mills. I do hope, sir, as you don't think I had anything to do with this awful murder?"

"Certainly not," said Anderson with a smile. "I know you didn't, Tilly. I just want you to answer one or two very simple questions. You knew Mrs. Paige, of course?"

"Yes, sir," said Tilly with a certain humble reverence. "And a very beautiful young lady she was, sir."

"When did you last see her—alive, I mean?"

"On the afternoon before she was killed, sir. Mrs. Phelps sent me over with some hot rolls for her dinner and with a message."

"What was the message?"

"To say that she would be sure to run over directly supper was finished and spend the evening with her."

"Did you see Mrs. Paige?"

"Yes, sir. Mrs. Deane let me in and I ran upstairs to Miss Sunny's room. She was lying on the lounge in that little sitting room. She smiled at me and I told here about the rolls and what Mrs. Phelps said."

"And I suppose that your mistress did go over to the Paige house that night, didn't she?" continued Anderson smoothly.

"Oh, yes, sir. She certainly did that. I was here and I remember it was just striking eight when the machine came up the drive—"

"What machine?" asked Anderson, and his words were like the snap of a whip.

"Mr. Cleveland's car, sir," answered the maid. "He rang the bell and I let him in and then in just a minute or two he and Mrs. Phelps left the house telling me that they were going over to Miss Sunny's."

Mrs. Phelps Warned

Our eyes were all focused on Mrs. Phelps. She sat there in stony silence, her head held high, her white face averted.

"That's all," said Anderson, and the maid departed.

"Well?" asked Anderson.

The lady faced him furiously.

"I suppose you think you are funny," she began furiously, but the Inspector cut her short.

"Madam," he said, "I think this matter is anything but funny. It is clear to me, for some reason which I do not at present understand, that both you and Mr. Robert Cleveland are trying to suppress valuable information. You assured me that you spent the evening alone with Mrs. Paige. Now I learn that Mr. Cleveland was with you. Mr. Cleveland informed me only this morning that he scarcely knew you and had met you only once; yet I also learn that you spent an hour with him this very morning. Again I must ask you—will you talk here or at the police station?"

Mrs. Phelps was now really alarmed.

"I should like first to talk to my counsel," she said. "I believe that I have that privilege, haven't I?"

"Certainly," replied Anderson. "I consider that an excellent suggestion. I am convinced that a little reflection will show both you and Mr. Cleveland the folly of the course you are taking. I want you both to meet me in the library of Mrs. Paige's house this afternoon at 5 o'clock. There you will either answer my questions truthfully or I shall be obliged to place you under arrest as a material witness, much as I should dislike to take such an action. We will now wish you good-day!"

Comparison Made

The police car was still waiting.

"Not too fast, Dennis," said the Inspector to the chauffeur. "Back to the Paige house but take it easy. I want to talk to these gentlemen a minute."

And he took from his coat pocket the cigaret which he had so skillfully purloined from Mrs. Phelps.

Then from his vest pocket he removed a leather wallet and from the wallet a piece of tissue paper. This, in turn, he unfolded and showed us one of the cigaret butts, with its crimson stain of lip-stick which we had found in the Paige cellar.

He laid the two butts side by side on his palm.

Both appeared of the same texture and both were wrapped in the same unusual paper.

And upon them both appeared a faint but unmistakable smear of lip-stick of a peculiar color—neither crimson nor yet orange but a mixture of both!

"Both Russian," said Carroll, bending over and sniffing.

I caught my breath sharply.

The significance of the discovery bewildered me.

"Does this mean that Mrs. Phelps really did kill Sonia Paige?" asked Dickey Carroll in a whisper.

Anderson shook his head slowly.

"I don't know, my boy," he answered. "I would certainly wish I did! But, unless I am very much mistaken, it does mean that Mrs. Phelps and Robert Cleveland were hiding in the basement of Mrs. Paige's home the night she was murdered."

HENRY CLAY PLEADS FOR HIS COMPROMISE PLAN (FEBRUARY, 1850)

The 1848-1849 gold rush populated California in a year with 90,000 people. Desire for admission to the Union as a state brought up the evaded slave question. Chase, Hale, Sumner, anti-slavery leaders, debated Clay, Calhoun, Webster, the compromisers. All anxious to save the Union, they compromised finally in the Omnibus Bill (1850). By it California was admitted as free, Texas (reduced in size) as a slave state; the other Mexican cessions were left to "squatter" or popular principle of sovereignty. Fugitive-slave laws were strengthened, slave trade in District of Columbia forbidden. The Nashville convention of the same year extended the dividing line 36° 30' N. L. between slavery and free territory (Missouri Compromise) to the Pacific.

THE SPANISH ARMADA SURRENDERING TO SIR FRANCIS DRAKE (1588)

Under the child King Edward VI (1547-1553), son of Henry VIII, Protestantism was favored in England. His half-sister Mary, succeeding to the throne (1553-1558), was an ardent Catholic and married Philip II of Spain of the same faith. Mary, dying childless, the crown passed to her half-sister Elizabeth (1558-1603), an Anglican. The religious differences, the piracy of English seamen, English help to the Netherlands revolting against Spanish rule, prompted Philip II to send his "Invincible Spanish Armada" against England. With the defeat of the Armada, Spain lost supremacy of the sea and also her fight against Anglicanism. (World History)

After a Painting by H. Cabasson

Reformation brought civil war in France also. It was most severe in the second half of the sixteenth century. Catholics received help from Philip II of Spain, the Huguenots from Queen Elizabeth of England. After the assassination of Henry III, Henry of Navarre, a Huguenot, became French King (1589-1610). He embraced Catholicism, but granted a certain measure of religious freedom to the Huguenots by the Edict of Nantes (1598), thus allaying religious prosecutions. (World History)

POTATO CELLS, RAW AND COOKED

Cooking renders food more digestible, masticable, tasty; destroys micro-organisms. Influence of heat: Proteins coagulate, becoming firmer; sugar melts first, then becomes brown (caramel); fats liquefy; starch granules expand, burst. (Gen. Sc.)

RADIO RECEIVING SET WITH REGENERATION, AMPLIFICATION, LOUDSPEAKER

Electromagnetic (radio) waves induce electrical oscillations in antenna, transmitted by a transformer to the secondary circuit, which is "tuned" to desired wave length by variable condenser.

The secondary circuit is connected through a condenser with the grid of first thermionic tube which becomes alternately + or —, admitting or repulsing electrons shooting from heated filament to plate. Accordingly, current flows or stops in plate circuit which, led through a "tickler" coil, will boost grid, also plate-current (regeneration). Connecting the plate circuit through a transformer with the grid and filament of a second thermionic tube, the plate current of the second will be an amplification of that of the first. Both high frequency (radio) and low frequency (audio, sound producing) oscillations can be amplified.

In a loudspeaker the plate current energizes electromagnet which vibrates a moving coil connected to a paper cone, producing sound. (Commun.)

FACES—MIRRORS OF SOUL

Behind a radiating face is a smiling soul. "The face is a squealer," said the ancient Orientals. Emotions, activating nerves, muscles, leave their traces on the face, conveying pleasant or unpleasant impressions. It is not enough to force a smile on your face to attract others, you must also smile "inside:" Be sympathetic, benevolent to others, take interest in their happiness; you will be happy too and win affection. A Happy Little Canary Bird

Grand opera has returned with prosperity. The musical minded public is back in the melodious garage.

The volcanic crooners are roaring with the gravel-throated tenors and the ear-racking sopranos.

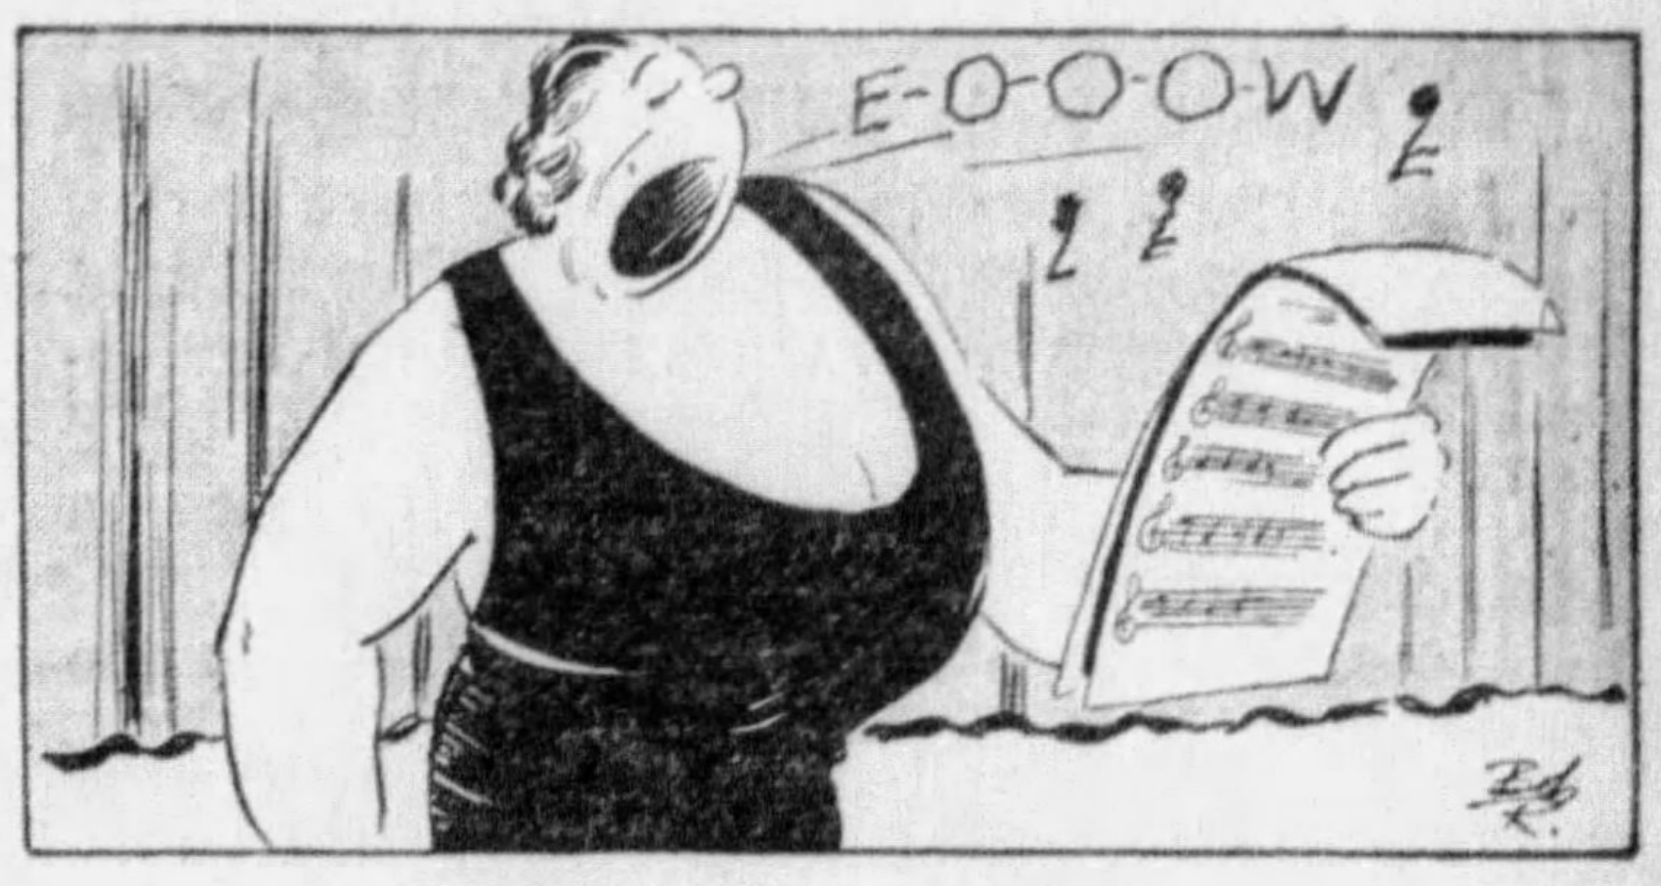
There is only one voice we ever liked in grand opera and that's a contralto. It has three fine qualities. It is low, delightful and low.

A contralto never sings a happy song. She is a lady who suffers in her idea of silence. She usually weighs 300 pounds, net, subject to evaporation in transit and an extra charge for demurrage.

She walks out upon the stage with all the dignity of a pair of stuffed hosses, tandem. And the muscles of her brawny arms are strong as iron bands. She stops dead center, looks at the orchestra, gazes into the first floor audience at her friends and up into the gallery for her husband.

The contralto always grasps a sheet of music in her hands which she moves from side to side like a workman signaling that the road is under repairs.

She takes a deep breath and swells up like a mad adder. When her pressure is 60 pounds to the square inch she opens her mouth. The orchestra breaks loose on its loose brakes. So she closes her mouth again.



She stands there in disrespectful silence until the orchestra tunes down. Then she opens her pan and out flutters a subterranean note that sounds like the love call of a mine mule.

All the sorrow, all the agony and all the misery of the ages are contained in that growl from the Muses. But we like it because it makes the merry villagers sob. When she sings you know there is no hope. At the finish there is a catch in her voice but she had to cover right, center and left fields to make it.

Finally, she breaks down. Tears cascade down her face and are trapped by the wrinkles in her chin. Her shoulders rise and fall with the tides of melancholy. She puts her hand to her ear and listens. A captive prince answers her offstage. He is incarcerated in the royal suite of a duplex dog house.

That's the theme and the motif of the opera. Tickets on sale at all newsstands.

GROSS ABUSES OF CIVIL JUSTICE

JUSTICE, and courts of justice, are of two kinds—criminal and civil—and BOTH KINDS have failed utterly in the states of America.

The failure of criminal justice has become appalling.

It has corrupted our local politics, impaired the public confidence in local government, subjected the courts and prosecutors to suspicion and contumely, and—as the country has lately seen—it has brought forth an ominous recurrence of lynch law in widely separated parts of the nation.

Here obviously is a demoralized and demoralizing condition with which the negligent legislatures of the states must be made to deal—and if the legislatures do not deal with it forcefully and drastically, then the people will have to deal forcefully and drastically with their legislatures.

However, the breakdown in criminal law enforcement is actually LESS THAN HALF THE STORY of the complete failure of justice in America.

Reform will be FUTILE if it looks to the criminal courts alone.

DENIALS and abuses and betrayals of justice in our CIVIL COURTS are no whit less flagrant, and are HUNDREDS OF TIMES more frequent, than in the criminal courts.

Furthermore, they are socially and economically MORE COSTLY, and have been the cause of MORE HUMAN MISERY than all the gross miscarriages of criminal justice put together.

This presentment comes not from aggrieved laymen, nor from uninformed radicals, but from RESPECTABLE AND RESPECTED LAWYERS who can no longer stomach the grevious evils against which they protest.

Under the leadership of Henry Ward Beers as president, and of Prof. I. Maurice Wormser as chairman of a committee on the law's delays the Federal Bar Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut has made an exhaustive study of the civil courts in several counties of New York.

FOLLOWING are a few of the startling facts ascertained:

1—In all the five counties of New York City, as well as in Nassau and Westchester counties, it takes from THREE TO FIVE YEARS for a citizen to have his case tried before a jury—a right guaranteed by the Constitution.

2—Jury calendars in three of those counties are continuing to fall behind "at the rate of no less than NINE MONTHS A YEAR."

3—In Brooklyn alone (Kings County) conditions in the city court are "so terrible" that 22,000 CASES remain untried today—and "the number of people demanding their day in court steadily and rapidly increases WITH NO HOPE FOR RELIEF."

"If the court," says the report, "does not receive ANOTHER CASE, it will take OVER FOUR YEARS to clean up its calendar."

4—The City Court of Manhattan is "9,000 CASES BEHIND," the Supreme Court in New York County is "14,000 CASES LATE TO DATE," and Westchester County is "FOUR YEARS LATE."

"It is no exaggeration to say," declared Mr. Beers, "that MORE THAN 500,000 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN are now the innocent victims of the state's neglect. Their numbers CONTINUE TO MULTIPLY each day."

THINK of it, citizens of America! In just one state, and in ONLY A PORTION of that state, MORE THAN HALF A MILLION PERSONS wait for justice—and wait in vain.

And consider, moreover, that this vast army of sufferers are, many of them, HELPLESS PHYSICALLY as well as financially and legally. Again we quote Mr. Beers:

"If the public could be made to realize that THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE, with legs and arms off, blind and with other deformities, who are in many instances the breadwinners of their large families, are waiting for the trial of their lawsuits due to accidents, they would be DETERMINED TO DO SOMETHING about this situation which is . . . existing in our midst WITH NOTHING DONE ABOUT IT."

Well, what is the public going to do about this inhumane condition—not only in New York, but in every state where rotten politics and legal chicane and official incompetency have made a bitter mockery of the word "justice?"

FOR fifty years, while the condition has been developing, THE BAR ASSOCIATIONS have done nothing. Instead, they have permitted if not encouraged the scandalous condition to grow.

For fifty years, THE LEGISLATURES have done virtually nothing—except to make bad conditions WORSE by enacting court rules and special statutes which hamper the administration of justice and FAVOR THE SHYSTER AND PETTIFOGGING LAWYER of which the legistures are very largely composed.

Consequently, THE PUBLIC will have to take vigorous action—if ANYTHING REALLY EFFECTIVE is to be done at all.

Legislatures are the SERVANTS, not the MASTERS, of the public—and an aroused public can do one of two things—

Either they can COMPEL their legislators to act, or they can ELECT new legislators who will act.

LET one or the other of these things promptly be done!

Let outraged public opinion assert itself in practical politics throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Let it DEMAND that the SOURCES of these great and growing evils and injustices which disgrace our land be abolished, so that CRIMINALS may be punished as they deserve and WIDOWS AND ORPHANS, not criminals, may be PROTECTED, as they should be in any civilized government.

LET US HAVE AN AMERICAN JUSTICE CAMPAIGN—a campaign for JUSTICE and HONESTY.

The Leaven Is Working

State Treasurer Waters Gives an Impressive Argument for the Abandonment of Oxcart Government.

Wider and wider, throughout the state, are spreading the ripples which have resulted from the demand that we shall get rid of the archaic forms of local government that have come down to us from the days of the oxcart.

State Treasurer Charles A. Waters made an impressive address in furtherance of this demand before the Cumberland County Taxpayers' Federation Wednesday night.

He pointed out that we have 5,637 local government taxing units in Pennsylvania. Many of them are useless and should be abolished. Mr. Waters boldly advised the abolition of 1,515 second-class townships. There is no longer need for that form of local government. He asserted that by scientifically reorganizing the governmental structure to conform to modern conditions we could lop ten million dollars a year from Pennsylvania's real estate tax burden without curtailing a single useful function.

Let others to whom we look for leadership in such matters cast aside selfish and prejudiced considerations and join Secretary Waters in this demand, and it will not be long until the Legislature will be forced to act and to give the people the more efficient and more economical government for which they are calling.

An Outside Viewpoint

There is sometimes danger that those who are close to an object or an event will not have the proper perspective, and so may get a distorted view of it.

In forming an estimate of Mayor W. N. McNair's official actions there is the possibility, too, that Pittsburghers may be influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the fact that they have personal axes to grind.

We find some interesting comment on Mayor McNair in Wednesday's issue of the Oil City Blizzard. The editor of that paper regrets that "instead of cashing in on the opportunity giving him to govern better, his (McNair's) attention has been directed to apparently trivial things on which he has taken rather ridiculous attitudes." The editor goes on to say:

"His latest blast is against the cheap whisky now being sold in the state liquor stores, and a threat—later modified—to raid the stores. That matter is not within the province of the Mayor. There are more pressing matters to which he could give his attention. Such actions merely put weapons in the hands of the machine to attack him and furnish means to rebuke those who fought for good government."

It is sometimes salutary to see ourselves as others see us.

Subsistence Homesteads

The Question Arises Why Many Abandoned Pennsylvania Farms Could Not Again Be Put to Use

M. L. Wilson, director of homesteads in the Department of the Interior, has announced the purchase of 1,600 acres of land near Mount Pleasant, in Westmoreland County, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Morgantown, W. Va. Two hundred and fifty families are to be taken from the stranded industrial population and established on the land in "subsistence homesteads."

This news item raises anew the question why Pennsylvania's abandoned farms should not again be put to use quite generally.

Throughout Western Pennsylvania there are numerous extensive tracts of arable land which for years have lain fallow. In the last century large families were raised and clothed and educated solely on the proceeds from these farms. The children grew up, yielded to the lure of the towns, the old folks died, and the farms were abandoned.

But that census also showed that Pennsylvania farms were producing 19 per cent more to the acre than 30 years before, which suggests that the abandoned farms might be made to yield, under improved modern methods of agriculture, a better living than they did in the last century.

Good roads, automobiles, telephones, rural mail delivery, radios and improved schools make country life more attractive, too, than when the young men and women of a generation or two ago left the farms to come to the city.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Mae West's nearest double is Blossom Seeley. Helen Menken suggests a green-shuttered white villa set in cypresses. The engaging upslant of Doris Duke's eyes. Like Fritzi Scheff's. Just when the theater seems bowing out, along comes a hit.

One word description of Irene Bordoni—chirpy. That flutter in front of Sak's is pink-haired Hope Hampton stepping from a dove-gray car. Gene Crawley and George Olsen should hold a teeth matching contest some day. Hooray for that restaurant's window card: "We do not handle French wines."

Sid Solomon's face always looks freshly scoured. What a change—a Ziegfeld Follies at the Winter Garden! Hattie Bell Johnston and Gracie Allen look alike. That's a funny line D. O. Morley wrote about the nudist "who burned his britches behind him." At 60, I hope to wear only smock and sandals.

One of my favorite people—Rosamond Pinchot. Nobody yet has touched Roxy for a gorgeous stage spectacle. What became of Shelia Barrett? Just then I had an idea for a line—and zip it's gone. O, yes, it was about Edythe Baker, that little frou-frou pianist of the Midnight Frolic.

She's one of the actual social rages of London. Invited to private dinner parties of Wales and all that. Kansas City born, I believe. Lots of folk going to live on house-boats this summer. Arthur McKeogh started it. The swoop of the decade—from penthouse to shanty boat!

It's a burning ever-present curiosity of mine to know what a man who really knows cuisine eats. I sat next table to a celebrated gourmet at Pierce's today. He was having lunch—I breakfast. His order: a clear soup with thin toast. Followed by a mixed salad, a cup of coffee, topped off by a strawberry tart and nubbin of cheese. What a sensible lunch!

Talkies seem especially appealing to Japanese families. At the Capitol last night a father, mother and three cutely bobbed children sat directly in front. A prosaic scene where a young man came out on a moonlit veranda with his sweetheart seemed to tickle their collective risibilities. There was much restrained giggling among all which continued on into the news reels. They left tittering. I remained to see the scene again but am still non-plussed. I continue to wonder what it was. Probably American manners in contrast to Nipponese.

Such a twinge of guilt stumbling upon love-making! On an arched bridge over a Central Park bridle path this evening I saw a young man and young woman leaning over the gray stone, gazing at nothing in particular save perhaps their future. Under cover of their arms they held hands. I tried not to be heard but at my heel crush or gravel they turned in a midst of a kiss, their eyes like fields full of moon calves. I wanted to skeedaddle.

About the park, too, is always one of those proprietory elderly gentlemen bristling with a feeling of ownership. I was eddied with him under a shelter house during a shower. "Not so many squirrels about in winter," I observed, merely to make conversation. "Why do you say that?" he snapped, and if they were to shoot me that minute, I couldn't tell. Like Chic Sale's small town wisecracker completely baffled in a matching of wits, I longed to scream: "Oh, go comb your hair!"

Aeronautics Bureau Victim Of Political Control

By James T. Williams, Jr.

HAVING waited until the extra session of the new Congress adjourned last June to select a successor to Col. Clarence M. Young to assist the Secretary of Commerce in administering the air commerce act of 1926, Mr. Roper has been able to keep to himself ever since then the reason for the appointment of the Hon. Ewing Y. Mitchell, of Missouri, to that office.

Evidently Mr. Mitchell came to his new office under the impression that it involved a very close association with the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. At any rate, very early in his term he began consulting the son of the Secretary of Commerce, who for some time has been the executive secretary of that committee.

* * *

Talk of Replacing Medical Examiners

IT was following a consultation between Mr. Mitchell and several of Secretary Roper's political appointees, who were then serving as assistant directors of the aeronautics branch, that an appointment was made with Executive Secretary Richard F. Roper at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee to discuss ways and means of replacing the medical examiners throughout the country.

At this consultation it was explained to the political "smart-alecks" present that these medical examiners had been designated in utter disregard of their political affiliation. They were selected after an advertisement had been placed in one of the best known medical journals of the country.

This advertisement requested physicians and surgeons who had made a study of aviation medicine and were willing to accept designation as medical examiners in the aeronautics branch to write in to the Department of Commerce and send recommendations from their local medical societies and a statement of their professional qualifications.

The Aero-Medical Association, as soon as its members heard what was under way, went to the public with a warning that gave Assistant Secretary Mitchell pause. And the resolutions of protest they adopted at Chicago against that part of Secretary Roper's first "reorganization," which had to do with the medical examination of pilots, sent this ultimatum to Mr. Roper, Mr. Mitchell and the then political appointees to the newly created positions of assistant directors.

* * *

Ultimatum Sent To Mr. Roper

THE selection of medical examiners of the Department of Commerce has heretofore been based upon ability and training, and political considerations played no part.

"The Army and Navy permit their pilots to be examined only by those medical officers who have received special training in aviation medicine. The longer a medical examiner has acted for the Department of Commerce, the greater his experience and ability, and therefore the greater his value to the department.

"The removal or appointment of medical examiners for political reasons would result in unsatisfactory, unstandardized examinations that would be to the detriment of aeronautics in general and result in an increased accident rate."

Nevertheless Democratic senators in Congress were notified either by Secretary Roper's department or by Executive Secretary Roper's office at Democratic headquarters, or both, of the names of physicians and surgeons who made up the list of medical examiners in their respective states. Whether they were asked to offer recommendation for replacements, or rather suggestions, will probably not be known until an outraged public sentiment compels the Congress to turn the light of an impartial investigation on Secretary Roper's alleged "reorganization" of what Congress intended to be a non-political and highly efficient agency of the Federal government.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

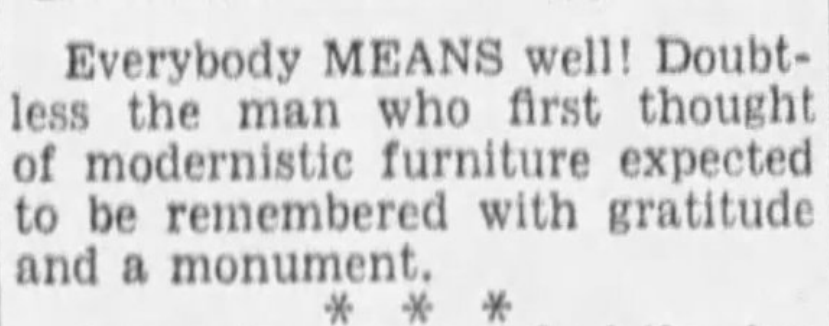
By Helen Rowland

Blots on Those 'New Leaves'

It appears to be a sort of obsession with the modern man to marry something beautiful-but-dumb—and then spend the rest of his life relieving his boredom by playing around with women who "understand" him.

* * *

Most girls go to parties with the idea of meeting some nice interesting men; but nine times out of 10 it is the casual accidental meeting which leads to the altar. Because, somehow, a woman is always more attractive when she is not on parade or out for conquest.



WE MAY MEET SOME 'CUTE' MEN AT TH' PARTY

Everybody MEANS well! Doubtless the man who first thought of modernistic furniture expected to be remembered with gratitude and a monument.

* * *

A man has not reached the Age of Discretion until he believes the most unflattering things his doctor tells him; a woman, until she believes the most unflattering things her mirror tells her.

* * *

Love is the most difficult thing for a successful woman to find—yet it is the only thing that makes her achievements worth while. If you marry for love and don't get it you've simply been "taken for a ride."

Also, a woman never CAN express her true opinion of her husband—not even on his tombstone.

I THOUGHT YOU HAD TURNED OVER A NEW LEAF
I DID BUT I GOT A BLOT ON IT

A man's first love is always an "angel"—which is probably why he so seldom has the courage to marry her.

* * *

GROSS ABUSES OF CIVIL JUSTICE

JUSTICE, and courts of justice, are of two kinds—criminal and civil—and BOTH KINDS have failed utterly in the states of America.

The failure of criminal justice has become appalling.

It has corrupted our local politics, impaired the public confidence in local government, subjected the courts and prosecutors to suspicion and contumely, and—as the country has lately seen—it has brought forth an ominous recurrence of lynch law in widely separated parts of the nation.

Here obviously is a demoralized and demoralizing condition with which the negligent legislatures of the states must be made to deal—and if the legislatures do not deal with it forcefully and drastically, then the people will have to deal forcefully and drastically with their legislatures.

However, the breakdown in criminal law enforcement is actually LESS THAN HALF THE STORY of the complete failure of justice in America.

Reform will be FUTILE if it looks to the criminal courts alone.

DENIALS and abuses and betrayals of justice in our CIVIL COURTS are no whit less flagrant, and are HUNDREDS OF TIMES more frequent, than in the criminal courts.

Furthermore, they are socially and economically MORE COSTLY, and have been the cause of MORE HUMAN MISERY than all the gross miscarriages of criminal justice put together.

Perhaps the most scathing indictment ever made of our deplorable "administration" of civil justice has just been submitted to the Governor of New York.

This presentment comes not from aggrieved laymen, nor from uninformed radicals, but from RESPECTABLE AND RESPECTED LAWYERS who can no longer stomach the grevious evils against which they protest.

Under the leadership of Henry Ward Beers as president, and of Prof. I. Maurice Wormser as chairman of a committee on the law's delays the Federal Bar Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut has made an exhaustive study of the civil courts in several counties of New York.

FOLLOWING are a few of the startling facts ascertained:

1—In all the five counties of New York City, as well as in Nassau and Westchester counties, it takes from THREE TO FIVE YEARS for a citizen to have his case tried before a jury—a right guaranteed by the Constitution.

2—Jury calendars in three of those counties are continuing to fall behind "at the rate of no less than NINE MONTHS A YEAR."

3—In Brooklyn alone (Kings County) conditions in the city court are "so terrible" that 22,000 CASES remain untried today—and "the number of people demanding their day in court steadily and rapidly increases WITH NO HOPE FOR RELIEF."

"If the court," says the report, "does not receive ANOTHER CASE, it will take OVER FOUR YEARS to clean up its calendar."

4—The City Court of Manhattan is "9,000 CASES BEHIND," the Supreme Court in New York County is "14,000 CASES LATE TO DATE," and Westchester County is "FOUR YEARS LATE."

"It is no exaggeration to say," declared Mr. Beers, "that MORE THAN 500,000 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN are now the innocent victims of the state's neglect. Their numbers CONTINUE TO MULTIPLY each day."

THINK of it, citizens of America! In just one state, and in ONLY A PORTION of that state, MORE THAN HALF A MILLION PERSONS wait for justice—and wait in vain.

And consider, moreover, that this vast army of sufferers are, many of them, HELPLESS PHYSICALLY as well as financially and legally. Again we quote Mr. Beers:

"If the public could be made to realize that THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE, with legs and arms off, blind and with other deformities, who are in many instances the breadwinners of their large families, are waiting for the trial of their lawsuits due to accidents, they would be DETERMINED TO DO SOMETHING about this situation which is . . . existing in our midst WITH NOTHING DONE ABOUT IT."

Well, what is the public going to do about this inhumane condition—not only in New York, but in every state where rotten politics and legal chicane and official incompetency have made a bitter mockery of the word "justice?"

FOR fifty years, while the condition has been developing, THE BAR ASSOCIATIONS have done nothing. Instead, they have permitted if not encouraged the scandalous condition to grow.

For fifty years, THE LEGISLATURES have done virtually nothing—except to make bad conditions WORSE by enacting court rules and special statutes which hamper the administration of justice and FAVOR THE SHYSTER AND PETTIFOGGING LAWYER of which the legistures are very largely composed.

Consequently, THE PUBLIC will have to take vigorous action—if ANYTHING REALLY EFFECTIVE is to be done at all.

And a remedy lies at hand.

Legislatures are the SERVANTS, not the MASTERS, of the public—and an aroused public can do one of two things—

Either they can COMPEL their legislators to act, or they can ELECT new legislators who will act.

LET one or the other of these things promptly be done!

Let outraged public opinion assert itself in practical politics throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Let it DEMAND that the SOURCES of these great and growing evils and injustices which disgrace our land be abolished, so that CRIMINALS may be punished as they deserve and WIDOWS AND ORPHANS, not criminals, may be PROTECTED, as they should be in any civilized government.

LET US HAVE AN AMERICAN JUSTICE CAMPAIGN—a campaign for JUSTICE and HONESTY.

The Leaven Is Working

State Treasurer Waters Gives an Impressive Argument for the Abandonment of Oxcart Government.

Wider and wider, throughout the state, are spreading the ripples which have resulted from the demand that we shall get rid of the archaic forms of local government that have come down to us from the days of the oxcart.

State Treasurer Charles A. Waters made an impressive address in furtherance of this demand before the Cumberland County Taxpayers' Federation Wednesday night.

He pointed out that we have 5,637 local government taxing units in Pennsylvania. Many of them are useless and should be abolished. Mr. Waters boldly advised the abolition of 1,515 second-class townships. There is no longer need for that form of local government. He asserted that by scientifically reorganizing the governmental structure to conform to modern conditions we could lop ten million dollars a year from Pennsylvania's real estate tax burden without curtailing a single useful function.

Let others to whom we look for leadership in such matters cast aside selfish and prejudiced considerations and join Secretary Waters in this demand, and it will not be long until the Legislature will be forced to act and to give the people the more efficient and more economical government for which they are calling.

An Outside Viewpoint

There is sometimes danger that those who are close to an object or an event will not have the proper perspective, and so may get a distorted view of it.

In forming an estimate of Mayor W. N. McNair's official actions there is the possibility, too, that Pittsburghers may be influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the fact that they have personal axes to grind.

These considerations give value to an outside or distant point of view.

We find some interesting comment on Mayor McNair in Wednesday's issue of the Oil City Blizzard. The editor of that paper regrets that "instead of cashing in on the opportunity giving him to govern better, his (McNair's) attention has been directed to apparently trivial things on which he has taken rather ridiculous attitudes." The editor goes on to say:

"His latest blast is against the cheap whisky now being sold in the state liquor stores, and a threat—later modified—to raid the stores. That matter is not within the province of the Mayor. There are more pressing matters to which he could give his attention. Such actions merely put weapons in the hands of the machine to attack him and furnish means to rebuke those who fought for good government."

It is sometimes salutary to see ourselves as others see us.

The Question Raises Why Many Abandoned Pennsylvania Farms Could Not Again Be Put to Use

M. L. Wilson, director of homesteads in the Department of the Interior, has announced the purchase of 1,600 acres of land near Mount Pleasant, in Westmoreland County, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Morgantown, W. Va. Two hundred and fifty families are to be taken from the stranded industrial population and established on the land in "subsistence homesteads."

This news item raises anew the question why Pennsylvania's abandoned farms should not again be put to use quite generally.

Throughout Western Pennsylvania there are numerous extensive tracts of arable land which for years have lain fallow. In the last century large families were raised and clothed and educated solely on the proceeds from these farms. The children grew up, yielded to the lure of the towns, the old folks died, and the farms were abandoned.

But that census also showed that Pennsylvania farms were producing 19 per cent more to the acre than 30 years before, which suggests that the abandoned farms might be made to yield, under improved modern methods of agriculture, a better living than they did in the last century.

Good roads, automobiles, telephones, rural mail delivery, radios and improved schools make country life more attractive, too, than when the young men and women of a generation or two ago left the farms to come to the city.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Mae West's nearest double is Blossom Seeley. Helen Menken suggests a green-shuttered white villa set in cypresses. The engaging upslant of Doris Duke's eyes. Like Fritzi Scheff's. Just when the theater seems bowing out, along comes a hit.

One word description of Irene Bordoni—chirpy. That flutter in front of Sak's is pink-haired Hope Hampton stepping from a dove-gray car. Gene Crawley and George Olsen should hold a teeth matching contest some day. Hooray for that restaurant's window card: "We do not handle French wines."

Sid Solomon's face always looks freshly scoured. What a change—a Ziegfeld Follies at the Winter Garden! Hattie Bell Johnston and Gracie Allen look alike. That's a funny line D. O. Morley wrote about the nudist "who burned his britches behind him." At 60, I hope to wear only smock and sandals.

One of my favorite people—Rosamond Pinchot. Nobody yet has touched Roxy for a gorgeous stage spectacle. What became of Shelia Barrett? Just then I had an idea for a line—and zip it's gone. O, yes, it was about Edythe Baker, that little frou-frou pianist of the Midnight Frolic.

She's one of the actual social rages of London. Invited to private dinner parties of Wales and all that. Kansas City born, I believe. Lots of folk going to live on house-boats this summer. Arthur McKeogh started it. The swoop of the decade—from penthouse to shanty boat!

It's a burning ever-present curiosity of mine to know what a man who really knows cuisine eats. I sat next table to a celebrated gourmet at Pierce's today. He was having lunch—I breakfast. His order: a clear soup with thin toast. Followed by a mixed salad, a cup of coffee, topped off by a strawberry tart and nubbin of cheese. What a sensible lunch!

Such a twinge of guilt stumbling upon love-making! On an arched bridge over a Central Park bridle path this evening I saw a young man and young woman leaning over the gray stone, gazing at nothing in particular save perhaps their future. Under cover of their arms they held hands. I tried not to be heard but at my heel crush or gravel they turned in a midst of a kiss, their eyes like fields full of moon calves. I wanted to skeedaddle.

About the park, too, is always one of those proprietory elderly gentlemen bristling with a feeling of ownership. I was eddied with him under a shelter house during a shower. "Not so many squirrels about in winter," I observed, merely to make conversation. "Why do you say that?" he snapped, and if they were to shoot me that minute, I couldn't tell. Like Chic Sale's small town wisecracker completely baffled in a matching of wits, I longed to scream: "Oh, go comb your hair!"

Aeronautics Bureau Victim Of Political Control

By James T. Williams, Jr.

HAVING waited until the extra session of the new Congress adjourned last June to select a successor to Col. Clarence M. Young to assist the Secretary of Commerce in administering the air commerce act of 1926, Mr. Roper has been able to keep to himself ever since then the reason for the appointment of the Hon. Ewing Y. Mitchell, of Missouri, to that office.

Evidently Mr. Mitchell came to his new office under the impression that it involved a very close association with the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. At any rate, very early in his term he began consulting the son of the Secretary of Commerce, who for some time has been the executive secretary of that committee.

* * *

Talk of Replacing Medical Examiners

IT was following a consultation between Mr. Mitchell and several of Secretary Roper's political appointees, who were then serving as assistant directors of the aeronautics branch, that an appointment was made with Executive Secretary Richard F. Roper at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee to discuss ways and means of replacing the medical examiners throughout the country.

At this consultation it was explained to the political "smart-alecks" present that these medical examiners had been designated in utter disregard of their political affiliation. They were selected after an advertisement had been placed in one of the best known medical journals of the country.

This advertisement requested physicians and surgeons who had made a study of aviation medicine and were willing to accept designation as medical examiners in the aeronautics branch to write in to the Department of Commerce and send recommendations from their local medical societies and a statement of their professional qualifications.

The Aero-Medical Association, as soon as its members heard what was under way, went to the public with a warning that gave Assistant Secretary Mitchell pause. And the resolutions of protest they adopted at Chicago against that part of Secretary Roper's first "reorganization," which had to do with the medical examination of pilots, sent this ultimatum to Mr. Roper, Mr. Mitchell and the then political appointees to the newly created positions of assistant directors.

* * *

Ultimatum Sent To Mr. Roper

THE selection of medical examiners of the Department of Commerce has heretofore been based upon ability and training, and political considerations played no part.

"The Army and Navy permit their pilots to be examined only by those medical officers who have received special training in aviation medicine. The longer a medical examiner has acted for the Department of Commerce, the greater his experience and ability, and therefore the greater his value to the department.

"The removal or appointment of medical examiners for political reasons would result in unsatisfactory, unstandardized examinations that would be to the detriment of aeronautics in general and result in an increased accident rate."

Nevertheless Democratic senators in Congress were notified either by Secretary Roper's department or by Executive Secretary Roper's office at Democratic headquarters, or both, of the names of physicians and surgeons who made up the list of medical examiners in their respective states. Whether they were asked to offer recommendation for replacements, or rather suggestions, will probably not be known until an outraged public sentiment compels the Congress to turn the light of an impartial investigation on Secretary Roper's alleged "reorganization" of what Congress intended to be a non-political and highly efficient agency of the Federal government.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

Blots on Those 'New Leaves'

It appears to be a sort of obsession with the modern man to marry something beautiful-but-dumb—and then spend the rest of his life relieving his boredom by playing around with women who "understand" him.

* * *

Most girls go to parties with the idea of meeting some nice interesting men; but nine times out of 10 it is the casual accidental meeting which leads to the altar. Because, somehow, a woman is always more attractive when she is not on parade or out for conquest.

BULLARD LAUDS WAR PICTURE LESSON

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Wide-spread interest and comment rom civic and military leaders, cluding Gen. Robert Lee Bulrd, retired, commander of the t Division in the World War, llowed the publication in last unday's Pittsburgh Sun-Teleaph, New York American and her Hearst papers of five full ges of uncensored pictures owing the horrors of the "First orld War."

In line with the generally expressed opinion that the starkly realistic symposium should prove an unparalleled object lesson for an adequate Army and Navy to prevent a repetition of such horrors, Gen. Bullard said:

"If we want peace and want to stop such further war horrors, we must be prepared to keep foes from attacking us in the future. In presenting these pictures that idea and not the 'peace at any price' idea should be further developed.

"An adequate Army and Navy to prevent war just as an adequate police force prevents crime horrors is the lesson that should be drawn from these pictures. Civilization's growth throughout the whole history of the world has been practically proportionate to the growth of armaments.

"The simple publication of such horror pictures is not enough if the lesson is not brought home to the people that the only way to prevent them in the future is to prepare yourself so that any foe will hesitate about tackling you."

"The republication of these wartime pictures, which reveal the ghastly cost of war in human life and property, seems to be a smashing object lesson which must have a fine impress upon the whole nation . . . It should lead us to prompt insurance of adequate protection on land and sea against any sort of a hostile attack.

"I have been much stirred by the work of the New York American and associated Hearst newspapers for a larger Navy, and I hope that Mr. Hearst will continue his most aggressive campaign toward that end."

[illegible] C. Hofmann, junior vice commander, Department of New York, Veterans of Foreign Wars, said:

"I regard this graphic depiction of the gruesome effects of war as a most effective means of awakening the American people to the need for a full-strength land, sea and air force. Such scenes must not be enacted again, so far as America is concerned.

"These scenes hammer home the necessity for the nation awakening to the truth of the statement of one of our early day statesmen to the effect that 'Preparedness for war is one of the most effective means of preserving peace.'"

ENGLISH FLOUR MILLS TO CLOSE

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The Merseyside Association of Flour Millers has announced that every flour mill in the northwestern area of England will close down for one week, suspending several thousand workers.

The association claimed the country was being flooded with subsidized foreign flour, selling at very low prices.

It said efforts of the millers to retain and increase their export trade had been handicapped seriously as no rebate or duty on foreign wheats used in the manufacture of flour for export was obtainable.

Drop Denomination For 'Pilgrimage'

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Three clergymen of different faiths completed a 9,000-mile "pilgrimage of understanding" around the country with a meeting at which they reported a growing spirit of tolerance.

The Rev. Father J. Elliot Ross, of Charlottesville, Va.; Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron, of Baltimore, and the Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, of New York, led seminars and discussion meetings in 38 cities from here to the Pacific Coast under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians.

Dog's Friendliness Traps Theft Suspect

NSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 26.— — Leroy McLaughlin, 22, was wishing today he was less friendly with dogs. Because "Buster," watching bulldog at the home of Roy Barkley did not bark when a thief looted the place of jewelry, police sought a former roomer who had been on good terms with the animal. That led, officers said, to Leroy and a confession.

Mountain Goat Timed At 19 Miles an Hour

BELTON, Mont., Jan. 26.—(AP.)—How fast can a mountain goat run? John T. Emlen, ornithologist from Cornell University, raced his car with one for a short distance along the Going-to-the-Sun highway in Glacier National Park and calculated the animal ran 19 miles an hour over a 100-yard stretch.

Mercer Farmers Meet February 21

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—February 21 has been set as the date for the annual meeting of the Mercer County Agricultural Extension Association by the organization's directors.

MANAGER RULE IN CINCINNATI NETS SURPLUS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Plain business "horse sense" was described by officialdom today as one of the principal reasons why Cincinnati—practically alone among major cities of the nation—finished 1933 without a deficit.

In these days when many municipalities are hard put to meet their payrolls, Cincinnati not only ended the year without a deficit but it began 1934 with a clear surplus of $942,000.

MANAGER EXPLAINS

Cincinnati's gross surplus technically was more than $4,000,000, deductions for bills coming due brought the actual figure down to $942,000.

C. A. Dykstra, tall, scholarly city manager, who once was a university professor, explained. Certain 1932 taxes that had been under litigation came to the treasury at last. Liquor taxes that had not been considered came along. A balance—likely, but not seriously counted on—came from a sewer fund from Hamilton County. All were chickens the administration refused to count until they were hatched.

And then there were administrative savings. In these lies the business "horse sense."

For instance, a simplified method of billing has saved approximately $100,000 a year to the city waterworks; reorganization of the Department of Public Works saved $26,000, more than doubled the salary of its head; development of an efficient method of garbage collection gave a municipal system for $100,000 a year less than was bid by a private concern, and a study of transportation methods and adequate control of motor equipment made it possible to divert another $100,000 from motor vehicle operating funds.

TAX RATE REDUCED

The surplus was the result. Part of it has been applied to a 77-cent reduction in the city tax rate which, at $10.69 per $1,000 assessed (100 per cent) valuation, was the lowest of any city of 300,000 population or more in 1933.

The total tax rate paid by Cincinnati property owners, which includes school and county levies, was $21.96 for 1933. With this total rate Cincinnati ranks second in cities of 300,000 to 500,000 population. Washington, D. C., which has no county taxes, ranked first with $17. For comparative purposes, the taxes of other cities in this class were adjusted on the 100 per cent valuation basis. Cincinnati has approximately 451,000 inhabitants.

The City Council has held budget appropriations for 1934 to $14,659,787, or $127,527 under last year, even though employes are being repaid $50 a year cut from their pay in 1933.

City, county and school board purchasing agents now buy almost everything together, winning savings through the size of their orders. There is a suggestion that the city buy a year's supply of gasoline all at once. There is another of using excess power at the Water Works for certain street lights.

Figures prepared by the Bureau of Governmental Research of Buffalo, show that the per capita cost of operating Cincinnati's government is less than the average. For 1932 the cost was $22.99 against th average of $27.96. School costs, administered here by a separate unit, are not included in the figures.

SHORT WEIGHT COAL WAR ON

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26—The Department of Internal Affairs is busy setting up machinery under the Baldi act to protect the public against short weight in the purchase of coal.

Numerous persons in the eastern section of the state have been victims of short weighting chiefly in the purchase of so-called "bootleg coal" mined at abandoned coal properties and trucked to other cities for sale.

The Baldi act provides that each purchaser of coal must be given a slip showing the weight, quality of the product and the signature and license number of the public weighmaster.

Public weighmasters' licenses cost $5 each and are expected to net the commonwealth $40,000.

Sucker Fishing Swells Licenses

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—The ever-increasing popularity of winter sucker fishing in Pennsylvania is creating a fairly brisk demand for 1934 fishing licenses, according to reports from county treasurers to the Fish Commission.

The orange and black buttons have been placed on sale in every county treasurer's office so that sucker fishers can obtain their licenses without delay.

Stork Visits Twins Within Few Hours

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 26.—Mrs. A. Hopkins was congratulating her twin sister, Mrs. Chester Rice, who had given birth to a daughter the day before. While the two were talking in the hospital room, Mrs. Hopkins was forced to call her physician. A few hours later she, too, became the mother of a baby girl.

'UNKNOWN' GIRL GETS OPERA CONTRACT

By JOHN KOBLER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Six months ago Rose Marie Brancato, 21, Kansas City coloratura, was merely a "super" at Radio Music Hall. She was poor, unknown and getting $35 a week.

Then she was laid off.

The other day Marion Talley, also of Kansas City, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera of New York, who had come out of retirement to sing for the Chicago Civic Opera, withdrew—and Rose Marie sang in her stead.

Now Rose Marie has a five-year contract with Impresario Francis Coppicus and awaits an audition at the Metropolitan.

'BEST THING HAPPENED'

She said:

"The best thing that ever happened to me was to lose my job at the Radio City Music Hall. I was just a chorus girl, singing away, five times a day, and ruining my voice."

"It was too bad. We had to cut down on our singers. Scores were being laid off. We investigated Miss Brancato's case, and found that we should be doing her a favor by releasing her. She was a lovely girl, attractive, well-bred, thoroughly pleasant. We'd certainly take her back now."

NOT A CHANCE

But there's not a chance of her going back, not since a Chicago audience gave her an arousing ovation when she made her operatic debut as Gilda in Rigoletto.

Miss Brancato says:

"It all began when I was 15. I studied music then at high school. Later I went to the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, and got a chance to sing minor roles in the Rochester Civic Repertory. Since my daddy died mother has not been able to help me out much. She wanted me home anyway, but I managed to earn a living doing various musical jobs. I worked in a chorus to be able to study under Estelle Leibling in New York. I met Jeritza there, and she was the one who recommended me for the role of Gilda."

Miss Brancato is American-born of Italian extraction. Like Marion Talley, she made her debut in Rigoletto.

6 BISON SLAIN IN ANNUAL HUNT

The hunt started last Saturday in Houserock Valley, winter feeding ground of the only wild buffalo herd in this country.

The six hunters, five men and a woman, Mrs. Cora Salisbury, singled out and slew the animals designated by State Game Warden S. L. Lewis. The 114 animals remaining in the herd went back to their grazing, safe for another year. Mrs. Salisbury is the wife of Dr. C. G. Salisbury, superintendent of the Sage Memorial Hospital at Granado.

The first huge bison to be killed was an ancient bull which during two previous hunts cannily had deserted the herds before the firing started. This year he was late in starting for his hideout, and the rifle of R. V. Sapp, of Phoenix, brough him down.

The hunters each retained the hide and herd and 100 pounds of meat. The remainder of the meat was to be disposed of by the State Game Department, probably to state institutions.

VET GETS WISH, DIES NEAR SHIP

"When I die, I want to be among my friends—and near the ships."

For 14 years he lived at the naval home. He could see the boats on the Schuylkill River to remind him of his whaling days before the war and his later service aboard the frigate Ohio.

Then he went to visit his daughter, Mrs. Albert Albright, in Pottstown, and became ill. He told her:

"I think I'm about to go. I want to be back there—among my shipmates—when I die."

An ambulance was sent from the Navy Yard and the old sailor was brought back "home" amid the ships. He died less than 24 hours later. The funeral will be with military honors tomorrow, at Pottstown.

Men Grow Whiskers For Old-Time Dance

CLAYTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Whiskers like grandfather had are being grown by the local males in preparation for the old western dance, a "rip-snorting" entertainment which lasts three days and nights without interruption. The women will wear the styles of bygone days.

Prosecutor 'Fines' His Bachelor Aide

Parriott revealed he has "fined" Gerald McAuliffe, the only bachelor on his staff, $100 a year salary reduction.

'Salome' Music Held to Justify Place in Opera

By LEONARD LIEBLING

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—After two renewed hearings of "Salome" at the Metropolitan, the impression is left upon impartial observers that it is a great opera even if the book deals with three outstandingly degenerate characters and ends with an incident particularly shocking to persons of delicate sensibilities and sincere religious convictions.

The revival of the work is justified on account of the marvelous musical score supplied by Richard Strauss. This department has on recent occasions expatiated on the genius of that compelling, graphic and frequently beautiful music. No first-class opera house would be justified in condemning "Salome" to silent oblivion.

At the Metropolitan "premiere" the roles were all well done except by the titular heroine, Mme. Ljungberg, and the Narraboth, interpreted by Hans Clemens. Max Lorenz, as Herod; Friedrich Schorr, the Jochanaan, and Doris Doe, the page, shone outstandingly. They had never before sung those parts. Above everything else, however, the stars of the show are Artur Bodanzky and his orchestra. That conductor leads with tremendous ardor, imagination and elemental sweep. The result tops all his many other fine artistic achievements at the Metropolitan.

STRAUSS DEFENDED

There are some persons, of course, who have never admitted the greatness of Strauss and do not admit it now.

To such tonal pinchbecks, one should quote what the renowned "Mr. Dooley" (or was it Siegfried O'Houlihan?) said many years ago:

* * *

"Most musicians in New York buy their shoes from one dealer who specializes in re-inforcing the soles of the right shoes, which are always worn thin before the left ones, because all musicians tap the right foot to keep time while playing."

All musicians, mein bruder? Not so. Contrary to general belief the best of them keep both feet on the ground, especially when appearing at concerts or in opera. In a long career of public listening I have never seen any of the leading music-makers tap out the time while they are performing . . . of course jazz leaders do it, but that is logical, for the music they play is mostly for the feet.

TOSCANINI'S PLIGHT

When the Philharmonic Orchestra broke away from Arturo Toscanini for a few measures last Sunday and made a mess of a passage in Ravels "Bolero," the mishap was doubly unfortunate because the piece is so well-known to even the least informed of musical listeners.

The incident recalls a contretemps which Toscanini suffered with the same composition when he led it for the first time in Paris. Ravel, who is a poor hand at conducting but thinks himself a master of the baton, was present at the concert in question. Toscanini, taking some liberty or other in tempo or dynamics, annoyed the composer to such an extent that he made audible degrogatory comments, hissed, and almost brought about an open scandal, but was finally "shushed" into silence by the audience, whose members did not seem to agree at all with Ravel's view and rewarded Toscanini's interpretation with especially warm plaudits and prolonged cries of "Bravo."

EXPLAIN ICICLE FORMATION

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—When roofs are heavily-covered with snow and the temperature remains below freezing, long icicles may develop, hanging their dagger-like lengths from eaves or window sashes and imperiling the heads of the unsuspecting passerby.

Formation of these icicles, weather scientists explained today, is due to the melting of the under layer of snow. The water runs from under the blanket and reaches the edge of the eaves where it is instantly chilled by the cold air and an icicle forms.

In a snowy winter, they said, icicles 10 feet long and eight inches in diameter are not infrequently seen. Smaller icicles form fringes on the lower margins of the upper sashes of windows. When the frost on the window melts, the moisture often runs down the crack between the two sashes and freezes, furnishing the water for the little icicles.

Courage Needed, Says Pennypacker

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Courage and character are needed to meet the perplexing embarrassment, financial and political, prevailing in our commonwealth, in the opinion of Dr. Isaac R. Pennypacker, distinguished historian. He said:

"Our state's government is disorganized; its financial resources are near exhaustion; additional indebtedness of many millions have been piled up by the Legislature, Governor and popular vote; interest and sinking fund must be paid annually."

Wolves and Coyotes Gain in Numbers

DOCTORS TRACE MUMPS TO VIRUS

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL

Universal Service Science Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—A particular new virus has been found, as the cause of the disease of mumps.

This is announced by Drs. Claud D. Johnson and Ernest W. Goodpasture, Vanderbilt University medical scientists, who worked on the problems of mumps under a Rockefeller Foundation endownment.

The disease, as is well known, leads to severe infection of the salivary glands, and its cause had never been definitely found. The current theory so far was that some germ is responsible.

Now, Drs. Johnson and Goodpasture have found that in experiments made on monkeys mumps could be induced by injection of a virus. This virus, a substance too small to be observable under the most powerful microscopes and filterable, is never found in normal saliva.

The virus was obtained from the mouth secretions of four out of six early stage cases of mumps. When it was injected into the parotid or salivary glands of the monkeys, these animals developed severe symptoms of what in human beings would be called mumps.

The virus was unlike the virus of any other disease, infantile paralysis, common cold or what not.

Such studies are necessary in order to devise methods of immunizing or preventing and curing an infection. Concerning mumps, Drs. Johnson and Goodpasture report that a considerable degree of immunity was produced by the injection of a mixture of weakened mumps virus and convalescent serum from patients who had recovered from the disease.

Convalescent serum by itself was much less effective in preventing mumps.

NEW PRESS GAG SET BY NAZIS

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—German journalists henceforth will be subject to discipline by special professional courts to be created under a decree issued by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, propoganda minister, and Minister of Justice Franz Guertner.

The measure stipulates that a district press court function at the seat of every state press association with a court of appeals in Berlin.

Penalties may range from monetary fines to the most extreme form—namely striking a defendant's name off the Nazi journalists' list, which means loss of the right to work in the profession.

The government already had acted to do away with the freedom of the press through the law making newspapermen public officials.

The law does not apply to foreign newspapermen in Germany, but only to Germans or foreigners working for German newspapers.

NAZI 'DUMPING' UNDER BAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau has found that woven wire fencing and netting from Germany was being dumped in this country and that an extra duty should be imposed.

He said the domestic industry "is being and is likely to be injured by reason of the importation into the United States of woven wire fencing and netting from Germany and that such woven wire fencing and netting are being sold and are likely to be sold in the United States at less than their fair value."

The Secretary of the Treasury also ruled that reports of the dumping of electric motors from England were "not justified."

Mercer Vets Ready For First Aid Work

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Expected to be the model for similar units throughout the commonwealth, Mercer County's American Legion has completed plans for an emergency corps to give trained aid in case of disasters and to assist officers of the law on short notice.

The Mercer County American Legion Emergency Corps will be able to supply 360 trained rescue workers, 275 trucks, 235 other automobiles, 24 ambulances, 49 nurses and 110 qualified first-aid workers when needed, according to legion officials.

Beggar, 85, Found To Be Worth $5,200

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 26.—Arrested while begging on the Boardwalk, 85-year-old Louis Block was found to be carrying money and securities totaling $5,200.

Letters found in his pockets also showed that about a month or so ago he appealed to President Roosevelt and to Gov. Moore for aid. Replies to the appeals informed him to seek aid at local relief agencies.

Jealous Wife Must Pay $1,750 for Blow

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26. (AP.)—It will cost Mrs. Fay E. Marquez $1,750 for hitting in the nose a woman who was talking with her husband, D. K. Marquez.

Mrs. Lola B. Roberds told Superior Judge Leon Vankwich she was standing on the steps of her home in Manhattan Beach last May 23, talking to Marquez when Mrs. Marquez ran up and struck her. Mrs. Roberds sued for $30,000 and was awarded $1,750.

Taller and Heavier Firemen Now Preferred

Under the latests pecifications of the Civil Service Commission, now in effect, all applicants must be taller and heavier—the better to do their heavy duty work. Said Fire Chief Ralph Scott:

"Every fireman is supposed to be able to carry a 200-pound person down a ladder. They just try and hope for the best."

FISHER MODEL RECALLS START

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Her striking beauty undimmed by the passing of more than two decades, Harrison Fisher's original "Girl of the Golden West" lives modestly here, surrounded by countless mementoes of other years.

She is Mrs. Frederick Montague, a widow since 1919. Twenty-four years ago, when she first met the noted artist in a San Francisco hotel, she was 17-year-old Maurine Rasmussen.

As New York paid final tribute to Fisher, who died there last Friday, Mrs. Montague looked back over the intervening years since as a timid girl of 17 she stepped up to the artist in the San Francisco hotel and stammered:

"Do you think I could ever pose for you, Mr. Fisher?"

The artist looked at the girl who was to be the future inspiration and model for some of his most striking work. He said:

When the artist finished the sketch, made on the back of an envelope, he said:

"I want you to come to New York. You are my new Harrison Fisher girl."

This took place in July, 1910. Since then the facial features of Mrs. Montague have smiled from a million magazine covers, postcards and placards.

NEWSPAPER ADS VOTED BEST

Universal Service.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 26.—Preference for newspaper advertising over all other media was voted by 4,500 men and women college students in one of the most far-reaching surveys of "consumer desires" ever conducted in Los Angeles County.

This was part of the findings of the Los Angeles Advertising Club study as reported to the California Newspaper Publishers' Association convention here by W. D. Thurber, chairman of the club survey committee.

In three separate sessions of delegates, representing 300,000 consumers, including students, questions were asked to determine what the average purchaser wants.

Highlights of the findings reported are:

Seventy-seven per cent of all delegates reported they did not read advertising thrown in their yards.

Eighty-six per cent of all women delegates and 57 per cent of the men watch for newspaper advertisements of special sales.

By a vote of 9 to 1, delegates voted for newspaper advertising that is illustrated.

'BEARDED SCOT' FOOTS BILL

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—The annual New Year's gathering at St. Paul's Cathedral had a sequel in the columns of a morning paper, where two advertisements appeared.

The first was an appeal:

"Will the bearded Scot who greeted the New Year by stamping on my foot on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral while singing 'Auld Lang Syne' kindly send 30 shillings to pay medical attendance and this advertisement? Colleen in green."

"Bearded Scot. Thirty shillings received, prefer not renew acquaintance. Foot still hurts. The offer of XYZ who also answered my advertisement, declined with thanks.—Colleen in Green."

Loses Pants Aiding Autoist in Distress

DENVER, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—R. W. Burchett lost his pants while helping a motorist in distress.

Burchett was helping Elmer Arthur lift up one side of Arthur's car after a collision. Another machine whizzed by while Burchett was bending over and scraped off the seat of his trousers. Burchett was badly bruised and embarrassed.

Pompeii's Last Days Going Into Movies

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Hollywood's youngest motion picture company, Pioneer Pictures, financed by John Hay Whitney, New York sportsman, announced today its initial film will be "The Days of Pompeii."

The story is being adapted from Bulwer Lytton's book and will be filmed in color.

SENATE FIGHTS LINK NOTED LEADERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Sufficient political fireworks to light up the national picture, starred by unusual conflicts between well recognized political figures, were foreseen today as likely in the forthcoming senatorial and congressional primary and general elections.

Gossip already is thick on Capitol Hill about contests involving individuals seeking to jump from the House to the Senate and some former Senators, who may try to beat back on the political path through the congressional route.

In Pennsylvania, Senator Reed, Republican, may have a stiff contest for re-election. Joe Guffey, of Pittsburgh, who is handling the Pennsylvania patronage for the Roosevelt administration, is understood to be looking for the Democratic nomination. Gov. Pinchot has been suggested as a coalition candidate, because of his independent Republicanism.

Meanwhile, Representative Stokes, Republican, is considering running for Governor to succeed Pinchot and plans to make a decision within a few days.

In West Virginia, Senator Hatfield, old line Republican, may have a tussle with W. E. Chilton or Representative John Kee, Democrats. Chilton is a well-known publisher in the state and was a Democratic Senator in the Wilson administration.

COPELAND IN RACE

Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, comes up for re-election. While there have been rumors that Representative Mead, of Buffalo, may seek the Democratic nomination, he had not so indicated. Some Republicans want Representative Wadsworth to run for the Senate, and Representative Fish, another Republican, has been discussed.

In Maryland, Senator Goldsborough, Republican, is up for re-election. Until recently there was considerable discussion about the possible candidacy of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, but now it is reported some Democrats are looking to George L. Radcliffe and Brook Lee, well-known figures, to seek the party's nomination.

Senator Townsend (Rep.), of Delaware, has not announced his intentions, but present indications are that should he be renominated, James Connell, Democratic state chairman, will be his opponent.

EDGE MENTIONED

Friends of former Senator Walter E. Edge still mention him as a possible opponent to Senator Kean for the Republican nomination in New Jersey, while Gov. A. Harry Moore and William L. Dill have been suggested for the Democratic nomination.

CONTEST IN TEXAS

Almost nation-wide interest already centers in the campaign between Senator Connally and Representative Bailey for the Texas Democratic Senatorial nomination, which is tantamount to election. Bailey is the son of the late Senator Bailey, noted orator. Connally went from the House to the Senate in 1928.

In Missouri, Representative Milligan is being urged by friends to seek the Democratic nomination. Senator Patterson, Republican, is up for re-election. There is talk that the former Democratic Senator, Jim Reed, fiery orator and critic of the Roosevelt administration, may enter the primary.

Ohio Democrats may furnish a three-cornered Senatorial nomination contest. Gov. George White has announced his candidacy. Representative Truax and Former Gov. A. Vic Donahey are expected by friends to enter. Senator Fess, of Ohio, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, is understood to be planning to seek re-election.

From Indiana comes talk that three Representatives—Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Louis Ludlow and Samuel B. Pettengill—may contest for the Democratic nomination to face Senator Robinson, Republican.

JOHNSON INDEPENDENT

Senator Johnson, Progressive Republican of California, probably will run as an independent. He supported President Roosevelt in 1932, but under California law registered Democrats cannot vote in a Republican primary. Dr. Walter Dexter, president of Whittier College in Southern California, plans to oppose Johnson for the Republican nomination.

Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, probably will seek to succeed himself. Indications are that Sidney P. Osborn, of Phoenix, chairman of the Arizona Democratic Committee, will oppose him for the Democratic nomination.

Senator Key Pitman (Dem.), of Navada, and president pro tem of the Senate, probably will be unopposed for his party's nomination. The name of George W. Malone, state engineer, has been mentioned as the possible Republican nominee.

Although Representative Samuel B. Hill (Dem.), of Washington, has not committed himself either way, many of his friends are urging him to seek the Democratic nomination from Senator Dill, Democrat.

There is talk that Gov. Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, may seek to come to the Senate to succeed Senator Thompson, Democrat, whom he appointed. Representative Burke is also mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate.

Former Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, is being discussed as a probable opponent to Representative Abernethy, of the Third North Carolina District. Simmons fought Alfred E. Smith in 1928 and lost his Democratic seat.

Jailer and Athlete . . . Now Turns to Law

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Paul Jessup, athlete and former jailer here, now tries to keep men out of jail. The holder of the world's discus throwing record has hung up his shingle as a lawyer.
